This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.

+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.

+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.

+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. # GOVERNOR'S MESSAGE.

Gentlemen of the Legislative Assembly:

On the recurrence of another biennial session of your Assembly, we are called to acknowledge the hand of a beneficent Providence, manifest in every step of our progress as a State. We are surrounded with every natural resource for the enjoyment of life, for the accumulation of wealth and for the pursuit of happiness. No State has greater productive forces, and it is probable that no State has greater mineral wealth yet undeveloped.

You assemble here in this spacious structure, now for the first time dedicated to public use, as the people's chosen representatives, to take counsel together how best to subserve the general good and to promote the public honor.

In obedience to my constitutional duty, I now tender to you such information of the present condition of our public affairs as appears to me to be pertinent to the occasion, and to make certain recommendations for your consideration.

The following is a condensed statement of the financial condition of the State, as gathered from the reports of the several branches of the public service, detailed reports of which will be laid before you.

STATE WARRANTS.

| Outstanding, on all accounts, payable out of State Revenue, issued prior to Sept. 14, 1874 | $283,400 83 |
| Outstanding State House Building warrants | 5,639 75 |
| Outstanding Escheat Fund | 624 43 |
| Total | $289,665 01 |

There has been a reduction of outstanding warrants since last biennial report of the Treasurer to the amount of $4,058 17; while all of the warrants drawn on account of current expenses during the last two years have been fully paid.

As the outstanding Soldiers' Relief bonds are not presented for payment, and are not due, the excess of that fund over requirements for interest can be transferred to the General Fund, to pay the expenses of the present Assembly, as required by the Act authorizing the military levy.

CONSTITUTIONAL LIMITATIONS ON STATE DEBTS.

In my last biennial message, the special attention of the Legislature was called to the subject of incurring State debts, as follows:

"Our State Constitution limits the indebtedness of the State to fifty thousand dollars. The provision is as follows: Article 10, Section 7. 'The Legislative Assembly shall not loan the credit of the State, nor in any manner create any debts or liabilities which shall singly, or in the aggregate with previous debts or liabilities, exceed the sum of fifty thousand dollars, except in case of war,' etc. It is contended by some that this provision refers to funded debts only, and not to the margin of outstanding warrants issued for current expenses. But it appears to me that the form of the liability does not vary the binding force of this restriction. The aggregate of all indebtedness against the State should be within fifty thousand dollars. In fact, it was the evieidnt ntention of the framers of our State Constitution that the State should be absolutely free from debt.

"Article 9, Section 2, provides that: 'The Legislative Assembly shall provide for raising revenue sufficient to defray the expenses of the State for each fiscal year, and also a sufficient sum to pay the interest on the State debt, if there be any.' Section 6, of the same article, provides that, 'Whenever the expenses of any fiscal year shall exceed the income, the Legislative Assembly shall provide for levying a tax for the ensuing fiscal year, sufficient, with other sources of income, to pay the deficiency, as well as the estimated expense of the ensuing fiscal year.' These are positive mandates of our fundamental law. The Legislative Assembly is made responsible that the State be free from debt.

"I desire to co-operate with you to enforce these requirements literally."

These restrictions were also brought to the notice of the Legislative Assembly of 1872, in a special message, but their injunctions have remained unexecuted.

The practice has been to make such appropriations as were deemed proper, without inquiring whether the revenues would pay the warrants drawn on the appropriations. The facts are that the appropriations have exceeded the revenues of the State currently for many years, resulting in outstanding unpaid warrants in considerable amounts, bearing interest.

Digitized by Google

The public buildings have been erected without levying a building tax, or accumulating a building fund from other sources; and other special appropriations have been made in large amounts, drawing upon the resources originally intended for the ordinary current support of the State Government.

There has been no power in the hands of the Executive to check this excess of appropriations, without vetoing general appropriation bills on the heel of the session, thereby clogging the wheels of government, or without setting aside leading projects of State policy.

THE REMEDY.

In view of our constitutional restrictions, the general appropriations should be kept absolutely within the strictest estimate of the revenues, and no appropriation for public buildings, nor for any other extraordinary outlay of money, should be made without providing, at the same time, by special tax for revenue, sufficient to meet such extraordinary expense. No better criterion can be adopted by which to judge of the expediency of any special appropriation, than the inquiry whether the people will approve a special tax to cover such public expenditure. In the present condition of our State finances, no measure, unsustained by special provision for revenues to meet the expenditure required by its enactment, will meet with Executive approval.

WEIGHT OF TAXATION.

The people justly complain of the increasing weight of taxation. A general misapprehension exists as to the source of this increase. Some surprise may be manifested when I say that in this State the rate of general taxation has remained the same for twelve years—five mills on the dollar, while during much of that period only four mills have been collected, for reasons not entirely clear. Had the five-mill tax been levied and collected, there would have been no outstanding warrants on the Treasury at this time, and as it is, the amount of outstanding warrants is less than the amount drawn from the Treasury on account of public buildings. I here present a statement of the taxation of property in the city of Salem, as an example of what the people bear in some localities, and on account of what they are assessed:

|---|---|---|---|---|
| State Tax | 5 | mills | on a | dollar. |
| Military Tax | 1½ | " | " | " |
| General School Tax | 3 | " | " | " |
| Local School Tax | 3 | " | " | " |
| School Building Tax | 1½ | " | " | " |
| County Tax | 10½ | " | " | " |
| Road Tax, equal to | 2 | " | " | " |
| City Tax | 9 | " | " | " |
| Total | 35½ | mills on a dollar. | | |

Being over three and a half per cent. on all property valuation for taxes. Of this accumulated taxation, but five mills are for current State expenses, and thirty and one-half mills for other purposes. A strict limitation should be placed on the increase of taxes in counties and cities. There are cities in several of the States, which are now burdened with public debts greater than the public debts of the respective States in which they are situated. County and municipal liabilities are becoming great public burdens. Our State Constitution, Art XI, Sec. 10, provides that "no county shall create any debts or liabilities which shall singly or in the aggregate, exceed the sum of five thousand dollars, except to suppress insurrection or repel invasion." Also, in Sec. 5, of same article, it is provided that "Acts of Legislative Assembly, incorporating towns and cities, shall restrict their powers of taxation, borrowing money, contracting debts, and loaning their credit."

The first provision here referred to, has been practically a dead letter, for want of legislative enactment to enforce it; and it has been violated by three-fourths of the counties of this State. This limitation should be made a living injunction, by making the county authorities creating unconstitutional liabilities, personally liable for the excess over the limitation. Stronger guards should be thrown around private property in municipal corporations, to save it from being absorbed by local taxation. It is a day of private economy. Let us have public retrenchment also.

OUTSTANDING STATE WARRANTS.

Since the last meeting of the Legislature, a decision has been rendered by the Supreme Court to the effect that under the plan of our Constitution the current expenses of each fiscal year must be defrayed by the current revenues of that year; and whenever the expenses of any fiscal year shall exceed the income, the Legislative Assembly shall provide for levying a tax for the ensuing year sufficient, with other sources of income, to pay the deficiency, as well as the estimated expenses of the ensuing fiscal year. The court also held that no outstanding warrants dated anterior to the beginning of the last biennial fiscal period could be paid by the Treasurer out of funds derived from current revenues accruing during said period, but that such funds must be devoted to the payment of current warrants as presented.

This is, without doubt, sound doctrine, and most beneficial to the State, as by its enforcement all public debt will be avoided. Under this rule the revenues of the last two years have been applied directly to the payment of the expenses of the last two years; and these expenses have been fully paid, leaving a surplus to be applied on other accounts, as the Treasurer's report shows. This is a demonstration that the State current expenses can be paid with less than a five-mill revenue. But the outstanding warrants have now to be met. They exist as the representative of the excesses of many years, not provided for as the Constitution requires. This class of indebtedness was greatly increased by the failure of the Legislature of 1868 to make any appropriations for general current State expenses, leaving the State to be conducted on exorbitant and uncertain vouchers and unlawful warrants, and interest to accumulate in large amounts, while the revenues in the Treasury were locked up and dormant. It has also been legitimately increased by appropriations for public buildings out of the general fund, while no building tax has been levied.

These deferred warrants must now be met by special taxation for their payment, according to the Constitution. As they have not been accumulated in a year, they cannot be paid in a year, but they should be paid gradually. There should be no increase of general taxation, but a decrease of general expenditures, so as to leave a margin of revenues to be applied in payment of these warrants. HOW CAN A DECREASE OF EXPENDITURES BE EFFECTED? The State is now free from public rents, the new Capitol being now occupied for public purposes, and no expenditure will be required for that purpose. The support of the Penitentiary will not hereafter cost the State $10,000 per annum more than will be derived from that institution as earnings of convicts paid into the Treasury, and the margin may be less. Further restrictions should be placed upon expenditures for the conveying of prisoners to the Penitentiary and Insane Asylum, and in arresting fugitives from justice. The allowances in these cases should be limited strictly to actual outlays in performing the services, and a per diem for actual time necessarily employed; and in case of two persons taken by the same officer, a single per diem only should be allowed. I think the appropriations for these purposes can be properly cut down from $25,000 to $15,000, if proper restrictions be made and enforced. The appropriation for public printing for the last two years was $49,125 28; but of this amount $19,125 28 were paid to the former State Printer for the new Code, which will not necessarily be repeated for ten years to come. The State printing appropriation will, therefore, be much less than that made by the last Assembly.

By reference to the condition of the Agricultural College fund, it will appear that the interest-bearing resources for the coming two years will exceed $40,000 in currency. The customary appropriation of $5,000 per annum out of the Treasury for the support of this institution can properly be reduced one-half or more, the balance of the usual assistance from the State being made up from interest accrued from the college fund proper. Many other reductions can properly be effected. The tug-boat subsidy need not be repeated, as the original contract is expired, and no further encouragement is necessary to establish shipping into the mouth of the Columbia river.

In order to give the Assembly a clear idea of the existing rate of expenditure for the different departments of the State government, for the purpose of furnishing a means of scanning the cost of each, I append a statement of such expenditure, estimated for one year, at the rate of the expenses of the last biennial period.

The total general appropriations for current expenses of last biennial period amounted to $388,743 16, one-half of which would show an annual expenditure of $194,371 58. I believe this sum could be reduced to the annual State expense of $180,000, by retrenchment in the directions already indicated, without impairing the vigor or usefulness of the various branches of the State government; and this sum could be paid by a levy of four mills on the dollar on our respective valuation, assisted by the revenue derived from the Penitentiary. I therefore recommend that the general State tax be reduced to four mills; that the military tax of one mill and a half be reduced to a half mill tax, which will be sufficient to pay interest on outstanding military bonds. Then levy a special tax of two mills for the gradual liquidation of the outstanding State warrants. By this method, State taxation would remain the same as it has been for many years, but the State finances would be placed in a much better condition, and shortly admit of greater reductions.

INTEREST ON STATE WARRANTS.

The payment of interest on State warrants drawn for current expenditures, as practiced in this State, I believe to be contrary to the custom of other States, and is of doubtful propriety. A very large proportion of our present arrearages on State warrants is accounted for by the accumulation of interest. The plan of our Constitution is that the warrants for current expenses each year shall be paid by the revenue of each year. We must live up to this requirement. I therefore recommend that hereafter all interest-bearing warrants upon the Treasury be dispensed with. At the same time, care must be taken that the expenses of the State do not exceed the revenues, so that all such warrants will be paid on presentation to the Treasurer.

PUBLIC LANDS OF THE STATE.

Nearly all of the public lands of the State, required by law to be selected by the Governor, have been so selected, and they have been finally approved by the General Land Office and the Secretary of the Interior, with the exception of the swamp land. These include the grant of 500,000 acres for Internal Improvements, the Indemnity Common School lands, the Agricultural College lands, the University lands and the Public Building lands.

The swamp lands are in full course of segregation, and 324,219 acres have been selected in the manner required by the rules and instructions of the general land office, most of which will, without doubt, be finally approved to the State. A large amount of swamp lands are yet to be selected, which are not within the present surveys. After devoting six years of careful labor to the State titles in our public land grants, I am gratified to be able to report general success in the work.

SWAMP LAND CONFLICTS.

In relation to swamp lands, I recommend that, in all cases where, by reason of conflicts and resulting litigation, by which the claimant under the State is excluded from possession for the purposes of reclamation, as authorized by existing law, an amendment be made to the swamp Act of October 26, 1870, granting such claimant the same time for reclamation which he would have been entitled to, had such adverse possession not occured.

STATE WARRANTS ON SWAMP LAND FUND.

The outsanding State warrants on the swamp land fund bear interest. In order to secure their earliest liquidation, on principles honorable and economical to the State, I recommend that all such warrants be authorized by law to be received at par, interest included, in payment for swamp lands. This would be the most direct mode of payment, and would hasten their liquidation, as well as an early adjustment of swamp land purchases.

THE PENITENTIARY.

The biennial report of the Superintendent of the Penitentiary is herewith submitted. Marked success is shown in the management of this institution. The appropriation of $50,000, made two years ago for the support of the prison, considered a limited allowance at the time, has not been exhausted, the total expenditure under the same having been $49,308 95. The earnings of the convicts during the same period amount to $37,521 80. Of this sum, $10,322 85 is cash paid into the Treasury; $7,735 08, bills and accounts receivable for convict labor, sales of brick, etc., and keeping United States prisoners, all shortly available for cash to be paid into the Treasury; $11,994 87, convict labor and brick turned over to the State Capitol Commissioners, as provided by statute; the balance represented in labor upon permanent improvements within the prison grounds, such as constructing tannery, boot and shoe shops, blacksmith shops, and improvement of water power, prison grounds, etc. In estimating prison labor bestowed upon public work, fifty cents per day only has been estimated, while the real value to the State may have been much more, as in cases of skilled labor engaged upon the construction of shops and machinery. A striking instance of this may be given by referring to the item in the Superintendent's report, giving account of convict labor on tannery, boot and shoe shops, blacksmith shops, mill-race, penstock, etc., as consuming 7,414 days, labor, at fifty cents per day, valued at $3,707. The improvements represented by this labor are of a permanent and valuable character, and are estimated by a prominent and skilled builder of Salem to be worth at this time the sum of $10,312 92, by builders' specific cash estimates, exclusive of machinery. A certificate of this estimate is herewith submitted.

The loss of the old shops by fire, within the last biennial period, was a very serious drawback against the Penitentiary appropriation, and against the productiveness of prison labor, but the disaster has been more than overcome by diligence in management, and within the resources of the narrow appropriation of the last Assembly; so that the improved condition of this institution in workshops, water power, tannery and facilities for the employment of convict labor for cash wages to go into the Treasury, is noticeable. The general cost of conducting our State prison for the last two years has been less than one-half the expense incurred during the corresponding period under my predecessor in office, in proportion to the number of prison inmates. A reduction of $10,000 in the appropriation for the coming two years is recommended by the Superintendent, in which I concur.

The sum of $20,000 per annum will now support our Penitentiary; while, at the same time, with the new facilities for employing prison labor and the discipline of the convicts in their new employments, a very large proportion of the sum will be returned to the Treasury in the form of earnings. Thus, by slow degrees we are attaining a self-sustaining State prison.

I recommend an appropriation for a rotary force pump, as suggested by the Superintendent. Its cost will be limited, and it can be attached to the water power now in motion. I also recommend an appropriation for lumber for a new stockade.

The moral discipline of the prison has been good, and the voluntary services of charitable and religious persons in aid of the unfortunate convict have been constant. I call your special attention to the report of the Prison Physician, as establishing the success of the sanitary arrange ments of the new Penitentiary, as well as of the medical attendance. No death has occurred within the last two years from causes arising within the prison. The physician says:

"It is a gratifying source of pleasure to state that while our city in the last two years has been scourged by two alarmingly fatal epidemics, neither of them have invaded our prison,—a fact which speaks in the highest terms possible for the thoroughly efficient sanitary regulations of the institution, and demonstrates the fact that convicts must be well fed, clothed and cared for."

The fact that the prison roll of 1876 shows a reduction in the number of prisoners, as compared with that of 1874, ought to be a ground of public satisfaction. The report of September 1, 1874, showed the inmates of our Penitentiary to number 113; that of September 1, 1876, 104; while the number of deaths and pardons has been less than at any former period. I attribute this gratifying fact to the firm hand of our judiciary and the intelligent and discriminating co-operation of our juries in the careful administration of public justice, whereby the progress of crime has been arrested.

PRISON LABOR.

As prison labor is an important means of reform, as well as a part of the penalty denounced by the law upon convicts, it is one of the first duties of the State to provide facilities for the performance of such labor. The labor of the convict is valuable to the State, if properly directed and controlled. In several of the other States, opposition has been made to the employment of convicts on certain industries, for the reason that the same interfered with free labor of the vicinity. The industries now being inaugurated at our State prison are not open to this objection, but they are such that supply our markets with articles not manufactured here, such as saddle-trees, certain kinds of wagon irons, machine-made boots and shoes, leather, etc., large amounts of which are constantly imported from the penitentiary work of California and the Eastern States. This class of prison labor should be carefully fostered both for the purpose of having these articles manufactured at home, thereby saving our money from leaving the State, and for the purpose of saving the people from taxation for the support of the prison. Every convict leased for a long time to labor, is ordinarily certain to be no further charge upon the public. I therefore commend the suggestion of the Superintendent of the Penitentiary, made in his report, that long leases of convict labor be authorized. In adjusting charges for convict labor, the Superintendent should be invested with the right to make proper deductions for inexperience at the beginning of service.

PARDONS.

I lay before you a list of pardons granted during the past two years, numbering sixteen, out of 210 convicts in and received into the Penitentiary during that period. Eleven of these only were based on the usual grounds of clemency; five having been issued to youths between the ages of 10 and 16 years, who were proper subjects of a reform school. In the absence of such an institution, after a term of imprisonment, these boys have been apprenticed to responsible persons, who have taken an interest in their welfare. A commutation of the sentence of death has been granted in one instance, after a reprieve for the purpose of a hearing before the Supreme Court on motion for a new trial.

INSANE ASYLUM.

The Hospital for the Insane and Idiotic has been conducted with its usual success, and has been noticeably enlarged and improved by Dr. J. C. Hawthorne, the contractor on behalf of the State. Without doubt, this institution is deserving of commendation for its sanitary arrangements and the uniform good character of discipline, medical treatment and humane conduct. I call your special attention to the report of the State contractor, herewith submitted. The number of patients in hospital September 1, 1874, was 195; admitted up to September 1, 1876, 142; discharged during same period, 119. Total remaining now in hospital, 218. This institution has been conducted within the appropriation of last session.

INSTITUTIONS FOR MUTES AND BLIND.

The institutions established for mutes and the blind,

Digitized by Google

have continued to do good work for those who have been denied any one of the senses. Both have been under good charges, and the progress of the pupils has been all that was expected. These schools are only germs of what the future will develop. While more liberal appropriations might be well employed in these institutions, I do not recommend any increase of appropriations over those of two years ago.

COMMON SCHOOLS.

I am gratified to be able to remark upon the growing interest now taken in the common schools of this State, and to commend the zeal and energy manifested in their behalf, for the past two years, by the Superintendent of Public Instruction. His report will be duly laid before you, to which I call your special attention.

COMMON SCHOOL FUND.

The active labors of the Board of School Land Commissioners have increased the common school fund from $504,216 46, reported two years ago, to $525,381 82, the present amount of that fund. Besides this sum, there has been distributed $68,408 85 for the support of common schools within the last two years.

STATE UNIVERSITY FUND.

The fund accumulated for the support of the State University now amounts to $75,492 20, an increase of $17,111 83 within the past two years. The amount of land remaining unsold, belonging to this institution, and yet available, is 22,826 acres.

AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE FUND.

The fund on hand, on account of sales of agricultural college lands, is $7,996 65; installment notes due on purchases, $8,234 43. Total present fund available, $16,231 08. Applications for the purchase of more than ten thousand acres of these lands, which have been lately approved and now on file, and will shortly mature into installment payments and notes, to be added to that already in hand. It will thus be seen that the funds of this College are so rapidly accumulating that after this session the institution will be sustained by its own proper resources.

MANAGEMENT OF AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE.

The Agricultural College has evidently been under excellent management and correct discipline. The report of the President of the institution is herewith submitted, with special commendations, as evidencing its efficiency and usefulness. It behooves the welfare of the State that this institution be sustained.

ORGANIZATION OF THE STATE UNIVERSITY.

I am gratified to be able to report to you the completion of the new State University building at Eugene City, which, together with the grounds on which it is situated, of the value of $52,000, has been made a free gift to the State by the people of Lane county, in consideration of the permanent location of the University in their midst. This institution is now fully organized by the selection of an excellent and experienced corps of professors and teachers. The special fund invested for its support will now, for the first time, be brought into active and current use, adding great impetus and strength to the educational agencies of the State.

SALMON FISHERIES.

I renew my recommendation of two years ago, that there be a voluntary commission appointed, composed of citizens interested in the salmon fisheries of the Columbia river, to devise a measure best adapted to the protection of these fisheries. They are assuming an importance in the productive resources of this State that careful preservation is now called for. As was said in my last Message, the river fisheries of all countries, where the laws have not intervened for their preservation, have one uniform history—first, decimation, then destruction.

The fact that the Columbia river forms a mutual boundary line between Oregon and Washington, will require that whatever measures shall be adopted by Oregon shall be submitted to the legislative authorities of Washington Territory for co-ordinate enactment, before they can become of effective force. This class of legislation is not uncommon between older States of the Union, situated in like manner. The shad fisheries of the Delaware river have been regulated by joint legislation of Pennsylvania and New Jersey. Other instances of like legislation exist in other States having a common river boundary. The salmon fisheries of the Columbia are the largest in the world, and can easily be maintained as such for all time. The product of these fisheries this year have exceeded in export value two million dollars in gold.

RIVER AND HARBOR IMPROVEMENTS.

The great future prosperity of this State depends peculiarly upon the improvement and free navigation of our large rivers and the opening and protection of our harbors. No sea-board State so greatly needs the fostering hand of the General Government in appropriations to aid general commerce. Our accessible harbors are few in comparison with our extended sea coast. We need the construction of a harbor of refuge at Port Orford, and improvements at Coos Bay. We need jetties to direct the currents and control the shifting sands at the mouth of the Columbia river, which would give thirty feet of water, or more, on the bar at low tide. The magnitude of the interests surrounding these proposed improvements command the attention of the General Government. Our rivers are of first-class importance, but their navigation is interrupted by natural obstructions, which, by ordinary engineering, can be removed. The improvement of our interior water communications is therefore most practicable. The General Government has already entered upon the work of improving the Willamette and Columbia rivers, and several limited appropriations have been made for that purpose. The most important undertaking in this direction is the construction of a canal and locks at the Cascade rapids of the Columbia river, for which an appropriation of $90,000 has already been made by Congress, to begin the work. General Michler, of the U. S. Engineers, who made the survey and estimates on which this action was taken, in his report to the Chief of Engineers, says: "A permanent improvement can, without doubt, be successfully accomplished at this locality by the construction of a canal and locks across the rocky neck of land indicated on the map, between the head of the upper rapids and the basin at the foot of them. The works will be almost identical in character with those at the falls of the Willamette, opposite to Oregon City, and in reality, will not, in many respects, offer the same difficulties." In the same report he gave the following condensed statement of the required character of work and estimated cost: "Length of canal through solid rock around Cascades of Columbia, 2,600 feet; rise, 21 feet at low water; length of locks, 215 feet; width, 40 feet; three locks, lift of 7 feet each; draught of boats, 8 feet, loaded; greatest depth in locks, 16½ feet; removal of ledge and other rocks, 1,800 feet, below canal; difference between extreme high and low water, 41½ feet; substantially built, probable cost of canal and locks and removal of rocks, $700,000." General Michler adds: "The very great importance of the two works, both at the Dalles and Cascades, especially the latter, and the benefits which will accrue to Eastern Oregon by their construction, can be easily and satisfactorily demonstrated. The aggregate amount of tonnage carried on the river between Portland and points above, on the Columbia and Snake rivers, for the fiscal year just closed (1874), was 18,230 tons, of which 6,500 tons were of wheat and flour, and it is estimated that there will be 15,000 tons of wheat and flour to ship from Walla Walla valley alone during the current year, (1875)." The wheat and flour for export this year from the Upper Columbia river will probably exceed 20,000 tons, and the general tonnage of the Columbia will be greatly increased.

Digitized by Google

Digitized by Google

I am particular in mentioning these facts, as giving deserved prominence to the first step of improvement by way of locks and canal on the Columbia river, which, when followed up with other works of the kind, of which surveys have already been made, will remove the few leading interruptions to free navigation on the Columbia and Snake rivers for the distance of 900 miles from the sea, by the river channels. When this shall be accomplished, all of the magnificent wheat-growing slope of the western shed of the Rocky mountains, from the forty-second to the forty-ninth parallel of north latitude, will be open for barge transportation of its products to the ocean.

This region is the greatest and most productive of the unoccupied grain-producing countries of the world.

I take this occasion to commend the diligence and attention given to this subject by our delegation in Congress, and to congratulate the State on the beginning of this great public work, for which your predecessors in the Assembly have so repeatedly memorialized. I recommend that this subject again receive your attention, and that the hands of our representatives in Congress be sustained by your continued demands for the completion of these improvements. Further improvements of the Willamette, which already bears an immense commerce, should be urged anew; and I ask your special attention to the minor rivers of our south coast, which, though of less magnitude, yet they drain regions of no mean importance, and are second to none in proportionate importance to commerce.

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS.

In order to enable the Executive to check the introduction of ill advised items of expense into a general appropriation bill, without resorting to a veto of the whole bill, I recommend an amendment to our State Constitution, whereby the Governor shall have the power of disapproving any item or clause in an appropriation bill presented for his approval, without rejecting the whole bill. And I recommend a further amendment, enabling the State to exempt new enterprises, within the State, from taxation for a limited number of years, as an inducement to capitalists to undertake such enterprises. This is the practice in many States, and is sustained on the ground that such new enterprises will create more taxable property, even before they are taxed, than otherwise would have existed.

As a matter of economy, as well as public convenience, I suggest a further amendment requiring our general elections to be held on the Tuesday next following the first Monday in November, biennially, being the day fixed for the Presidential election every four years. This becomes the more necessary for the reason that, by late act of Congress regulating the time for holding elections for representatives in that body, this date is fixed upon as the time for biennial Congressional elections. Unless this change is made, the people will be burdened with the expenses of two general elections in one year at every recurring biennial period. The Legislative Assembly would, in case of such change, properly convene in December or January.

THE LOCKS AT WILLAMETTE FALLS.

On the 28th day of October, 1868, an Act was passed, granting aid to the Willamette Falls Canal and Lock Company, incorporated under the laws of Oregon on the 14th day of September, 1868, to assist them in "constructing a canal and locks at and on the west side of the Willamette falls. In the preamble of this Act, it is declared that "it is of great imporiance to the people of Oregon that the obstructions to free navigation of the Willamette river at that place should be removed, and freights carried on said river should be cheapened." This Act granted a subsidy to said company of $150,000, "upon the express condition that said corporation, after the completion of said canal and locks as hereinbefore set forth, shall not, for a period of ten years after the same is completed, charge a greater rate of tolls than seventy-five cents per ton for all freight, and twenty cents for each passenger passing through said canal and locks in steamboats and other water craft." The works were not completed under this Act, the time allowed for their completion being too limited and the amount of aid too small.

At the session of the Legislative Assembly of 1870, this act was substantially re-enacted, the limitation of time for the completion of the works, fixed by the first Act, having nearly expired. The second Act provided a subsidy of $200,000, to be paid "out of the funds donated by the United States to the State of Oregon for the purpose of internal improvements" * * * "upon the express condition that said corporation, after the completion of said canal and locks, as hereinafter set forth, shall not charge a greater rate of tolls than fifty cents per ton for freight and ten cents for each passenger, going through said canal and locks in steamboats or other water craft." * * * "And after the completion of the same, the said corporation shall pass, without delay, through said canal and locks, all steamboats, flatboats, barges and other water craft in the order in which they shall arrive at either terminus of said canal."

A modification was made in the second Act as to the character of the State obligation to pay the subsidy, so as to avoid a constitutional objection. The completion of the work was required on the first day of January, 1873, and bonds were required to be given for such completion. The works were constructed of the most substantial character and within the time named, and they have been open and doing business, to the great advantage of the State. But said Willamette Falls Canal and Lock Company, within the past year, have sold and transferred all their interest in said Canal and Locks to the Willamette

Digitized by Google

Transportation and Locks Company, who are understood to have succeeded also to the control of all steamboats on the Willamette river, to such extent as to direct the rates of freight and passage, and, by a combination with the railroad companies on either side of the Willamette river, have established a monopoly of the transportation business of the Willamette Valley, and have established charges for freights at a figure much higher than before existed. Since the sale of the canal and locks, and rights of franchise of the Willamette Falls Canal and Lock Company, the company is understood to have become disincorporated by proceedings in the Circuit Court of Multnomah county, in accordance with the provisions of the statute in cases of non-user of franchise. Apprehension has been expressed that the canal and locks are now to be closed against public use. I have no notice that any boat has been offered to pass the locks which has not been passed at the regular rates of toll.

In my view of the matter, these works, constructed in part with public funds, are so impressed by the conditions of the act granting the aid that they bear a public character, though resting in private ownership; that there is a public trust attached to these works, and that the trust runs with the property; that neither the changes of that ownership, nor the subsequent dissolution of the corporation which constructed them, can avoid that character nor discharge that trust. Nor do I apprehend that this view differs from that of the present or former owners of the locks.

As there are duties to the public, distinctly defined in the Act which gave origin to the canal and locks, attached to their corporate privileges secured by law, an ultimate right of regultion, if deemed necessary, is inherent in the State, to render more secure the public benefits intended to be obtained by the grant of aid. The power of the Legislature to enforce proper rules and regulations in the premises, I believe to be plenary, and I commend this subject to your careful attention.

Had the question been a new one on my accession to the Executive chair, I should have favored the direct construction of these works by the State, so that no question of conflict of interest could arise, and as it is, many of our citizens advocate a purchase or lease of the canal and locks. I will say that no proposition of the kind can, in my judgment, be sustained, unless it is contemplated at the same time to raise, by special taxation, a fund in advance of any requirement for use, in such an enterprise, as any obligation in the premises incurred as a debt would be void under the Constitution.

These works are of the class of river improvements which are customarily constructed by the General Government. They are of that enduring and valuable character and constructed with such engineering skill, that the General Government might adopt them as general public works, or assist in their purchase, for the purpose of freeing them from private control.

REGULATION OF RAILROADS.

In my last biennial Message I recommended the regulation by statute of railroads within this State. It was then said:

"That the privileges of railroad corporations should be limited to the purposes of their incorporation, as carriers of passengers and freights; that there should be fixed by law a reasonable maximum of rates; that the interests of merchants, millers and shippers should be guarded against wrongful discriminations adverse to them; that prominent points of business on railroad lines should be made stations for shipment and delivery of produce and merchandise; that the roads should be required to be fenced at all points exposed to danger for want of protection by fences, and that a simple and direct mode of bringing actions at law by parties injured, would appear to be of obvious propriety."

Experience has given emphasis to this recommendation, and it is now repeated.

STATE CAPITOL.

The capitol buildings constitute the home of the State. They are emblematic of its sovereignty, and should correspond with its dignity. The structure now occupied has been in the course of construction for four years, and has come to such completion as to be, from this date, permanently used as a State House. The work will, on examination, be found fully equal in character to such buildings generally, and of capacity sufficient for the convenience of the State for a century. The cost of the building this far, in money from the Treasury, is $190,927 08; convict labor, brick and other material from the Penitentiary, $34,608 67, making the present cost, $225,535 70.

A special allowance should be further made out of the resources of the one mill tax set aside by the Act of October 24, 1874, to enable the Capitol Building Commissioners to complete and protect the exterior cornices, and to cement the walls most exposed to damage by storm; after which the building should be carried to completion very slowly, and as the resources of our revenue will admit of.

Estimating the future work to be done with the same economy and success as the past, the entire Capitol building can be finally completed according to the original plans and specifications of the architects, for an additional appropriation of $100,000, amounting to a total cost of $325,500. The building is 264 feet in length, wings 80 feet in width, with transverse sections 160 feet in depth, three stories high, above a basement of heavy stone walls. The main tower is to rise 180 feet from basement. The building to be ornamented with Corinthian porticoes, supported by six iron columns each. In this building, besides the large quantities of stone and iron, five millions of brick have been used. The architect's estimate of the cost of this structure exceeded a half million dollars. It is unusual that buildings of any class, and especially public buildings, are constructed within the estimated cost. The expense of this public work will fall nearly two-fifths short of the estimates.

I congratulate the State upon the good work here done, and take occasion to commend the diligence, skill and integrity of the Capitol Building Commissioners, who have been from time to time engaged upon it, and of the contractors who have had the same in hand.

INDIAN RELATIONS.

During the past two years the condition of our interior frontier has been generally peaceful, but attention is still necessary to the relations of Joseph's band of Nez Perce Indians, who claim ownership of lands in Wallowa valley, in Union county, notwithstanding the General Government has extended its surveys to that region and opened the same for settlement. I have urged upon the General Government the duty of moving these Indians to the Nez Perce Reservation, and giving peace to our eastern borders, which I hope may shortly be done. In other quarters a general condition of peace prevails. The policy of contracting the large reservations within the State to the real necessities of the Indians in occupying of them, should be vigorously urged, so that the extensive regions of fine arable land, now closed to occupancy by settlers, can be opened for civilization.

BOARD OF PILOT COMMISSIONERS.

Our increasing commerce requires that special attention be given to pilotage and towage on the Columbia and Willamette rivers, and that regulations be just, discriminating and efficient. The report of the Board of Pilot Commissioners is herewith submitted, giving full detailed information of the shipping interests connected with the Columbia river trade. As the business of this Board is accumulating, provision for clerical aid is recommended.

HEALTH OFFICERS.

RAILROAD CONNECTION.

Oregon has no connection with the railroad system of the United States. We are in a manner isolated from the rest of the world, as far as rapid transit is concerned. Four leading lines of railway are projected—the Northern Pacific, the Portland, Dalles and Salt Lake, the Winnemucca, and the Oregon and California railroads, the latter partly constructed. These proposed lines will all be built within a reasonable time. The next tide of onward progress in the business world will give life and motion to all of these enterprises. Either one of them completed, would add new life to the entire northwest Pacific Coast. In relation to State aid to either of these projected roads, I am still firmly attached to my former positions in relation to subsidies, by which bonded debts are created either against the State, counties or cities. I believe such debts unconstitutional. Whatever aid may at any time be granted to such enterprises, should be from resources in hand, or raised in advance of use in a constitutional manner.

Digitized by Google

BURLINGAME TREATY.

In my first inaugural address to the Legislative Assembly, six years ago, I took occasion to call attention to the treaty between the United States and China, commonly known as the Burlingame Treaty, and to develope the objections which exist to that treaty and to the immigration of Chinese to our shores. The views then expressed have been strengthened by the experience of the Pacific States. The treaty is mainly objectionable on the ground that it departs from the customary province of commercial treaties, and invades the States, setting aside their ordinary and rightful control of police and sanitary regulations, and denies them the power to reject the influx of persons of degraded and vicious habits. The treaty should be abrogated, and a treaty for commercial purposes, only, should be concluded in its stead. I recommend that, by memorial, you strengthen the movement already inaugurated at Washington for this purpose.

CLERICAL AID.

The work of the Board of School Land Commissioners absolutely requires the services of two clerks—one, devoted to the work connected with the sales of the public lands, the correspondence connected with the same, and current records of the Board; the other, to take charge of the loans of school funds and the correspondence connected with this most important branch of the public service. This work must be promptly and vigorously done, as there are now funds of the University, the Agricultural College and the Common Schools to be constantly loaned, and the interest to be collected and paid over for the support of those schools. These two clerks have been employed during the past two years, but one of them has been detailed to perform the additional duty of book-keeper to the Treasury, without additional compensation, for the reason, that by the course of the last Assembly toward the State Treasury, that department of the State administration was left without any provision for a book-keeper or clerical assistance of any kind. In fact the Treasury Department was disorganized. I respectfully urge upon your consideration that authority be given for the employment of a book-keeper in the State Treasury.

The clerical labors of all the departments have been characterized by diligence, integrity and faithfulness to the public interests, and I am gratified to commend them as such.

The fiscal management of the Institutions for Mutes and the Blind has been conducted during the past two years by the Governor's Private Secretary, without additional compensation.

ECONOMY IN ADMINISTRATION.

As far as Executive influence has extended, a steady purpose has been in view to keep the administration of all funds within the appropriations made by the Legislature, which has generally been attended with success. In the reports of most of the leading branches of the public service, are shown margins of appropriations, yet unexpended, remaining in the treasury. By this method, the State will gradually become free from liabilities, and the strictest economy prevail.

In a period of financial distress, both public and private, never before witnessed, it behooves us, as well as citizens in private life, to practice the virtue of economy to rigid enforcement. While enterprises for public good should not be discouraged, general liberality in appropriations ought not to prevail. I believe it unnecessary further to suggest prudence and economy in the legislation before you.

ELECTION OF UNITED STATES SENATOR.

Among the important duties devolving upon the present assembly, is that of electing a Senator to represent Oregon in the Congress of the United States, for the term of six years, from the 4th day of March next. In presence of a body composed of so much ability, honor, and experience in legislation, it is not necessary for me to comment upon the weight of this duty.

THE CENTENNIAL EXHIBITION AT PHILADELPHIA.

The grand exhibition at Philadelphia, in commemoration of the one hundredth anniversary of our National existence, to which the nations of the world have accepted an invitation to be present, has not been without significance to Oregon, nor without distinction to her peerless products.

Under the Act of Congress authorizing the President of the United States, on the nomination of the Governor of the several States, to appoint, for each, a Commissioner and a Commissioner alternate, to assume the general management of the Exhibition, I had the honor to nominate for Oregon James W. Virtue, of Baker county, as Commissioner, and Andrew J. Dufur, of Multnomah county, as Commissioner alternate, who were duly appointed. The former having been so much engaged in private business as not to be able to attend the Exhibition, the duties of Commissioner have been devolved on the latter. And I take special pleasure in thus publicly commending the devoted manner and distinguished success with which these duties have been performed.

No test of superiority in products can possibly be more satisfactory than an immediate comparison of such products in a general exhibition where the best of all countries are collected together. This oppartunity for Oregon has occurred at Philadelphia, and, unless universal report is much mistaken, our Commissioner will leave the Exhition with honors and premiums for several of the leading products of our generous soil. The occasion has added character to the State, and will greatly assist in adding population. The appropriation of $4,000, made four years ago, to defray the expenses of the Commissioner in attending the meetings of the General Board at Philadelphia, has now been exhausted. The articles placed on exhibition have been collected by the personal exertions of the Commissioner, aided by several other patriotic citizens, in a voluntary way, and limited sums of money have been subscribed by the citizens of Portland and other localities, in aid of the enterprise.

But there exists a considerable margin of necessary expenses connected with the exhibition, which have been assumed and paid by individuals, and by the Commissioner, which should be assumed and paid by the State. In addition to this, so honorable, useful and successful services as have been rendered by the Commissioner at Philadelphia, should not remain unremunerated. The assumption of these expenses by the State, and an allowance of a reasonable per diem compensation to the Commissioner, is especially recommended. Specific accounts in the premises will be laid before your honorable body.

On the request of the board of general management, that the Governor of each State appoint one of its citizens to deliver, during the exhibition at Philadelphia, an address, embodying the outlines of State history and an account of its geography, soil, climate, and resources, as a distinctive feature of the occasion, I appointed Hon. Henry H. Gilfry, to speak on behalf of Oregon. The duty was performed, with honor to the State and credit to himself. This address will be published among the permanent transactions of the exhibition.

ORGANIZATION OF STATE INSTITUTIONS.

The last six years have been distinctly a period of organization in this State. Within this time we have constructed the new Capitol, in part finished, and now occupied. We have built a permanent Penitentiary, and established it upon the most approved system of reformed discipline and sanitary arrangements. A State University has been founded, and is now open for students. An Agricultural College has been instituted and successfully maintained for four years. Institutions for Mutes and for the Blind have been established and successfully conducted. The Asylum for the Insane, though in private hands, has been greatly enlarged and well adapted to the most humane care and treatment of this unfortunate class. A vigorous and well adjusted system of common schools, with a Superintendent of Public Instruction, has been inaugurated and sustained. In aid to commerce, encouragement has been given to the establishment of steam tug boats at the entrance of the Columbia river, which assistance is no longer necessary, on account of the growing importance of the commerce of the State rendering further assistance unnecessary. Our laws have been carefully codified and published in form available for general use, and many other matters of public benefit have been accomplished which are incident to a settled condition of society. In a word, we have become an organized State.

GENERAL PROGRESS.

Under the adverse circumstances of general depression of all material advancement, this State is steadily gaining in strength and surely preparing the way to assured prosperity. Our mines of gold and silver now furnish the annual product of two millions of dollars. New coal mines have been discovered and developed. Our lumbering interests have been enlarged. The export value of our salmon fisheries exceeds two millions. Exports of cured and canned meats and dried fruits are greatly increasing, and I know of no department of agriculture but what is taking deep and strong hold of the soil, and becoming a vigorous handmaid to general progress. Our commerce is becoming developed, and our products have a name and character abroad.

Gentlemen of the Assembly, let us enter upon the second century of our Nation's history with courage, and with confidence in the destiny of our State and country; and let the next centennial year witness and enjoy the good works which we have done, as we know and rejoice in the good works of the Fathers of the Republic who wrought a hundred years ago. Let us reaffirm our devotion to the principles of the Constitution. Let us clothe ourselves afresh with the virtues of the patriots of 1776, and take upon us the Roman vow, with more than Roman significance, of eternal vigilance for the honor of the Republic.

REPORT OF PARDONS.

The following is the report of pardons granted during the two years ending September 11, 1876, respectfully submitted for the information of the Legislature:

1. JOHN H. BRAUNERMER. Linn county. Larceny. Sentenced April 4th, 1874. Received at the prison April 6th, 1874. Term of service, one year in the Penitentiary. Pardoned September 18, 1874, on petition of citizens and a majority of the jurors who tried the cause. The pardon was also recommended by the Judge of the Court and District Attorney who prosecuted the prisoner. Reason: That said Braunermer was convicted of stealing $40, the property of Philip Leinberger, a partner, given him to pay partnership debts, and in a few days after receiving the said $40, he dissolved the partnership with said Leinberger, leaving partnership property in his hands amounting to $128 00, more than enough to pay the said sum of $40.

2. JOSEPH SHERTS. Linn county. Manslaughter. Sentenced March 30th, 1874. Received at prison April 2d, 1874. Term of service at the Penitentiary, one year. Pardoned October 19th, 1864, on petition of many prominent citizens of Linn county, representing that Sherts was not the originator of the difficulty causing the death of the party for the killing of whom he was convicted, but that his act was a momentary impulse, interfering to save the life of a brother who was also killed. The Judge who presided at the trial made a statement that there were other mitigating circumstances demanding Executive clemency, and that a pardon ought to be granted at the end of the first half term of his imprisonment. Eleven of the jurors who sat in the case also recommended the pardon.

3. CHARLES MORELL. Jackson county. Larceny. Sentenced December 2d, 1871. Received at prison December 7th, 1871. Pardoned on large petition of citizens of Jackson and Marion counties, including the party whose property was stolen, setting forth that Morell was convicted of the larceny of a horse, and was only accessory to the crime, being instigated to the same by undue persuasion of an adept in such offenses; that he was young and inexperienced, with previous good character. Three-fourths of the term of service had expired.

4. A. H. KERSTING. Clackamas county. Murder in second degree. Sentenced Nov. 1, 1867. Received at prison Nov. 3, 1867. Term of service in the Penitentiary, life. Pardoned Dec. 28, 1874, on large petition of prominent citizens of Clackamas and other counties, representing that Kersting was sentenced upon evidence wholly circumstantial, and not conclusive, the said Kersting always alleging the killing to have been accidental; that the case was twice tried, the first jury disagreeing as to whether the killing was not accidental, the trial taking place in Multnomah county, where the homicide occurred. The Judge and Prosecuting Attorney who tried the cause, made a statement that the killing might have been accidental. Reason: Uniform good conduct during more than seven years of imprisonment, and his interposing to prevent escapes and defeat conspiracies, and in one instance, to save the life of the second warden.

5. JOHN S. PEARCE. Coos County. Rape. Sentenced May 25th, 1874. Received at prison June 6th, 1874. Term of service in the Penitentiary, 5 years. Pardoned June 4, 1875, on petition of citizens of Coos county, that the girl dishonored, although under 14 years of age, appeared much older than 14 years, which was corroborated by statement of the Judge presiding at the trial; that there was no charge of violence or force, the offense being simply because the prosecutrix was under 14 years of age; that said Pearce was confined in the county jail six months before the trial, and that there were other mitigating circumstances. Reason: The Judge and Prosecuting Attorney who tried the cause recommended Executive clemency.

6. MALACHI BAUGHMAN. Josephine county. Assault with a dangerous weapon. Sentenced October 30th, 1874. Received at Prison November 2, 1874. Term of service, 1 year. Pardoned June 18, 1875, on petition of prominent and influential citizens of said Josephine county, that Baughman had borne a good character, was a hard working and honest man; that he was intoxicated, and unintentionally led into the difficulty, which was the cause of his conviction. Reason: The pardon was recommended by the Judge and jury who tried the cause, and by the County Judge, Clerk and County Commissioners of Josephine county.

7. WM. MANNEN. Grant county. Larceny in a dwelling house. Sentenced Sept. 26, 1874. Received at the prison Oct. 10, 1874. Term of service, 1 year. Pardoned July 10, 1875, on petition of numerous citizens of Grant county, and being recommended by the Prosecuting Attorney and jury who tried the prisoner. Reasons: Mitigating circumstances connected with the cause of conviction, and uniform good conduct during imprisonment.

8. MILLER JUDD. Baker county. Highway robbery. Sentenced Nov. 4, 1867. Received at the prison Nov. 19, 1867. Term of service, 12 years in the Penitentiary. Pardoned July 10, 1875, on large petition of responsible and influential citizens of Baker and other counties, and the pardon was recommended by the Judge who tried the cause. Reasons: During an imprisonment of nearly eight years, the record of the conduct of said Judd had been uniformly good, and that he had faithfully performed his duties at the prison during his term of service, and that there were palliating circumstances connected with the cause of his conviction.

9. JAMES HAYDEN. Multnomah county. Murder in the second degree. Sentenced July 2, 1869. Received at the prison July 22, 1869. Term of service, life. Pardoned August 7th, 1875, on petition of prominent citizens of Multnomah and other counties, and on affidavits and letters of persons acquainted with the facts in the case, representing that at the time of the commission of the act for which said Hayden was convicted, he was intoxicated to such an extent as to be not morally responsible for his conduct; that the revolver was placed in his hand, a few steps from the place of the killing, by another person who had had a difficulty with the deceased; that said Hayden did not arm himself, and did not usually go armed. Reasons: There were other palliating circumstances rendering a pardon proper after nearly eight years of imprisonment, and in consideration of uniform good conduct.

10. C. H. CAMERON. Multnomah county. Embezzlement. Sentenced November, 1875. Term of service, four years. Pardoned November 12, 1875. Before being turned over to the prison authorities, while in the hands of the Sheriff of said Multnomah county, on petition of citizens of that county, representing that the cause of conviction grew out of a settlement of transactions amounting to $20,000, and that the discrepancy in account was only $600. That by bank statement, not shown upon the trial, $240 of this sum had been paid by draft, and not credited, and that the balance was in course of liquidation. Reasons: Said Cameron had always borne a good, moral and business character, and that there were other facts shown, tending to prove a total want of criminal intent, which were not available and not produced at the trial.

11. GEORGE C. TOWLE. Wasco county. Larceny. Sentenced November 13th, 1875. Received at the prison November 18, 1875. Term of service, 1 year. Pardoned November 18, 1875, on petition of numerous citizens of Wasco county, where conviction was had, representing that Towle was but 16 years of age. The judge, before whom Towle confessed the facts of the larceny, certified that there was really no criminal intent in the act for which he was sentenced. The pardon was also recommended by the grand jury that returned the indictment, by the Prosecuting Attorney, by the prosecuting witness, and the officers of the court.

12. WILLIS REYNARD. Multnomah county. Larceny. Sentenced to Penitentiary Nov. 6th, 1875, for three years. Received at prison Nov. 11th, 1875. Pardoned Dec. 16th, 1875, on petition of many citizens, recommendation of the Judge and District Attorney who tried the cause; that Reynard was sentenced for larceny from a store in Portland when only ten years of age, and was a proper subject for a reform school; and there being no institution of this kind in the State, and a prominent citizen of Harrisburg having undertaken, by indentures of apprenticeship, to take and place him upon a farm in Linn county, and be under good training, Executive clemency was extended in the case.

13. FRANK CARROLL. Sentenced at same time and for same offense as Willie Reynard. Pardoned February 26, 1876, on petition representing that he was under 13 years of age; that his conduct was good while in prison, and that he might be reformed if taken from the prison and placed under responsible care of a friend of the boy's family in California, where he could be instructed in useful industry. The pardon was also recommended by the Prosecuting Attorney who tried the case.

14. GEO. CONNER, true name stated to be GEO. THORNE. Sentenced at same time and for same offense, for three years, as Willie Reynard and Frank Carroll. Pardoned May 4th, 1876, on petition of citizens of Multnomah county, and on statement of the Prosecuting Attorney who procured his conviction, that he was under 14 years of age, never before accused of crime, and was not naturally a bad boy, but fell into bad company, and that the boy be bound as an apprentice to some responsible farmer until twenty-one years old.

15. JAMES ALEXANDER. Baker county. Highway Robbery. Sentenced to the Penitentiary November 4th, 1867, for twelve years. Received at the prison November 19th, 1867. Pardoned June 10th, 1876, on petition of responsible and prominent persons, on recommendation of the Judge and Prosecuting Attorney, who tried the cause, that clemency be extended. The balance of a two years' term, for a minor offense, was remitted on account of his long imprisonment for the principal offense.

16. Lee Gau, China boy. Multnomah county. Larceny. Sentenced February 19th, 1875, for four years in the Penitentiary. Received at the prison February 22d, 1875. Pardoned June 16th, 1876, on petition and recommendation of the Judge and Prosecuting Attorney, before whom the case was tried, on the ground that said Gau was incited to the act by older persons, and not intelligently responsible for the act himself.

17. Johnny Doherty. Multnomah county. Larceny. Was sent to the prison at same time and for same offense as Willie Reynard. Pardoned June 26th, 1876, on petition and statement of Judge and District Attorney, before whom the prisoner was tried, that Doherty was a minor under the age of fourteen years, and more properly the subject for a reform school than for the Penitentiary, and they recommended the pardon on the ground that he be apprenticed to learn some useful business or trade.

REPRIEVE AND COMMUTATION.

1. Thos. Gerrand. Marion county. Murder in the first degree. Sentenced to be hanged on the 15th day of January, 1875. Reprieved August 1, 1874, for the reason that the judge, before whom trial and conviction was had, granted an order allowing an appeal on a denied motion for a new trial, on which appeal the Supreme Court granted a new trial in the case. On second conviction and sentence to death, the Justices of the Supreme Court, who had heard said appeal, in view of the whole case, requested the Executive to commute said sentence of death to imprisonment for life. This request was supported by numerous petitions and letters of citizens of Marion county, and other counties; the said Gerrand being but 16 years of age at the time of the commission of the offence.

REPORT OF REMISSIONS.

The following is the report of remissions granted during the two years ending September 11, 1876, respectfully submitted for the information of the Legislature:

1. WM. HAUPERT. Marion county. Selling liquor to minors and on Sunday. Fined in Justice's Court $930, the offenses being several in number. Fine remitted February 24, 1875, on petition of leading citizens where the crime was committed, including the justice before whom said Haupert was tried; and the County Judge of Marion county, made a statement that Haupert was a German and not familiar with our laws. The remission of the fine was also recommended by the Prosecuting Attorney, as the prisoner was poor and unable to pay the same.

2. GRIGGS F. HAMPTON. Linn county. Giving intoxicating liquor to a minor. Fined $100, which was remitted March 22, 1875, on statement of the Judge who tried the case, that Hampton was a minor of 17 years of age; that the act was the result of thoughtless and injudicious hospitality, and that the ends of justice would be subserved by the remission of the fine. The remission was also recommended by the jury, clerk and sheriff of the court where the prisoner was tried.

3. JOHN JOYCE. Clackamas county. An assault. Fined $300 and costs, in default of which was sent to jail for five months. Fine remitted June 2, 1875, on petition of prominent citizens of said Clackamas county, including the County Judge and one Commissioner and leading members of the Bar; also, a petition was filed by prominent citizens of Multnomah county, that there were mitigating circumstances in the case. The remission was also recommended by the Prosecuting Attorney, one month of imprisonment having expired.

4. JAMES SIMMONS. Washington county. An assault. Fine, $100, in default of which was sent to county jail. Fine remitted on statement of facts developed after the trial, that were grounds of moral, if not legal, justification for the assault, which facts were certified to by all the Grand Jurors who found the indictment in the case.

5. H. JOHNSON. Yamhill County. Bail bond, $100 and costs. Fine remitted June 23, 1876, on petition that on the 23d of September, 1873, Chas. W. Starr was examined before a Magistrate in the county of Yamhill, and held to bail to appear before the Circuit Court, and Catharine Starr and H. Johnson were sureties on the bail bond, that at two terms of said court Chas. W. Starr appeared for trial, but on account of his health the trial did not take place; that on affidavit of his physician, Starr was not tried, and went to California for his health, and did not return; that proceedings were begun against H. Johnson, and not against Catharine Starr, for $100 and costs. The remission was also recommended by the Prosecuting Attorney.

REPORT.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE,
SALEM, OREGON,
September 11, 1876.

To the Honorable Legislative Assembly of the State of Oregon:

I have the honor to submit the following report of the affairs of the State Department for the biennial term ending September 11, 1876.

This report contains a statement of the increase in public business, and of the financial condition of the State. It will appear that there are a large number of State warrants outstanding, and unpaid. Although appropriations for the several funds were made to meet claims which might come against them, the returns from assessments in the different counties were not sufficient to supply the means to meet these demands; hence there is a deficiency in several of them. When a warrant is drawn on a fund that has no money in it, and is within an appropriation, the warrant, when presented, is endorsed, not paid for want of funds, and draws interest from date of presentation. No warrant is drawn unless there is an appropriation for it. The levy may be said to be sufficient for ordinary current expenses; but extraordinary liabilities have been created in building, in improvements, subsidies, interest on floating debts, etc., without any provision having been made to meet them. In other words, Legislatures heretofore have failed to provide funds in most cases for the payment of extraordinary expenses, when created. Hence they have crowded on the revenue raised for ordinary current expenses, which, of themselves, have somewhat increased. In this way, these unpaid warrants have accumulated and became a charge against the State.

In a former report I referred to this subject, and there stated that acts were passed without reference to revenues. I showed the slow increase reported of the value of property in sixteen years; the necessity of harmonizing and regulating the assessments of the several counties, and the great importance of having a State Board of Equalization, with appropriate and ample powers to equalize and adjust assessments. No action was taken by the Legislature, except that which repealed all laws touching a State Board of Equalization. I trust that this subject may meet with your early and dispassionate consideration.

It is deemed proper to re-publish the following portion of the report mentioned:

"While upon this point, it would be well to examine the source from which the revenue is derived to meet these liabilities. * * * * * * * * *

The prevailing idea of the management of public affairs is in a great measure based on the supposition that the property of the State is largely increasing annually, and the income is more than ample for all purposes.

"A person will not object to a full and complete assessment of his property if he is satisfied that every other property holder is treated in the same way. We may, in this connection inquire, does the property in this State increase? If yes, in what proportion? Probably no State in the Union can show so slow growth in value as this State. Instead of increasing, some of the counties having the advantages of water communication with the shipping ports, have actually decreased in property values in sixteen years.

"And those most accessible, having both railroad and water travel, have increased in property very slowly, and but very little.

"If it should appear from these considerations, that the State is unable to carry its expenses from year to year, it will be found that the difficulty is more in the want of the means than in the estimated burdens. These are upon the State, and they are not apt to decrease where the importance of legislation is considered, rather than the means to carry it out. If they are reduced in one particular, they will appear in another,—not as extravagant, but as necessary. Oregon is not an expensive State, and with its safeguards, never will be so.

"If a measure is important, it is presumed that the revenues will be ample to carry it through. This seems to be the idea in legislation. In proof of this, the revenues are seldom, if ever, considered by legislative bodies. In fact they are almost entirely neglected. Acts are passed without reference to them.

* * * * * "As to the means with which to meet these burdens, if we may call them such, the dependence is wholly upon the values of property within the State. The question may be asked, is this property available, and if it is, is it sufficient? And here, in this connection, we desire to state that there is not an outstanding warrant reported that is not covered by an appropriation. This substantiates what is here said in reference to legislation, where appropriations are made without providing the required means to meet them.

"Sixteen years ago, much of the real estate that is now returned was not assessed. Patents to land had not been issued in very many cases, on which the improvements only were valued. The personal property was relied upon. The exports were chiefly gold and silver. The amount of taxable property was then less than $23,000,000. This was the value of property of the State when it consisted of nineteen counties. Umpqua has since been added to Douglas. To what extent sixteen years have brought wealth and prosperity to the State, a few facts and figures will explain. For instance, Grant county, in Eastern Oregon, has been created since 1858, and is remote from navigable rivers or railroads; isolated, almost, from other parts of the State, but still it pays a larger State tax in proportion to property, and has an average assessed value of real estate higher than all the other counties, except Marion, Multnomah, and Umatilla. Baker county, similarly situated with Grant county, pays a higher State tax in proportion and according to value of property, than all the other counties (twenty-two in number) except five. This fact might be mentioned in connection with other counties, remote from steamboat and railroad communication. The average value of land in Baker and Linn counties is not six dollars per acre. The former is a county upon our eastern border, cut off from the means that make agriculture profitable; the latter is in the heart of the Willamette valley, traversed by a railroad and patronized by steamboats, and is one of the heaviest agricultural counties in Oregon. The average value of land in Grant is a fraction over $6, and not $7 in Marion; not $6 50 in Umatilla, not $5 in Lane, not $11 50 in Multnomah. The assessable property from which these averages are taken, as returned for the year 1873, the last assessment, amounts, with the counties of Umatilla, Union, Baker and Grant, added since 1858, to $40,700,159.

"The following table shows the nineteen original counties in their order of increase and decrease in real and personal property since 1858:

| Counties. | 1858. | 1873. | Increase. | Decrease. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Benton | $ 1,799,104 | $ 1,479,772 | $..... | $ 319,332 |

| Marion | 2,300,000 | 3,013,381 | 713,381 | ..... |
| Multnomah | 2,537,164 | 10,804,662 | 8,267,498 | ..... |
| Polk | 2,217,066 | 1,804,515 | ..... | 412,551 |

| Yamhill | 1,483,235 | 1,887,633 | 404,398 | ..... |
| Totals | $22,824,118 | $37,473,962 | $15,931,414 | $ 1,281,570 |

"Actual increase in sixteen years, only $14,689,844, in the original nineteen counties.

"It will be seen from this statement, that over one-half of this increase comes from Multnomah county, and only $620,523, less than one-half, with the total taxable property of the four new counties east of the mountains added, to-wit: Baker, Grant, Union and Umatilla, the total amount of property of these four counties returned in 1873, being $3,126,198. Douglas county comes next to Multnomah in the scale of increase, remote as it is from a market.

"True economy consists in having every portion of the State bear its just proportion of the public burdens. And if the present state of things were reformed, there would be less complaint about taxes, and one portion would not carry the liabilities of another. States that have given their attention to this subject, find no difficulty in harmonizing legislation with the means to develop their resources—the incentive and encouragement to immigration.

"It appears from these statistics, that there is a great need of a State Board of Equalization, with appropriate and ample powers to regulate the many inconsistencies, and correct the evils existing in the mode of carrying out the provisions of our revenue laws. If the law at present creating this Board is not what it should be, it would be but just to the State to have it perfected."

For the amount of outstanding unpaid warrants, see also State Treasurer's Report at this session. Provision no doubt will be made at the present session of the Legislature for the payment of these warrants. The plan to be adopted best calculated to bring about this result will necessarily involve, among other things, the full consideration of the subject herein mentioned.

MONEY PAID TO STATE TREASURER.

During the past two years I have paid over to the State Treasurer money received from various sources as follows:

|---|---|
| Amount realized from sale of stamps, under the law regulating foreign insurance companies. | $3,883 60 |
| Amount received for the keeping of insane patients at the Asylum | 1,269 95 |
| Amount received from sale of books and rent of Legislative Hall | 687 14 |

NOTES AND MORTGAGES.

Notes and mortgages placed in the hands of the Secretary of State for collection, by the Board of Land Commissioners, as reported by the State Treasurer in 1874, have, with two exceptions, been foreclosed, and the property, except in one instance, sold to the State. They are as follows, and are now in charge of the Board, and reported by the clerk thereof:

Note and mortgage of A. D. Babcock, foreclosed.
" " " A. Myers, "
" " " A. Myers, "
" " " Jos. and Estella Kellogg, foreclosed.
" " " Jos. and Estella Kellogg, "

FOREIGN INSURANCE COMPANIES.

Following is a list of the companies doing business in this State which have complied with the provisions of the law:

FIRE INSURANCE COMPANIES.

Home Mutual, San Francisco.
Imperial, London.
Liverpool, London and Globe.
Phœnix, Hartford, Connecticut.
Union, San Francisco.
Fireman's Fund, San Francisco.
State Investment and Insurance Company, San Francisco.
North British and Mercantile Insurance Company, of Edinburg.
Queen Insurance Company, of Liverpool.

DEFICIENCIES.

THE MODOC WAR DEBT.

There is an amount of Modoc war claims, as the books show, reported and for which vouchers have issued over and above the appropriation heretofore made, amounting to the sum of $4,179 80. It will be necessary to make further appropriation to cover this amount, or as much thereof as may be required, and to give authority to issue bonds for the same.

The following claims have been presented against the State in excess of appropriations :

For conveying insane patients to Asylum, (Insane Asylum Fund).....$5,513 80
For arresting fugitives, (Fugitive Fund)..... 494 65
For conveying convicts to Penitentiary, (Convict Fund)..... 967 35
For Printing ..... 4,039 91

On taking possession of the Capitol Building, I found that the rooms and Legislative Halls were not prepared for the uses for which they were designed. The rooms designated as Supreme Court rooms, offices, and Legislative Halls, so to speak, were turned over to the State naked. Platforms for desks for Judges and presiding officers, railings and seats for lobby in each Legislative Hall, fixtures for all of these rooms, and for the building generally, and supply pipe for gas and other things, were needed to complete the building for occupancy. On calling the attention of the Board of Capitol Commissioners to this want, I learned a majority of the Board were of the opinion that it belonged to the State Department to fit up these rooms for the Court, officers and Legislature; that these details were not included in their contracts, and they declined to do this work. In order to have the Capitol building ready for the Legislature at this session, it was necessary to make these improvements, and I had them made, and although they are not quite completed, enough has been done to make the building comfortable. The rooms were turned over to the State on the 26th of August last. Most of the expense incurred in this matter has been paid out of the Incidental Fund. There is a balance against the State still unpaid, bills for which have not been presented, as the work is not quite finished.

ESTIMATED EXPENSES.

For two years commencing the second Monday of September, A. D., 1876, exclusive of extraordinary appropriations for special purposes:

OREGON LAW REPORTS.

Since the last session of the Legislative Assembly, volumes 4 and 5 of the "Oregon Law Reports" have been published, under the superintendence of the Supreme Court Reporter, in accordance with Section 2 of Chapter 55 of the Miscellaneous Laws. This work has been done on the most favorable terms, under contract with the Clerk, by Messrs. A. L. Bancroft & Co., of San Francisco, and their bill for the same, amounting to $3,000 00, will be laid before your honorable body at an early day during the session, at which time copies of the printed volumes will be presented for your examination.

REPORT.

OFFICE OF THE
SUPERINTENDENT OF PUBLIC INSTRUCTION,
Salem, Oregon, September 1st, 1876.

To the Honorable the Legislative Assembly of the State of Oregon:

GENTLEMEN:—In obedience to the requirements of our law, I have the honor to submit the second biennial report of this department:

To get a fair view of the public school system of Oregon it is necessary to trace the leading features of its history from its inception to the present time. This centennial year of our nation's life and labors presents a favorable occasion also for such a review, and this biennial report of the Superintendent of Public Instruction affords a pleasant opportunity. The honorable members of both branches of our State Legislature, even though they know most of the facts in review, will not object, it is believed, to their being grouped in this form; but rather will be pleased to have them for convenient reference. Besides, the State, it is thought, will be glad to present this pleasing array of our education work to the Commissioners of the International Centennial Exhibition in Philadelphia, as a synopsis of our contribution to the grand aggregate of our nation's education exhibit, which will be gathered and grouped from all the States and Territories of our Continental Republic. No citizen of Oregon, it is believed, will be ashamed of our educational record, though brief and somewhat meagre as compared with that of our older sister States, if he will recollect that our history scarcely exceeds a quarter of a century, and that we have been somewhat isolated and without the kindly sympathy and helpful stimulus of practical contact with the school systems of older and wealthier sister States. While we have always been debtor to them for valuable reports, for the records of their legislation, and for many practical educators, and while we most cheerfully admit our obligations for all these inestimable helpings, yet all know that a free school system, healthful and symmetrical in all its parts and functions, must, like a tree, grow up among a people, and of them and for them, bearing its own legitimate fruits, adapted to their peculiar wants.

In collating facts, therefore, we draw from all reports—State, county, town and district—in hand, of whatever character; and full credit and heartiest thanks are hereby expressed for whatever of these are embodied in this report, with or without name.

As the legal status of our system of public instruction is of prime importance, the following paper is, by permission of the author, incorporated in this report:

CENTENNIAL.

EARLY HISTORY OF THE PUBLIC SCHOOL SYSTEM OF OREGON, WITH A GENERAL OUTLINE OF ITS LEGAL ASPECTS.

BY REV. G. H. ATKINSON, D. D.

"At the request of Hon. L. L. Rowland, M. D., State Superintendent of Public Instruction, and Chairman on Centennial History of our Public Schools, I have sketched the following items:

"The legal status of our school system from the first is doubtless a fair expression of public sentiment. In tracing the more obvious principles of the school laws, we may find a concise view of the subject. Were the laws reversed, its history would be reversed also. The organic law of Oregon, article 1st, section 3d, passed in 1844, as the basis of the provisional government, provided that 'schools and the means of education shall be forever encouraged.' At that period and under the provisional government, which continued until March, 1849, there were no public funds to maintain schools. All were supported by voluntary tax or subscription, or with mission funds. The educational sentiment had been nourished by the mission schools of the M. E. Church from their commencement in 1834, and by the A. B. C. F. from 1836, and by those of the Catholic Church in 1841 or 1842, and doubtless by the earlier schools at Vancouver, and perhaps other posts of the Hon. Hudson Bay Co., supported by the gentlemen of that company.

"It is presumed that all these local schools, though supported by private or by mission funds, were open to all classes of children and youth, and so far public. The early settlers were intelligent men and women, and eager to secure permanent institutions of learning for their children in the territory, as was shown by their readiness to aid in establishing the Oregon Institute at Salem, and the Tualatin Academy at Forest Grove, which were commenced one before and one during the provisional government.

"As yet no plan had been devised to sustain a system of free schools. The pioneers had no sure title to their claims. There had been no surveys of public lands. The United States Territorial Government was not then established here. There was no appropriation of the 16th section of every township for free schools, as in all new States since the ordinance of 1787. The whole subject was inchoate, except the earnest desire felt by a large majority of the people for a definite plan of action.

"The commission given Rev. G. H. Atkinson by the American Home Mission Society in 1847 to labor in Oregon, instructed him to aid in the work of education. This led him to spend several weeks before coming, in carefully examining various series of school books, which resulted in the choice of Sanders' Series of Readers and Speller, Thompson's Arithmetic, Davies' Algebra, Smith's Geography, Wilson's History, Wells' Grammars, and the Spencerian System of Penmanship. An invoice of $200 worth were brought by him on the publisher's commission in 1848, and sold in 1848 and 1849, and an invoice of $1,700 worth were soon ordered, which were in 1850 or 1851 sold in bulk to Hon. L. D. C. Latourette, of Oregon City, whose store was the first to have a school book department, and finally re-sold to Hon. S. J. McCormick, the veteran book seller of Portland. Meanwhile Hon. J. Quinn Thornton had gone with letters of credit to Washington to present the urgent claims of Oregon to recognition by the United States Government. He had succeeded in inducing Congress to pass the bill of August 14, 1848, organizing the Territorial Government for Oregon, which included among other important subjects the 20th section, providing that when the public lands shall be surveyed, the 16th and 36th sections in every township shall be set apart for public schools. This act was a silent force planted in Oregon, and in every new State of the future, doubling the power of the grant secured by Hon. Nathan Dane in the ordinance of 1787, in the interest and for surer permanent endowment of the American system of public schools.

"After the arrival of the Governor, General Joseph Lane, early in the summer of 1849, a public meeting was called at Oregon City, then the capital of the Territory, by a few gentlemen, among them Hon. G. L. Curry, Hon. W. W. Buck, Dr. John McLaughlin, Rev. G. H. Atkinson, to consult upon the subject of a system of free schools. After a rather warm debate it was finally voted—only a few dissenting in an audience of 40 or 50—that it is desirable to establish a system of public instruction among the first enactments of our territorial legislature. The dissenters to this resolution were gentlemen whose early abode or training in other countries led them to the opinion that every man ought to educate his own children and wards, and not tax others to do it. Mr. Smith, of Yamhill county, who was present, did himself honor by strongly defending the American principle of educating every citizen of the nation at public cost for the preservation of the republic.

"Up to the date of this meeting, efforts for the object had been chiefly individual, and without mutual knowledge or consultation. Doubtless many other minds had been moved in the same direction, who never became known to the writer. After that time the friends of education were found co-operating. Gen. Lane sought suggestions from one, and perhaps more of the gentlemen present at the meeting, and incorporated them in his first message, recommending the Legislature to pass a law establishing a system of public education. That act was passed September 5th, 1849, and was one of the first acts of the first Territorial Legislature of Oregon.

"Chapter first was devoted to the school fund, providing that the interest of any funds arising from the sale of school lands be applied annually for the support of public schools, according to the reports of pupils of school age in the several districts, to be made to the County School Commissioners. This principle has continued in every school law since. The revised school law of January 31st, 1853, section 1st established a common school fund, the income only to be appropriated. Section 2. The principal of all moneys from school lands, bequests, liens, fines, forfeitures or penalties to be an irreducible school fund, etc. The revised laws of January 12th, 1854, provided: Section 1. That the fund arising from the sales of school lands, and all bequests constitute an irreducible fund, the interest of which is to be annually divided among all the districts reporting schools kept in proportion to the number of pupils in each of school age, which was 4 to 21 years. Section 2 provided that the Commissioners of every county should lay an annual tax of two mills for the support of schools, and collect it with all other taxes of the county and State. Section 3 provided that the County Treasurer set apart all moneys collected from fines for breach of any penal laws of the Territory for the support of the public schools.

"While these enactments did credit to the judgment of the Oregon legislators, they did greater credit to the citizens who were willing to be taxed in order to give immediate efficiency to the public school system.

"These provisions have, in substance, been preserved in the revised statutes of 1866 and 1872. The revised acts of January 31, 1855, section 7, confirmed every school district as a body corporate with power to assess and collect taxes by their legally chosen directors and clerks for school purposes. The act of January 31, 1853, section 5, gave districts the right to assess and collect taxes to support school teaching three or nine months per year. The Constitution of Oregon upon education and school lands. (See General Laws, 1866, p. 116. Deady.

"Section 2, on the subject of a common school fund, provided that lands granted, money and property by escheat, or forfeiture; moneys on exemption from military duty; gifts, devises, bequests—grants to State not stated —proceeds of 500,000 acres, by act of Congress of 4th of September, 1841; 5 per cent. of net sales of public lands, on our becoming a State, if Congress consent, all shall be set apart as a separate and irreducible fund for common schools, the interest, with other revenues from school land to be applied to support of schools in each district, and to buy libraries and apparatus.

"Sec. 3. The Legislature shall provide by law to establish a uniform and general system of common schools.

"Sec. 4. The Legislature shall provide by law to distribute the income of the school fund to all counties of the State pro rata to all children from 4 to 20 years of age.

"Section 5 constitutes the State Board of School Commissioners, of the Governor, Secretary of State and Secretary of the Treasury, for the sale of the school lands and the investment of the funds; provided, no part of the university funds or interest be expended until a period of ten years from the adoption of this Constitution, September 18, 1857, unless Congress otherwise dispose. Congress granted 72 sections for a State University and 90,000 acres for an Agricultural College. The net proceeds of sale of estrays goes to the common school fund. (General Laws, page 723.) Forfeitures under usury laws go to the common school fund of the county (756). Fines under the license law go to the common school fund of the county (772). Also fines for violating the Sunday law, and fines for failure to obtain license and such moneys or fines (773); also fines for selling or giving liquors to minors under 18 years (774–5); fines for billiard tables and fines under the salmon laws, go to the common school fund (881). Attorneys, Sheriffs, Constables and Justices knowing must complain and see to the execution of the laws (773). About $500,000 worth of public school lands have been sold and part of this fund has been paying annual interest for six or eight years for school purposes. About 3,000,000 of acres of Oregon school lands remain unsold.

"Some of the investments of school funds, especially one or two authorized by the Legislature, have been profitless and probably failures. Generally extreme caution and care are taken by the only authorized State Board of Commissioners in making these investments.

"The legal history of the school fund reveals a steady purpose of the people to preserve and increase this princely heritage for the use of their children to the latest generation. Palsied be the hand that wastes or perverts this priceless gift.

STATE SUPERINTENDENT.

"The office of Territorial Superintendent of Schools, elective triennially by the Legislature, according to the law of September 5, 1849, Dr. J. McBride being first Superintendent, was abolished by the act of February 1, 1851, and revived again by constitutional enactment.

"Section 1 made the Governor Superintendent of Schools five years from the adoption of the Constitution, September 18, 1857, thereafter leaving the Legislature to provide for electing a State Superintendent of Schools.

"After an additional interregnum it has been established by vote of the people and invested with the duties of general oversight and information; the imparting of information by speech, writings and institutes; the careful collation of all facts respecting the schools and the system; counsel with the State Board of Commissioners; the provision of blanks for teachers and Superintendents, and biennial reports to the Legislature. The State Superintendent is relieved from the special oversight of the school lands and funds—a duty imposed by the first law. This office now bids fair to be permanent and of increasing importance, as the population becomes more compact and the lines of travel more convenient, and the good character of the public schools more established.

TEACHERS' CERTIFICATES.

"The cumbrous office of a trio of school examiners, appointed by the District Court for each county triennially, under the law of 1849, was made elective by the people by the act of January 28, 1851, and finally abolished by the act of January 12, 1854, and its duties of examining teachers and giving them certificates committed to County Superintendents, who have retained them until now, with the addition of assistant examiners, selected by each Superintendent from his corps of teachers. The history of this law shows that its first idea was correct, and that its practical realization in the present mode commends its value and secures its efficiency in raising the standard of qualifications in the corps of school teachers.

COUNTY SUPERINTENDENTS.

"The office of County School Commissioner has been

Digitized by Google

continued in that of County Superintendent, with all its duties, only the name being changed, to the present time. When the office of Territorial Superintendent was abolished, by the act of February 7, 1851, his duty of disbursing the school moneys to the several districts was wisely committed to the County School Commissioner and thence transferred to the County Superintendent. Ideas, like lines of silver, trace their way by devious paths and, under much rubbish of form, yet keep their value untarnished.

"No office has proved more important to our public school system than this. Its direct and frequent contact with the people in personal speech and by the press, enables the faithful officer to watch every feature of the school system in its practical working in every district, and to flash the light of the best experience and the warmth of earnest conviction upon every little company of co-workers, to stimulate their efforts and cheer their progress. It is just to say that the office of County Superintendent of Schools can be the local inspiration of the system, or the dead weight upon its vitality. It can be the radient light of full reports for all the people, or the center of darkness.

DISTRICT DIRECTORS.

"The original plan of three School Directors, elected by every district, embodied in the law of September 5, 1849, seems to be the type of all public school systems, from the New England coast to the shores of the Pacific. Its essential features have been retained in all the revised and amended school laws of our State. Section 18 of the law of 1849 made them a body politic and corporate, to execute the will of the people in renting or building of schoolhouses, hiring teachers, assessing and collecting taxes, supervising the schools, directing their management after intelligent study of them by frequent visits, and, more than all, in choosing the books to be used. This trust is given on the sole condition of faithful use of the funds and full report of their work, and on the further condition of making the schools free to all the children of the district. It is the office that comes most directly from the people, and abides constantly under their notice. Its features have been slightly modified, but its substance remains, so that the directors, under the revised statutes, scarcely vary their duties performed under the first enactment. Once drilled to the work, a director ought to be able to serve well at any future time. The defect usually is in the drill practice according to law, and the result is awkward marching and poor field work ever after.

SCHOOL BOOKS.

"The law of 1872 has assigned the choice of school books to a State Board, for the sake of uniformity. This experiment, often tried elsewhere, has not proved all that was hoped for it. Several valuable series of school books have been used in our schools, making numerous classes in small schools in the same grade and study, and much confusion therefrom.

DISTRICT TAXATION.

"The experiment of district taxation has succeed only in part. In tested cases, defects have been found in some of the laws, annd more in the proper action of the districts. Yet the late law has added one mill to the annual school tax, making three assessed and collected with county and State taxes. This uplift increases the school terms over the State. Complaints of the inefficiency of the system arise from neglect of working it, and from sparse settlements more than from any inherent fault that further legislation can cure. The call is for a revision of the school laws, but they have been amended repeatedly, making their operation more direct. New laws on this subject, or more of them will not execute themselves. The best workers under the present system complain the least of it, and their fruits prove good.

SCHOOL STUDIES.

"The class of studies required in the public schools at first—as reading, writing, arithmetic and geography, have held their place steadily. History and algebra have been added. A high school course has been pursued in a few places with good results, as a stimulus to graded schools, and a proof of the educating power of the system. The high school is to the common or grammar school what the ripe fruit is to the green, or the yellow harvest to the green fields of summer.

SCHOOL MORALS.

"The law of 1849, requiring every teacher of the public schools to procure a certificate of qualifications and of good moral character, has been retained in every revised law, and enforced more strictly by its trial. The mental and moral standard of teachers as a whole has risen. It is a false charge that the public schools are any less moral than the private schools. From a wide observation and experience in the schools during the last twenty-seven years, it can be affirmed that they promote good morals by virtue of the moral sentiment that pervades all the schools, small and large, of our State. If adverse facts are adduced, they are the exception, not the rule. That the demand for moral teachers has been made and enforced for a quarter of a century and more, by the whole State, and embodied in every law, is a standing witness for this truth and a withering rebuke to every one who charges the public schools with being godless and immoral. He who makes the charge insults the community in which he ives and proves himself recreant as to its blessings.

SCHOOL DISTRICTS.

"The law of Sept. 5, 1849, requiring the School Commissioners to district their entire counties has been modified to apply to the settled parts. The conflicts of districts have caused the usual disturbance incident to a new and changing and sparce population. The utmost fairness towards all parties is sought by the statute, and secured generally by the County Superintendents, who have this duty in charge, co-ordinately with the people in the districts interested.

INFLUENCE OF OUR SCHOOLS.

"The self-educating power of the school district system in all the elements of self-government has shown itself in our own as in other States. Its effect has been to produce a better social life among all the people and to ennoble the American citizen. Its educating power on the young, besides the class-book exercises, is of untold value. He who has noted this carefully in the State will admit its force. Its power to harmonize and mould together the diverse elements of our population has no equal. For this alone it is worth its cost. Gently and surely the free school pupils become homogenous in habits of thinking, feeling and acting. They are thus fitted to launch into life's duties and achieve their tasks. Witness the boys and girls of our free schools in all the walks of business. Test them in private or public callings. They are the peers of any who emerge from other schools and other discipline.

HOPEFUL FUTURE.

"In this brief review only the most salient points of the system could be touched. But a system so environed in the laws of the people; so full of their ripest judgment and noblest desires, sustained by their free will offerings year by year, should command our profoundest thought and highest admiration. Its future, springing from the present, may bear fruit richer and more abundant than its friends now think. Its stability rests not on the caprices of a few, but on its providental history and its almost perfect adaptation to wants of a great and free people.

"The log school house of the early days gives way to the neat, white, well-furnished school house of the present growing settlements. The progress in some places has become an example to others. The citizens of Portland, in 1849, raised $2,000 by subscription for a school building. The three large public school buildings which now adorn the city and accommodate the twenty-eight teachers in all the departments of a well graded system, attest the intelligent liberality of the citizens and the efficiency of the school directors, superintendents and teachers. The past assures the future for this city.

ONE DISTRICT IN A CITY.

"The citizens of Oregon City, in 1850 and 1851, gave over $4,000 to establish the Clackamas County Female Seminary, which afterwards, by purchase, became the city graded public school, and which, during the quarter century, has given knowledge to hundreds, and perhaps thousands, of pupils. The rule of making one public school district of the entire city, which has been adopted in these two places, has proved the best means of improving the schools.

IMPROVEMENT OF THE LOCAL SCHOOL.

"The habit of sending their children from the country to the city schools, adopted by the richer farmers, on the principle that every man must look out for his own, is perhaps slowly yielding to the purpose to spend the money in providing better country schools. In carrying out this plan, the best results will accrue to the greatest number of the people and raise all the schools of the State to an equality in character. It is proper to notice the efforts of the citizens of Portland to make their public school a model. They have given liberally of their time and of their money during a quarter of a century to perfect their own schools. Men of wealth and high social and professional standing have consented to serve as directors, and to employ every means to make the system a success. They have proved that it is an enterprise that rewards faithful care and pays well for the investment.

"Some schemes do not bear culture or handling, but our public school system will bear to be worked, as you work a garden, until every square inch bears a fruitful plant instead of a weed or a thorn. Its success in our city, from the first growth upward, commends it to every town or city, which stands in doubt, and to every settlement that would put the best magnet to draw a choice population. With all the disadvantages in sparsely settled districts—and we know they exist—the advantage of a good school, which every one can have, three, or six, or nine months, is more than mills, stores and roads can bring. No investment of a district pays so well to all the interests of a family as a first-class public school. It is a central light, attractive, quickening, guiding, even controlling the mental and moral forces of the young, and shaping very much their plans and habits, thus enriching a people by its endowment of power, more than the richest bonanzas of silver or gold."

Our school funds, which are at once the sinews and the nerves of our school system, are in excellent condition. For full particulars respecting this subject see report of the School Land Commissioners. The outlook to the true educationist is eminently encouraging. The annual three-mill tax—our largest present income for the support of public education—is, to the honor of a generous people, cheerfully and promptly paid. The rate bills and district taxes are collated in one common table, showing, approximately at least, the aggregate annual voluntary outlay of our citizens for the promotion of public education, which speaks well for their liberality and enterprise. Owing, however, to negligence in sending up complete reports, such compilation cannot be made to the fullest satisfaction. Tables "A" and "B," however, will prove interesting and instructive in this regard. Schools are thus sustained by a people widely scattered, whose children, in the country settlements, in many cases, have from one to four miles to go to school. These new settlers, too, are compelled to clear and enclose their farms, make roads, construct bridges, erect houses and other buildings, buy their farm implements, and support their families, while providing teachers, books, houses and furniture for their schools. The amount of these taxes will appear, and the annual per cent. of increase will be easily inferred, by reference to tables "A" and "B." The average expense of education in the public schools of Oregon per year, according to the average number of pupils attending, is $17 33 each; or, according to those enrolled, $9 87½ each; or, according to the number reported of school age, $5 51 each. This presents a far better showing than can be exhibited by very many of our older and wealthier States.

It will be seen, then, by comparing tables "A" and "B" with tables "C" and "D," that Oregon ranks among the more advanced States in its provisions and its expenditures for public education, in proportion to its population; and the past foretokens equal, and even a greater liberality of the people in the future for this object.

The total number of persons over four and under twenty years of age, as per report of the State Superintendent for the year 1873, was 40,808, or more than one-third of the entire population of the State. Our limits—over four and under twenty years—include a larger class than the limits of some States. Yet it has been remarked by Hon. John Eaton, United States Commissioner of Education, that Oregon reports a larger school population per capita than any other State of the Union. The law of growth of this class is a fair index of the per cent. of gain in the State census.

Tables "C" and "D" will show the school population by counties; districts reporting; legal voters; enrollment and attendance at public or private schools, or at none, for the school years 1874-5 and 1875-6. These tables show that the total increase of school population for 1874-5 was 3,779, and for 1875-6, 3,886; also, that the increase in number of school districts reporting for 1874-5, was 85, and for 1875-6, 40; that of legal voters in districts for 1874-5, was 1,735, and for 1875-6, 3,645; the increase in enrollment for 1874-5 was 4,174, and for 1875-6, 2,572. Besides this, it will be seen, by reference to the State Superintendent's report for 1873-4, that 10,711 persons of school age were attending no school; while the report for 1875-6, with a gain of 125 newly organized districts, not required to furnish schools for three years, as per section 42 of the school laws, and with an increase of nearly one-fifth of the school population, shows only 13,143 non-attendants.

The per cent. of gain per county, and the average for the State, will appear in table "H" for the school years of 1874-5 and 1875-6. These figures impress the thoughtful with the gravity of the problem of public education. The tide of immigration sets this way, and flows more widely over our State. People cluster together rapidly and take on fixed habits. It is the public school that will mold the youth to unity of thought, and stimulate to high and worthy aims. We have, therefore, no time to lose in establishing, improving and perfecting our system in every such little centre of population.

Having found from the tables above mentioned—which require attention, and which will, it is believed, reward study—the amount of our available resources, present and prospective, for the support of public schools, and the number of the school population, with the annual per cent. of increase, as estimated by this tabular history, we are prepared to estimate the school work done by the State, according to counties.

Table "F" shows the number and grade of the public schools of the State for the years 1875-6.

Table "E" shows the number of public schools and the number of private schools, the whole and average number of months taught, the number of teachers employed, etc., for 1874-5.

There has been an annual gain in the whole number of schools for these years as follows: Gain of 1874-5 in schools of ordinary grade, 51; in advanced grade, 3 per cent.; gain of ordinary grade, 9 4-5; of advanced, 25 per cent.; gain of 1875-6 in schools of ordinary grade, 59; of advanced, 2 per cent.; gain in schools of ordinary grade, 8 4-5; of advanced grade, 13 1-3.

The studies required for the teacher's certificate, viz: Orthography, reading, writing, mental and written arithmetic, English grammar, geography, modern history and teaching, define the ordinary grade. The same studies define the advanced course, with the following additional: Higher arithmetic, geometry, algebra, general history, composition, physiology, natural philosophy, chemistry, botany any book-keeping.

The relations of the one to the other are natural, and pupils and parents claim the privilege of the graded system, in some of its features, in every public school in the State. The reason for a school at all is a reason for the defined progress, step by step, of its pupils.

It is an element of the human mind to grow, and thus to seek new domains of thought. To repress it by arbitrary limits is to stop its growth, as of a tree compressed by walls of wood or stone. Every school will have one or more of such pupils, who will grow rapidly in certain directions, and who will demand books and require instructions in them. The usual regard on the part of teachers and of districts to this demand in single or more cases in their schools, is a reason for some graded system by counties, and of a higher school, central and convenient, to which such pupils can have free access. Such a public high school is established in every important town in Massachusetts, to which the pupils from every district in town are welcomed on examination. The hundreds of schools of ordinary grade in Oregon, that have pupils in the advanced studies, show the need of such high schools at the county seat of all our counties.

It is another element of the mind to be stimulated by the idea of progress. This fact, as much as any other, makes the system of graded schools established at Portland, such a pleasant success. Every child, even down to the tenth grade, soon learns that he can go up into the ninth grade in six months, if he attends regularly and promptly, and studies well. This system helps the child by the true principle of a definite division of work according to capacity. It helps the teacher and the parent in an equal degree to improve every pupil, thus raising the standard of all the schools, and perfecting the system.

Rule XI. of the code of regulations adopted by the State Board of Education, reads thus: "Requiring every teacher to examine his pupils at the end of each term, and grant certificates to all who average 90 per cent;" and is a practical grading of the pupils who require a graded school.

The amount of school work done, as to the number of months taught, the number of teachers employed, their average monthly salaries, and the number of private schools, will appear in tables "E" and "F."

It is found in every town and settlement that the interest of the friends of public schools arouses others, and ensures their progress and improvement. The published reports of one district stimulate other districts. A generous competition and emulation in school work benefits all parties; as when farmers show at fairs their cereals, their fruits, and their stock, they arouse one another to do better every succeeding year. So if the fruits of our public schools could in some way be shown at the annual State Fair by competitive examinations, or prize speakings, rehearsals and compositions, as well as samples of penmanship, map, mechanical and architectural drawing, etc., the people would get new ideas of this work, and return home with new resolutions to grade up and perfect their respective local schools.

SCHOOL TEACHERS.

The new rules for examining teachers are producing happy results, and the tendency for the past two years has been to elevate the standard of qualifications. The process is more definite, being in writing and under the eye of the County Superintendent and two or more professional teachers. The legal time for examination is fixed. The schedule of questions is prepared quarterly by the State Board, and issued by the State Superintendent prior to the day of examination.

This Board have on trial failed to secure that uniform progress, or even relative harmony, in the treatment of subjects by the questions which they, in the future, hope to gain, for the reason that the Board consists of persons so closely occupied in their private professional labors that they have been unable to expend the time and labor necessary to make this work as complete a success as could be desired. Teaching is a profession as well as an art, which requires and rewards study and demands a life devotion. It is in this aim and spirit that it is hoped to enlist all candidates for the service in their aspirations to a higher position and to aid them on repeated trials. This service needs a high order of professional ability, which ought to be commanded, even under pay, in order to be made duly efficient to the State. Its result is to form a corps of professional teachers, worthy of the title, and pledged to the highest welfare of our public school system. The legal fraternity admit new members only on the examination of a board of eminent judges. The schools of medicine require similar examinations. The schools of public instruction need the same regimen, which, if adopted, will ennoble the system. The same argument holds as to the care of all the interests of public instruction.

THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

The school reports now required of every teacher, as per daily register, at the end of every term, calls constant attention to the habits and progress of the pupils. Being more accurately kept, if teachers are faithful to fill the blanks, we can have a minute and complete view of the schools. Their perfections and defects may appear at a glance. But in practice, thus far, there is a lack of full reports. New teachers and new clerks fail to learn and do this duty in many cases. County Superintendents are left in the dark about matters which they ought to know, and they must, therefore, leave the State Superintendent to guess respecting the actual condition of some of the schools. Of others, full reports plainly show growth and promise.

In Portland, the grading of the schools has advanced in a very marked degree. Two classes form one grade. By gentle steps the small child is lead up steadily and surely. He is examined every five months, principally in writing, upon every study of the previous term. If he answers seventy per cent. of the questions correctly, he passes honorably to the next grade.

Thus, a few years finds him graduating from the high school, with good mental and moral habits, and a fund of valuable knowledge, which he can increase by farther study or by practical experience.

The Salem Public Schools are pursuing the same graded course, with similar results. Other schools, especially in the towns and more thickly settled parts of the country, practice something of this system, as a sign of further steps in this direction.

Yet there are schools with little idea or means of progress. They need the thought, plan, aim and self-denying work of teachers and district officers to lift them out of the old rut and set them on a new and safe track. It is but justice, however, to the several hundred schools comprised in our list to compliment their steady progress from year to year, which augurs well for the future. Out of these common schools some of the most useful men and women in all our communities have come, enjoying no other school privileges. This system of instruction is our surest and safest method of trainining a people of diverse nationalities to common habits of thought and to harmony of purpose in social and civil life. The course of study adopted in the graded schools, above named, meets the present want fairly, fitting pupils well to enter the higher departments of instruction.

SCHOOL BUILDINGS.

Tables "G" and "H" will show the value and increase of value of school buildings, etc., for the years 1874-5 and 1875-6. Much has been said about the "log and box" school houses, but if the people build as well for their schools as for their own abode, the complaint loses much of its force. Pioneers clear, fence, plant, construct and repair roads and bridges, erect their own dwellings and support their families. Who can expect them to have school buildings and furniture equal to those in communities twice or thrice as old? There are, indeed, some rough structures called "school houses" in the woods, and a few on the prairies, but there are many well built and on good sites. Some, though plain, are convenient and comfortable, serving their purpose well from year to year. Others still are attractive and cheerful, making pleasant impressions upon youthful minds by their surroundings and furniture. The public school buildings of Portland do honor to the State as well as to the city.

With these conveniencies it may be said that more can be done by parents, especially by wives and mothers, to see that the school lot is well chosen for health and beauty, and fitly furnished with seats, and that the walls are adorned with illustrations at once useful and beautiful; that the school grounds are set with trees, and that the grounds and out-buildings are so well kept that they can intrust safely the sensitive nature of their children to these scenes. It belongs to the women of our State to guard the physical and moral health of the school abodes of their tender children as much as those of their own homes. Women give the larger per cent. of instruction in our public schools; why should they not aid as largely in the local and general superintendence of the same? What gentleness and patient toil they have bestowed in the department of instruction! What beauty any purity it is their privilege to impart to that of aesthetics and of virtue!

In review of the themes embodied in this report, it may be remarked that the public school fund, arising from the annual interest of the school land fund, which constantly increases from land sales and from fines and penalties from the three-mill tax, which is also increasing with the increase of the wealth of the State, and from the local district taxes, which, though voluntary, grow larger year by year, with the growing popularity of the public school system, is in such a healthful condition in all respects as to warrant the fullest assurance that the State will soon be possessed of ample means for current expenses. The number of children increases by a definite per cent.; as does also the number of schools and terms. The demand for more and better teachers likewise increases, and this demand will be supplied, in some degree, as a consequence of the excellent work of our teachers' institutes. The outlook, therefore, is truly hopeful. It invites us to go forward, impelled by the high and pure aim to give to every child in Oregon such knowledge and culture as will fit him to be a worthy and useful citizen.

REMARKS OF SCHOOL SUPERINTENDENTS.

The following remarks respecting the condition of our public schools are extracted from County Superintendents' reports for 1875–6:

Baker County—Hon. S. H. Small, Superintendent.

The interest in education is increasing in this county. In districts, 1, 4 and 5, public schools have been kept in operation from seven to ten months.

Benton County—Hon. E. A. Milner, Superintendent.

I have no time to fill out these questions.

Clackamas County—Hon. J. W. Sellwood, Superintendent.

The schools in this county are in a tolerable condition. They, however, need many things to make them what they ought to be. And first, in my humble opinion, the law ought to be so changed as to require a six months' school in order to entitle any district to the public funds. Many are the districts abundantly able, with a little effort, to have a school for that length of time, who have now only a three months' school. Were they compelled to have a longer school in order to obtain the public funds, they would do so, in most instances, rather than lose the funds. And surely no district ought to have any less than a six months' school. A school of shorter duration than that is about so much time and money thrown away.

Another improvement I think ought to be made in the law, and that is establishing a third grade certificate, or at least giving the County Superintendent the power to grant a certificate to teach in a particular school. Oftentimes there is a person who can not get a certificate according to the present law, who would be abundantly qualified to teach a particular school —a school where there were none but young pupils. There ought, I think, to be some discretionary power with a Superintendent in a case of this kind. If he sees that a certain person is admirably suited to teach the young, or if he knows that she has been very successful as a teacher, and yet from some cause or other fails to get the requisite per centage in order to obtain a certificate, he ought to have the power to grant her one, provided he has good reason to believe that she is properly qualified.

Columbia County.—Hon. J. E. Gilbreath, Superintendent.

To make our quarterly examinations a success, our next Legislature should pass a law requiring each applicant for a teacher's certificate to attend the quarterly examinations, or be debarred from obtaining a certificate. I think that is the time and place for teachers to be examined as to their qualifications as teachers in our public schools.

Some of our school houses are in a deplorable condition. It is impossible to make our schools a success unless we have better school houses.

Clatsop County.—Hon. T. A. Hyland, Superintendent for 1876.

You are probably aware that the salary of the School Superintendent of this county, is only $100. This is not sufficient to pay him for his services, not to say anything of traveling expenses incurred while visiting schools in the county. Former superintendents scarcely ever visited a school out of town. So that part of his work has been neglected. I intend to visit every school once in six months. This will take more than the salary comes to. The office work is also considerable.

Douglas County.—Hon. H. P. Watkins, Superintendent.

Schools of this county need, among many other things, sets of apparatus. The school best furnished in this regard, (Canyonville, No. 8,) was recently burned down, and at present the county is without a school-room furnished with illustrative apparatus. There is but one globe in a school-room in the county.

Grant County.—Hon. W. H. Kelly, Superintendent.

This county is sadly in need of better school houses, and school furniture of all kinds.

Jackson County.—Hon. H. C. Fleming, Superintendent.

The district clerks should be furnished, at the expense of the State, with school registers for the teachers, then it would be no trouble to obtain correct reports. The County School Superintendents should also have one of a similar kind in which to make entry of the reports received from the teachers and district clerks.

Changes in school districts should be brought before the county court, the same as changes in roads, etc.

The law should require the schools to be graded into first, second and third grades. First Grade should require to be taught, in addition to what is already required, Algebra, Natural Philosophy and Hygiene. Second Grade should require to be taught just what is now required. Third Grade should require to be taught, Reading, to include the Fourth Reader, Writing, Orthography, Primary History, Primary Grammar and Rudiments of Arithmetic. Teachers' certificates should be graded to correspond to the grades of the schools, and each one should be required to answer correctly eighty per cent. of all the questions asked, before obtaining any certificate.

Josephine County.—J. M. Smith, Superintendent.

Visits by directors, in all, thirteen, from ten minutes to two hours each. Twelve cases of corporal punishment; seven cases in one district, no case in nine. Accommodations for all pupils wishing to attend. No apparatus of any kind. School furniture unsuitable in some districts. Lowest valuation of school-house and grounds, $5; highest, $200. Two teachers refused to report, two neglected, and some did so reluctantly.

Lane County.—Hon. R. G. Callison, Superintendent.

I have visited most all the schools taught in the county, and find considerable improvement over last year. I would suggest that the State Board raise the standard of teachers, in respect to qualifications, twenty-per cent., and that the next Legislature increase the rate of taxation for school purposes.

Marion County.—Hon. H. P. Crooke, Superintendent.

The county fund, derived from the three-mill tax, etc., apportioned the third Monday of this month [April] amounts to the sum of $13,136 18, coin, which, distributed pro rata, gives to each person of school age the sum of $2.4837. I am highly gratified at the success attained by the public schools during the present year. The teachers employed have given general satisfaction, and a large number are again employed for the year 1876, with increased wages. The average attendance has been considerably increased over last year, and the feeling that exists between patrons and teachers has been of a more co-operative character than heretofore. The citizens have taken a more lively interest and given more attention to their schools than in years gone by. All this tends to advance the great cause of education; and yet there is still room for great improvement in the schools. The furniture of the school-rooms is insufficient—desks, tables, maps, charts, books, etc., are wanting.

Multnomah County.—Hon. T. L. Eliot, Superintendent.

The work of this district during the last year can hardly be too highly commended. The directory has labored through the year with enthusiasm, and can freely offer for the consideration of the public a school system which has advanced during the year full fifty per cent. in efficiency of instruction, and in the whole atmosphere of discipline, method, and scholarship. Indeed, taken in connection with the previous year, the changes in the city schools amount to a revolution. This is not merely the judgment of those who might be unconsciously biased, but is the uniform testimony of visitors and citizens.

It need hardly be said that these things are due, in the first place, to the executive ability and judgment of the board of directors, and secondly, to the zeal of a well chosen and efficient corps of teachers, who are reinforced at every turn by the system of supervision of grades. For the benefit of those who have not informed themselves, it may here be stated that the supervision mentioned is carried on at an expense of nine hundred dollars a year (being the half-time of an instructor otherwise employed each day in the High School), and consists of weekly visits to every room, the careful adjustment of grade work, attention to the details which systematize parts into a whole, and, lastly, examinations of every scholar in the schools once in six months.

[NOTE.—At no distant day the offices of county and city superintendent should be merged into one, and the entire services of one person secured in these capacities.]

The last examination under this system was conducted without any friction whatsoever, without the loss of a day's work to any pupil; and 76 per cent. of all examined were promoted. A chief value of examinations, apart from the order given to the grades, is the moral influence that they exert over the characters of the children. Each scholar, each class, has something to work up to, and a definite account to render at the end of every term. To be honorably promoted is a motive which acts upon the whole character of the child, and procures his cheerful, happy co-operation in the efforts of his teachers. The best theory of the moral development of children is that by which their hearts and minds are first thoroughly occupied and made enthusiastic for the attainment of worthy ends and ideals. As a field of clover, well rooted, admits no weeds, so the mind of a child, thoroughly employed and interested, has little room for the culture of low imagination and vice. Honesty of work induces honesty of average life. It is in this way that the schools of a community can make a most important contribution to its character. They are an indispensable supplement to the home and complement to the church, while an ill-regulated and irresponsible school system will bear fruit in the lack of self-control, punctuality, order, perseverance, justice, truth and industry, in its citizens.

It is not claimed for the present system that it is perfect, but only that it is in the right line of development. The danger of any system which involves a large number of individuals is, that individuality may be sacrificed, or that, as a result, machine work may take the place of the production of thinking power. It should be the aim of teachers and organizers to guard against this danger, as may be done, when the elements of system are thoroughly grounded. Given a certain amount of general discipline and system, there should be granted considerable freedom as to methods, and the individuality of the teacher and pupil.

Fears have been entertained by some that children will be overcrowded, and that the number of studies is over-multiplied. In regard to this it may be said, first, that constant employment with variety tires no healthy scholar; mismanagement can overwork a school and interfere with brain-building in connection with few studies, as well as with many; and, secondly, that several of what are called studies, practically occupy so subordinate a position in the week's work that three or four of them stand in effect for one. Three-fourths of the strength of the first four grades is put upon reading, writing and arithmetic. However, there is wisdom in concentration, and there are points in which experience will modify the present programme. I am very clearly of the opinion that the study of grammar ought to be postponed to the second grade, and that geography, history and physiology should be arranged successively in the work of the upper grades. and not be studied fragmentarily through several grades. If the examination for admission to the High School were held annually, a half year would be added to the grammar course, and the time thus given would allow teachers to cultivate other faculties than the memory alone. The more elementary works in physiology and grammar should be substituted for those in use.

The High School, under most faithful care, exhibits improvement in all its branches and feels the stimulus from the roots which supply it, viz.: the Grammar schools. At the end of the present term the first graduating class will take their diplomas. Thorough examinations have been held in this department also; between 30 and 40 of the pupils study German, and are making marked progress in this exceedingly useful branch. Unquestionably the High School will soon need the services of another teacher for a part or whole of the day. The standard of admission should be gradually raised, and the work of the three years closely defined. Some judicious changes in the curriculum might be made, the suggestion of which should be left to the instructors, considered as a Faculty.

Umatilla County.—Hon. J. C. Arnold, Superintendent.

I have been discharging the duties of this office since August, 1875. Hon. L. H. Lee resigned on account of insufficient pay, the court allowing from $100 to $200 in county scrip per year, which is worth from 50 to 70 per cent., coin. There has been but little attention given to the filing and preserving the statistical part of the business of Superintendent's office in this county. I made the first settlement ever made by a County Superintendent with the County Treasurer in Umatilla county. No accounts had been opened with the districts or with the Treasurer prior to Mr. Lee's election, so far as the books of the office show. I am doing what I can toward starting out in all the necessary books, and making the necessary files, etc. This county is quite a large one, and not thickly settled, only 1,275 voters in the entire county. Hence the school districts are very large and the number of scholars in them very small; and in most parts of the county, the scarcity of timber has kept the school districts from building good school houses.

Wasco County.—Hon. John Darragh, Superintendent.

The condition of the schools in this county is not so prosperous as might be wished, but when all things are considered—the sparseness of the population, the occupation of the settlers, the human nature there is in humanity—perhaps it were better than fault-finding to make an effort to improve it.

The lack of a corps of teachers trained in a Normal School, or any where else, to a uniform system of instruction, is very much felt.

There is a number of very efficient teachers in the county who are not ashamed of their calling, and who leave their mark in every district that has the good fortune to employ them, but they are not the majority.

It is strange but true, and much to be regretted, that those who take the most interest in educational matters, and are the best fitted, are not always chosen school officers. Among the reasons for the members of districts not agreeing like "birds in their little nests" is, that a school house cannot stand in at least three places at the same time; that every man is not the teacher's father, brother or cousin; that a school of but three months' duration cannot be taught both in summer and winter; and that "Johnny Dullard," who has lost, perhaps, one fourth of the term through tardiness and absence, has not made the same advancement that "Sammy Smart" has, who was always in his seat at the "taking up" of school, and was present sixty days of the term.

Permit me to say, modestly, that in my opinion, an appropriation by the Legislature for the support of a Normal School would give as general satisfaction, and be of equally as much benefit to the rising generation as would one for the State House or Penitentiary. Would it not be well for a County Board consisting, say, of the Superintendent, Judge and Clerk, to have concurrent authority with the directors in the hiring of teachers when any part of their salary is to be paid out of the public fund? A Superintendent would be as likely to know the grade of a teacher required if he had visited the school, as would a board of directors, whose only questions would be: "What will you charge?" or, "can you keep order?" not looking at the certificate or enquiring of its grade, and perhaps never seeing the teacher again unless he should meet him on the trail or at a "branding." During my term of office, quarterly examinations have been held regularly, (Mrs. S. L. Brooks and Prof. E. P. Roberts assisting). But they have not been so numerously attended as they should have been. The last one (held in March) was an exception. We had a fine class, and granted twelve certificates, three of the first and nine of the second grade.

Washington County.—Hon. D. M. C. Gault, Superintendent.

All in all, I consider our schools in a prosperous condition. The one improvement I would urge, is a more regular attendance of pupils at school. This is a thing that parents can and ought to remedy. Parents ought not to complain of the inefficiency of schools until they do their part and send the boys and girls every day, and give them to understand that they are to behave themselves, and that, too, without a resort to corporal punishment.

Digitized by Google

Parents ought to feel that they themselves are responsible for the conduct of their children.

Yamhill County.—Hon. J. H. Carse, Superintendent.

I intend, this spring, to be more exact in the examination of teachers, and as far as in my power to visit the schools more frequently, for I am convinced great good will come from it. I am informed that I am acquiring the name of being fair and just with the teachers, and more strict than the Superintendent of Marion county. I require all teachers to write out carefully all answers to the questions, and if they cannot finish in one day to do so on the next.

I think that three months, as required by law, is not sufficient. It ought to be five or six months. The law ought to be changed as to time in making the March apportionment. It ought not to be made till after the taxes are all collected and the Sheriff has settled with the County Court. This year I apportioned just two-thirds of the amount levied, which is quite small. The remainder will remain in the treasury till the third Monday in September, doing no person any good, while the Treasurer is responsible for its keeping.

SCHOOL REGISTERS AND SCHOOL REPORTS.

Upon this subject, in accordance with the request of the State Teachers' Institute, commencing in Salem on August 23d, 1876, I here present a paper read before said Institute by S. A. Randle:

SCHOOL REGISTERS AND SCHOOL REPORTS.

"We find that every calling has its inside and its outside work. The very best public exhibit of the latter is as vital to the complete success of that calling as the most unostentatious virtues of the former.

"I have been called upon to state a few facts concerning the present condition of what may be called the outside work of our great common school system in this State, and to bring to your attention, as, also, to the earnest attention of all our teachers and school officers, the necessity of performing that work well.

Digitized by Google

"From a careful investigation it has been found that in all the twenty-three counties of Oregon, reporting over six hundred and forty districts, only one hundred and thirty-eight districts are furnished with suitable registers; and that forty-eight districts have failed to make any report to their respective County Superintendents. What is the result? Fourteen County Superintendents' reports to the Superintendent of Public Instruction are radically incorrect. This is acknowledged by the County Superintendents themselves, some of whose statements I shall now quote. The report of Benton county, concerning the financial statement, says: 'The clerks have failed to answer these questions, and I cannot, therefore, make anything but a fictitious report.' That of Coos county: 'Although district clerks were all furnished with blanks, the majority of reports were very imperfect. Some have reported more money paid out than received, and no balance made.' That of Lane county: 'District clerks' reports, in some instances, were very meagre, and would not balance financially. I, therefore, had to approximate in some instances.' That of Washington county: 'The reports of the district clerks are very imperfect, and I doubt if our average clerk is able to fill a blank so elaborate.' Many of the teachers have also failed in this branch of their work. Serious complaints come up from at least twelve counties. The Superintendent of Josephine county says: 'Teachers had to depend on memory, as no report was expected. Two teachers refused to report, two neglected, and some did so reluctantly.' 'Teachers' reports,' says the Superintendent of Linn county, 'have not reached me from more than one-third of the districts, consequently, I cannot give a definite idea of the statistics required.' Says the Superintendent of Umatilla county: 'The teachers' blanks were received and sent out by me in good time, but few reports have been sent to me by the teachers.' The Superintendent of Douglas county says: 'In the great majority of cases, the teachers of this county have taught their term, drawn their money, left the district, and very often the county, without making any reports to either the district clerks or the Superintendent; and, being both literally and legally beyond reach, have left me without recourse.'

Digitized by Google

"From the figures I have given, and the statements of different County Superintendents, I think you are convinced that this work in our State is very poorly done. Nor can the carelessness or want of interest manifested by some of our superiors be overlooked. One Superintendent, in making his report to the State Superintendent, says: 'I haven't time to fill out these questions.' Another made his report in pencil, and it was, in the language of some of the Superintendents, 'very meagre,' as were other reports. Another says: 'There has been but little attention given to the filing and preserving of the statistical part of the business of Superintendent's office in this county.'

"I have no quarrel with any one, but have given these facts for the common good. If the State Superintendent would publish these reports from the different counties, word for word, for several years to come, and distribute them all over the State, he would bestow a lasting benefit upon the race.

"To the question, 'Why should a teacher keep a register?' it may be answered, the law requires it, and a good citizen will obey the law. It contains all the statistics wanted in making out reports to district clerks and County Superintendents. It is a great check to irregularity in the attendance of pupils, which, perhaps, is the chief difficulty we encounter in our schools. You can influence a child and stimulate his pride by frequently showing him his record in the book. It is a strong protection to the teacher from the frequent unjust criticisms of parents. Says Mr. Eliot in his report, 'When the complaint is made, "My children have not learned anything," let the first duty of the Directors be to examine the record of attendance. If that is broken—a week in school and the next week out—it is useless to question further the source of slow progress.'

"The law further requires every teacher to report regularly to the district clerk and County Superintendent. His report is required by the clerk in making out his annual report to the County Superintendent; and if the teacher fails in his report, the Clerk's report is rendered imperfect; and, consequently, the County Superintendent's is also imperfect; and the State Superintendent lacks just that much of rendering to the people's representatives a true statement of the people's schools, the condition of which the people have a right to know. The teacher's report is also required by the County Superintendent in making out his report to the Superintendent of Public Instruction. For general information concerning the condition of the schools, the County Superintendent is largely dependent upon his teachers' reports throughout the county. Their reports also furnish him valuable aid in checking irregularities, and in estimating the ability of the teachers, and the attendance, deportment and standing of pupils.

"Surely, if a teacher is ambitious of success, here is an opportunity he can use to his advantage. If he has closed a successful year, although his salary may have been small, and his district obscure, and can make a faithful report of his work, he may safely demand higher wages, or his services will be sought by others elsewhere. 'He that is faithful in that which is least, is faithful also in much.' Men judge of our ability by what we do and how we do it, rather than by examiner's certificates and recommendations multiplied. If the teachers' reports are made in good time, the clerks and Superintendents are stimulated to duty, and the whole machinery moves on smoothly.

"The district clerk, also, has this, among his other duties, to perform, for which he is paid. One Superintendent, you remember, doubts if the average clerk in his county is able to fill a blank so elaborate. Well, if I were that Superintendent, I would go over the county and instruct the clerks how to do their work, and never be compelled to make another such statement in my report. Or, if I were the clerks in that county, I would confidentially visit the 'pedagogue' and get him either to make out my report or instruct me to do it properly myself.

"The Superintendent of another county says: 'Some of the clerks seem to think that such reports are of no use, and have only partially filled them out, yet they call for more money, not knowing that the very object of these reports is to show that more money is needed.' Here is a good point, for how shall the State legislate intelligently when it is in Egyptian darkness as to the wants of our schools? Now, Mr. Superintendent, talk as wisely to your clerks as you have to your superior, and perhaps the money question will urge them to duty, seeing they have failed to perform their duty because it is right.

"That it is the duty of every district clerk to render to the County Superintendent a clear and perfect statement of every part of the work within his district, is so plain that I see no necessity of argument. The fact that the Superintendent of Yamhill county must say to the Superintendent of Public Instruction that some of the figures in his financial report must be taken with allowance; that another from another county must say that he can not, therefore, make anything but a fictitious report; another, that he has neither the time nor the power to correct his clerk's mistakes; that the superintendent of Lane county is compelled to say that the clerks' reports would not balance financially, and he therefore had to approximate in some instances; and the fact that all these errors are sent up to the State Superintendent's office, where he must, at his own expense, hire clerks for weeks to correct them as far as possible, in order to make his own report presentable to the Legislature, are surely arguments enough.

"I presume that our County Superintendents are a class of noble men, many of them working on small salaries, yet it becomes a man when he accepts such a position to fill it to the very best of his ability. If it don't pay, perhaps some one can fill it and not let the cause of education languish. A few Superintendents, it is feared, have not given that aid to their teachers and clerks in keeping their records and making out their reports, which, if given, would have made a different appearance in their own reports.

"It is a good plan for the County Superintendent to publish his report in all the newspapers of his county, that the people may know the condition of their schools. It has been done in two instances the past year. Would it not have a good effect to lay before the people, as Mr.

Digitized by Google

Eliot has done in his county, the exact condition of every school, bestowing praise where it is due, and advising to better work where it is needed, giving wise and wholesome suggestions to the country schools? Surely this is his duty. Should the financial reports from certain districts be incorrect, or any other irregularities occur in any part of these reports, let the Superintendent mention the fact. The people will remedy the evil. Let him mention the districts wherein there is marked improvement. It will have the same effect upon his county that a well kept register has upon a school. Honorem omnes homines diligunt.

"Let me now call attention to a few points in the school law, and humbly join my prayer with yours that our legislators may not hesitate to amend our present laws, if they are found deficient, so that Oregon shall stand out perfect in her educational system before our sister States, who are making such giant strides in the right direction.

"From title I, section 6, our teachers and clerks may see that all blanks issued by the State Superintendent are properly authorized by the Legislature; that in accordance with same title, section 13, the State Superintendent is required to give many statistics which they have refused or neglected to furnish him the past year; that from title III, section 25, article 10, the County Superintendents, under a penalty of one hundred dollars, are required, by the first Monday in April of each year, to make out from the district reports, a general report, and transmit it to the Superintedent of Public Instruction; and section 26, of the same title, declares if he fail or neglect to report within ten days after the time specified, his office may be declared vacant; that section 42, same title declares that districts shall not be entitled to their proportion of the school fund,

Digitized by Google

at the disposal of the County School Superintendent, unless they shall report to him by the first Monday of March, of each year; that in section 54, same title, it is made the duty of the school clerk, under penalty of forfeiting the percentage allowed him, and the enforcement of his bond, to make a yearly report for his district, and send a copy thereof to the County Superintendent; that title V, section 59, article 4, declares it shall be the duty of the teacher, but with no penalty affixed, to keep a register showing the names, age, sex and daily attendance of all persons attending his school, and hand the district clerk a copy of the same at the close of each quarter. The clerks and Superintendents, observe, are bound by heavy penalties to obey the law, while the teacher, on whose report the others are largely dependent, is allowed to go 'scot free.' How shameful! The law is lame. And yet, with all its apparent partiality, few of any class have suffered the penalty of their neglect. From the facts and statements I have given, there are a very large number of violators of the law. Is any man brought to justice? Is the teacher brought to justice? No! We have seen that he may teach his term, draw his money and leave, placing himself 'both literally and legally' beyond reach of the law. Have the forty-eight clerks and districts who made no reports whatever, or the hundreds whose reports were little better than none, suffered the penalty of violated law? No! The County Superintendents are left free to enforce the law, or not, as they please. They argue that it is unjust to punish the clerk or district for what the teacher is so largely responsible. You can't punish the teacher, ergo you ought not to punish the clerk. Policy strongly suggests that as the County Superintendent is elected by the people, he must do as little as possible to injure his reputation with the voters. Have the County Superintendents suffered for neglect of duty? for, although they have all sent reports, some of their reports are little better than could have been obtained from the road supervisor. No! By keeping the letter of the law, making out their reports from the district reports, however imperfect they may have been, they have been able to evade the true intentof the law. These unintelligent, unscholarly documents, the County Superintendent's report, have been sent to the Superintendent of Public Instruction, and the majesty of the law is satisfied.

"But, friends, perhaps the subject has not demanded that earnest effort I have made in attempting to awaken a new interest in our minds in this, as I think, much needed reform. I have treated the subject in the way that I felt to be my duty. If I have seemed uncharitable to any class, remember I am to-day pleading for the honor of Oregon, and the welfare of her sons and daughters. I have tried to place before you the facts relating to the present status of this branch of our work, and to argue for a more perfect system. I have also indicated, by showing the weakness of the present law, what ought to be done by our approaching Legislature. The law ought no longer to be a dead letter.

"Let us all, fellow teachers, hope for the best. Inform yourselves upon all points relating to your work. Show by your every act that you are one reliable member of a profession which you think is, and which you intend shall be, honorable. Upon the public school our nation is dependent for its liberty, yea, its life. The virgin fort of a republic is the district school house. The district school teacher is the captain in command. Let him remember that when he surrenders, he surrenders his nation."

COUNTY SUPERINTENDENTS AND SCHOOL VISITATIONS.

The existence of law implies the duty of obedience. Laws not enforced are in effect void not only, but they are positively and seriously injurious as well, tending to encourage that disrespect to legal requirement which finally eventuates in downright lawlessness. Such dead-letter laws induced the Romans, centuries ago, to declare as a truism —"the more the laws, the more the crime." Whatever laws, therefore, cannot be enforced, in some large degree at least, should, in justice to the morals of the State, be repealed.

Now, subdivision nine, of section twenty-five, of the school laws, respecting the County School Superintendent, reads thus:

"He shall visit the schools taught under his certificates, at least once in six months, and give such information and make such suggestions as he may deem essential to the welfare and progress of the school."

Then the Superintendent elect is sworn into office, binding himself, under the sacred sanction of a solemn oath, (saying nothing of the penalties of legal disobedience) "to visit the schools taught under his certificates, at least once in six months," etc.; and yet some of these officers receive, as will be observed by a reference to table "K," the paltry pittance of $100 per annum, (or even so insignificant a sum as $50, as is the case in one county), as compensation for these labors, together with all their office duties. Is this even a respectable approximation to a reasonable compensation for services legally prescribed? But why, it may be asked, do Superintendents qualify if they cannot perform their official duties for the salaries allowed?

Digitized by Google

The answer, it seems to me, must be that either they are willing thus to labor from the inherent impellings of pure love for the cause of education, or (which, however uncharitable, is more probable) they take this binding obligation with the mental reservation that they will render only so much services as they may be suitably rewarded for; and in accordance with this purpose they neglect much, indeed most, of this vitally important work. These salaries, if they were gracious gifts, would scarcely compensate for such stingings of conscience. It would seem far preferable to resign than to cashier conscience; and, so, too, many have taken precisely this course (see table "K"), thus preserving untarnished their characters, saving their valuable time, and losing very little money. It is a living wonder how any one can so complacently shake hands with veracity and official integrity. School officers should be good men and true. They should ever maintain the most stainless integrity. What then shall be done to remedy this evil? Why, firstly, suitably increase the salaries of those who are working at such meagre rates; and, secondly, enforce a strict compliance with the provisions of law. The salaries should be regulated by the Legislature, and should be proportionate to the time and talent employed.

"It is my honest belief," says my worthy predecessor, in his report of two years ago, "that it would be real economy, in the long run, to make the compensation of the office of County Superintendent large enough to command the undivided time and attention of first-class men for the position." I would urge, at least, that Superintendents should be suitably paid for the labor by law indicated. True men thus encouraged would render invaluable service in this best of all causes.

Digitized by Google

School visitations, if properly conducted, result in untold benefits in various ways. In order, however, to do the greatest good, they should occur regularly and often. In my own labors I have visited nearly all the districts in many of the counties, and I am persuaded that it requires no great effort to realize the effects of these visitations of the County Superintendents. It is not meant, of course, that the schools are good simply because the Superintendent is alive and active, and vice versa. No, no; some communities will have good schools despite the most masterly inactivity of school officers. It is only meant that a school, good or bad, enjoying the regular and frequent visits of a zealous Superintendent, exhibits a peculiar life and impetus and energy to which others are utter strangers. Besides, there is a valuable reflex influence resulting from these visitations that vastly benefits the Superintendent. While the law does not require me to visit schools at all, yet I have spent several months in this pleasing employment, deeming it an indispensable means for self-qualification. It is true, it takes time; but this is time well spent, both as it respects the schools and the Superintendent. Teachers, patrons and pupils are usually ready to contribute to the success of this delightful work, which never fails to prove mutually beneficial, if only the proper interest is exhibited by the visitor. Besides, those who visit most, encounter very little trouble in establishing and maintaining county teachers' institutes. During the past two years such institutes have been organized and continued in successful operation in many of the counties, and great and essential advantages have accrued therefrom. Our law in regard to school visitations is most excellent, and should therefore be maintainted and enforced.

FREE PUBLIC EDUCATION.

Wisdom is the knowledge of the best ends, with a comprehension of the best means for their attainment. Freedom, personal and national, is the great "chief good" after which man so ardently and continually aspires. To secure this and kindred blessings, republics are established and maintained. Without the diffusion of general intelligence among its citizens, however, no free government can long subsist. Universal education is the chief corner-stone of all republican government—the palladium of national liberty. Without it the fate of our republic would speedily be sealed. Without it, self-government would be proclaimed a failure and a delusion—a mere empty show. To this is mainly due our unparalleled prosperity as a people. The ultimate aim, therefore, of every good government is the free public education of all its children and youth. Oregon, as a proud member of a noble sisterhood of States, should fairly and cheerfully do her part. No child within our borders should be allowed to grow up in ignorance and vice. No member of our commonwealth should be left unprepared to assume the responsible duties of a free citizen. This is wholly indispensable to our future growth and greatness. This being the basis of all permanent prosperity, we want a good school system, firmly established and well sustained. Oregon will be satisfied with no system other or less than the very best.

This theme, therefore, merits and demands the deepest thought, the fairest discussion and the ripest judgment of our wisest and purest statesmen. Whatever else may be treated with indifference, attention to this subject must not be neglected nor deferred. In the discharge of this duty, Oregon dare not be remiss. All agree, too, that at present we aré far short of the coveted goal. But this want, however keenly felt, cannot be supplied at once. The grand acme is not attained by a single step. Progress begets ultimate good. Hence, while our State is yet in her infancy, it can be asked only that her system of public instruction shall grow with her growth and strengthen with her strength. Vast improvement during the past four years has been accomplished. May not the State take now another step in advance? Public sentiment, it is believed, is now asking more means with which to improve public schools. I am not insensible, to be sure, to the depressed financial condition now prevailing; but a limited increase of school tax would, it is believed, be only a respectful response to the popular wish. While it would not be materially felt by a generous people, yet it would prove a most valuable legacy to the fifty thousand school children of our young and growing State. It would also be a fit expression, amid this year's centennial rejoicings, of our appreciation of the rich bequest left to us by our Revolutionary fathers. I heartily recommend, therefore, that the Legislature increase the school tax one mill.

COMPULSORY EDUCATION.

"Compulsory education," to many ears, sounds exceedingly unpleasant. The whole nature of an American, at first thought, repels the idea; and, yet, the low average attendance upon our public schools is painful to contemplate. There has been vast improvement, however, in this respect, during the past two years. The State Superintendent's report for 1873–4 gives 10,711 persons of school age as not attending any school, while the report for 1875–6, with an increase of nearly one-fifth more school population, and an increase of 125 newly organized districts, not required to furnish schools for three years, shows only 13,143 non-attendants. This is certainly a hopeful indication that the future will make all needed corrections and improvements. The voluntary principle is, as yet, our strength. An act compelled is never a success, or, at most, but seldom, unless the compulsion is a moral force such as the parent uses. The grant of the public domain and the annual tax for schools that duly report, act as a sure force in order to their establishment and support in new and in old communities. This force also gives life and vigor and growth to the whole system. Once tried, its value enlists new supporters, until public sentiment honors all who attend and discountenances truants and vagrants. This is a compulsion keenly felt, and, at length, surely obeyed. To withhold funds from a neglectful district is more effective, in my judgment, to secure attention in a State like ours, than a suit at law. The loss of respect to a family or a person for neglect of school duty, is of more power than a Sheriff's authority; and it is a far more pleasant mode of its execution. Let us exalt and perfect the system, and the seats will be filled; since in the cities, where the most is done for the public schools, is found the largest per cent. of attendance.

Digitized by Google

STATE NORMAL SCHOOL.

A State Normal School should be established. This is one of the most pressing needs of our school system, in order to render it properly effective. Every profession needs, as preparatory, a course of professional drill. Slowly, but not less surely, this fact is applied to the teacher's profession. Nearly all other States have their

Digitized by Google

Normal Schools; and most of the Northwestern States have made these an integral part of their systems of public instruction. California owes her success, at first, to imported teachers, but now very much more to those taught and trained in her own excellent Normal Schools. Several of our young colleges have established and endeavored to maintain normal departments in a limited way, and the State doubtless has been greatly benefitted by these praiseworthy efforts. State aid must be rendered, however, in order that such institutions may become efficient. A State Normal School, supported and controlled by the State, is what Oregon needs to prepare her own young men and women for the responsible and difficult duties of their chosen profession of teaching. It will richly repay Oregon, in all respects, to establish a Normal School. I earnestly urge, therefore, that such an institution be established at the earliest day practicable.

TEACHERS' INSTITUTES.

The chief mode of man's improvement is to hold counsel with other minds. "In the multitude of counselors there is safety." "As iron sharpeneth iron, so a man sharpeneth the countenance of his friend." Such is the effect of frequent meetings of educators in council. Our law very wisely provides that the State Superintendent shall hold Teachers' Institutes in different places throughout the State. In many ways, profit accrues from these conventions. The State having no Normal School, the Teacher's Institute must, as far as practicable, supply its place. Teachers here exchange ideas, awaken new trains of thought, and often strike some of the hidden veins of mental science, revealing more simple modes of mental culture. They also afford frequent review to the whole scope of instruction, bringing together and utilizing the best experience and the ripest judgment. A school system cannot well do without them; and teachers failing to attend, will fail of the good results and fall behind. They have worked remarkably well for the past two years, and produced the happiest results.

In obedience to the requirements of our school laws, I held, during 1875, a State Teachers' Institute, in the Legislative hall, at the Capital, and District Teacher's Institutes, in Union, Canyon City, Jacksonville, Tillamook, Astoria and Corvallis, thus conducting two District Teachers' Institutes in the fifth judicial district, and one in each of the others, during my first year in office.

THE UNION INSTITUTE,

Meeting on the first Monday in May, 1875, was, all the circumstances considered, well attended. But in consequence of the tardiness of the spring that year, the Blue Mountains were, because of the remaining snow, scarcely passable, within time for the Institute. No teachers, therefore, were present from the counties west of these mountains. I think, however, that the attendance and exercises of this Institute were quite successful in promoting the object had in view, in the establishment of this department of educational labor. The officers were Rev. H. K. Hines, President, J. T. Outhouse, Vice-President, and L. J. Rouse, Secretary. During the session, "very interesting examinations and discussions," to use the "Sentinel's" words, "were had on all the branches of common school education, and a general interest seemed to be awakened in the minds of the teachers present, on the subject of successful teaching."

THE CANYON CITY INSTITUTE,

Convening on the third Monday in May, 1875, was conducted with a kind of popular enthusiasm—ministers, lawyers, doctors and army officers joining freely with the teachers and ex-teachers in discussing and illustrating such subjects as usually occupy the attention of our teachers' associations. The general people also took quite a lively interest in these meetings, nor did they refrain from engaging with a real warmth in many of the exercises. Public sentiment was awakened, interested and enlightened on the subject of free education, but the attendance from distant parts was not sufficiently numerous. It can scarcely be hoped, however, that District Teachers' Institutes in the fifth district can, as yet, command the attention and enlist the co-operation of the whole district, in its present sparsely settled condition. Practically and essentially they are, in their general scope and character, little more than County Institutes. No law, however, can be so framed as to suit equally well, in all its provisions, every part of the State. The outlook is encouraging. Eastern Oregon is, I am sure, ready in all respects to avail herself, as far as practicable, of all the educational facilities afforded.

THE JACKSONVILLE INSTITUTE,

Commencing June 14, 1875, was, unlike those previously mentioned, thoroughly ripe in feeling and prepared in thought for the work in hand prior to my arrival. Besides, Jackson county, to her credit be it recorded, had generously provided the means whereby the executive committee were enabled to make every needful arrangement for this convention. In a word, the people of Jacksonville and vicinity were already fully awake to the grand mission of these important agencies for the professional training of their teachers. The ultimate success of the Institute, therefore, was quite fully assured before it met. This encouraging readiness for the good work, on the part of both teachers and people, was doubtless largely due to the satisfactory labors of a like kind, previously performed here by my worthy predecessor, Hon. S. C. Simpson, of whom these people delighted to speak in the most complimentary terms. Much, however, was due, no doubt, to the untiring efforts of Hon. H. C. Fleming, one of the most indefatigable School Superintendents in the State.

Prof. J. H. Skidmore, Principal of Ashland Academy, was elected President, Hon. H. C. Fleming, Vice-President, and A. P. Armstrong and C. B. Fitzgerald, Secretaries. The programme was good, and the members did sound and substantial service in conducting the work of instruction with considerable efficiency, in the order and manner prescribed. The sessions of the Institute were tolerably well attended throughout, several being present from a distance, and some even from California. Much general interest was manifested, and some real good, it is believed, was accomplished, vitally promotive of popular education in Southern Oregon.

THE TILLAMOOK INSTITUTE

Organized July 12th, 1875, by electing Mr. J. Cox, President, and Mrs. S. G. Minor, Secretary. A few teachers were present from each of several counties in the district. Not only teachers, but the general people as well, seemed willing, and even anxious, to avail themselves of every possible means to enhance the qualifications of teachers and improve the facilities for school instruction. All seemed willing and ready to contribute in every way practicable to the success of the Institute, this being the only agency recognized by law for the training of Oregon's teachers, preparatory to the successful discharge of their arduous professional duties.

THE ASTORIA INSTITUTE,

Commencing August 9th, 1875, began its labors under very unfavorable auspices. Institutes must be understood to be appreciated. The executive committee, conscious of their own inexperience, and apprehensive, consequently, that the effort would prove unsuccessful, did little other than to render it a fearful failure. Indeed, one member, though reputed one of Oregon's very best educators, and also a member of the State Board of Examination, and once highly recommended, too, for said membership, became so terribly "demoralized" as to forsake duty and retreat to the mountains, as was reliably reported, just before the convention should assemble. This was a pleasurable mountain excursion, no doubt, for the worthy gentleman, if not so very neat a compliment to the Institute and the noble profession of which he is a member. The other two members of the committee, however, were present, and worked heroically to retrieve what had been lost by inaction. The organization was effected with Rev. T. A. Hyland, of Grace Church Parish School, as President; Miss E. T. Davison, Secretary; and Miss Julia Adams, Assistant Secretary; and never did officers render better service. Every county in the district was represented, and many were present from other parts of the State, and a few also from California and Washington Territory. For once, too, most of the School

Digitized by Google

Superintendents of the district were in attendance, and, what was still better, they were there to work. It is to be regretted that Superintendents, as a rule, have been noticeably indifferent in this respect. It is pleasant, therefore, to mention the reversal of the rule on this occasion. It is strange, but nevertheless true, that teachers take a deeper interest in these Institutes than do Superintendents. Superintendents should lead in this work. The executive committee, of which J. W. Gearhart was chairman, hastily improvised a programme, and work began; and right faithfully and effectually did members acquit themselves in their respective engagements. The time was closely occupied, and the essays, lectures and discussions were eminently instructive and valuable. Thus, the Institute, contrary to the dark forebodings of those having the preparation of work specially in hand, reflected credit on the association, and inspired all present with renewed hope and courage and energy.

THE CORVALLIS INSTITUTE,

Which convened on August 23d, 1875, is universally adjudged to have been more than an ordinary contribution of this kind to the cause of popular education. It is true it required something of a general awakening after my arrival in the city, a few days prior to the time of meeting. Judging, however, by the deep earnestness and manly vigor with which the teachers and people of the city and vicinity subsequently engaged, one might naturally conclude that this seeming apathy was really nothing more than an innocent, quiet, refreshing little nap, preparatory to deeds of noble doing and triumphs of grand achieving. It required some patient logic and no little earnest rhetoric to induce the community to accept the idea that the convention could be of any special interest. But once convinced, they were ready, indeed anxious, to begin the work, and right royally did they acquit themselves when engaged. The interest continued to grow until the energies and resources of the community, both patent and latent, were thoroughly aroused and laid under contribution to the one absorbing work in hand. Choirs and bands were brought into requisition, and they rendered choicest music, both vocal and instrumental. The assemblies were large, orderly and attentive. Not only did teachers in public schools take a deep interest, but also Dr. Arnold, President of Corvallis College, with all the other members of this learned Faculty, worked with might and main for the promotion of the cheering results that followed. Besides these, the Institute was blessed with the heartiest co-operation of lawyers, doctors, ministers and enthusiastic retired professional teachers, to whose helpings may justly be attributed much of the impetus given to the cause.

Of this Institute, the "Benton Democrat" says (leaving out the flattering mention of myself):

"We have had a teachers' meeting, and it was a grand success.....There was a genuine revival; and, without particularizing, we would state that the willingness with which the teachers worked, and the amount of work done in two days, is to most people astonishing. Let no one say hereafter that a teacher is not a laboring man."

The "Corvallis Gazette" says:

"It is not often we have the opportunity to record as thorough, useful and interesting work as has been accomplished by the late Institute—interesting not only to those engaged, but likewise to all parents and patrons of schools, friends of education and the public in general. And the public attestation of the fact, that a deeper and more abiding faith and interest in the grand aim of education in this city and vicinity has been established, was proved beyond a doubt by the deep interest manifested by the large and attentive audiences that crowded the house at the different sessions. The cause of education has received a glorious impetus, and we hope to again have the pleasure of extending the 'hand of welcome' to the ladies and gentlemen from Benton and other counties, who so nobly came forward to further the best interests of our youth."

After two days thus judiciously and energetically employed, with E. B. McElroy, the present School Superintendent of Benton county, as President, and Prof. B. J. Hawthorne, of Corvallis College, as Secretary, the Institute, in a pleasant violation of all precedent, adjourned to re-assemble in the same place on the 27th of the succeeding December.

Respecting the character of the adjourned Institute, I shall content myself with simply copying the announcement and appending the instructional portion of the programme for the occasion, slightly re-arranged and abridged, with reference to economy of space, allowing each to form his own conclusions:

ANNOUNCEMENT.

"The late Institute held in this city, gave an impetus to the cause of education in the district. This was the largest and best Institute ever held in the county. A large number of live teachers, many of them from abroad, together with nearly all of the professional men of the city, took an active part in its proceedings. A healthy public sentiment has been aroused, and it is the hope of the committee that the coming Institute will prove to be more successful, if possible, than its predecessor. We therefore earnestly solicit your presence and co-operation in the noble work that involves so great and momentous interests to the people of this county and district.

THE STATE TEACHERS' INSTITUTE

Was held, pursuant to appointment, on the 1st, 2d and 3d days of September, 1875, in the Legislative Hall, in Salem, with Hon. D. M. C. Gault, Superintendent of Washington county, as President; Mrs. N. E. Morse, as Vice-President; Prof. L. J. Powell, of Willamette University, as Secretary; and Miss Clara A. Watt, as Assistant Secretary. After appointing "useful gentlemen and ladies" on necessary committees, and transacting such other business as is usual on similar occasions, the association proceeded with commendable promptness to its legitimate instructional labors. A most excellent programme had been previously prepared by a patient and thoughtful executive committee, consisting of Hon. S. W. King, City Superintendent of the Portland Public Schools; Hon. J. K. Weatherford, School Superintendent of Linn County; and Hon J. Darragh, School Superintendent of Wasco County. The first business session was attended by ninety-two members, and on the morning of the second day one hundred and twenty-six teachers had enrolled their names. Nearly all the prominent educators of the State were present during one or more days. Some of these were on the programme, and all were ready for any duty to which they might be called. All the State officers were also in attendance, and the Governor, Secretary of State and others participated in the regular exercises, and rendered invaluable service. This was confessedly the largest assemblage of teachers that had ever met in the State, and the spirit of the assembly was excellent, and the interest well sustained throughout. Time was rigidly economized, and labor faithfully and ably performed. These happy results were chiefly due, no doubt, to the efficiency of those entrusted with the preparation for the Institute. Never was a programme more burdened with work, nor was ever thorough work more speedily dispatched. The State Teacher's Institute for 1875 was a most splendid success. Nor will any person wonder in the least at this, who is at all acquainted with the names on the programme, a concise epitome of which, as actually performed, is here annexed:

Welcoming Address.....Prof. L. J. Powell, of Willamette University.
Response.....L. Bilyeu.

During the present year I have held one State Teachers' Institute in the Capital, and one District Teachers' Institute in each district, excepting the first and second, these being deferred at the instance of the State Board of Education, until subsequent to the close of the current political campaign.

THE FOREST GROVE INSTITUTE,

Opening most auspiciously at 8½ o'clock, A. M., March 21st, 1876, filled the school house to repletion on the first forenoon. This house proving too small to accommodate the large assemblage, by invitation, the Institute, after the first half day, occupied the chapel of Pacific University during the day sessions and the Congregational Church during those of the evening. Prof. J. D. Robb, of Pacific University, as President, Miss L. Humphreys as Vice President, and W. H. Latourette and Miss Ella Scott as Secretaries, did prompt, zealous and faithful service; and never was time more scrupulously economized than through all these thronged sessions. Too often in these assemblages, for want of a suitable programme, or on account of inefficiency of officers, much valuable time is wasted in rambling talks worse than worthless.

Pacific University enjoys an enviable reputation for a careful thoroughness of instruction, and one therefore would reasonably expect that its distinguished Faculty and the teachers of its educating would impart this as a leading characteristic to the Institute held in this far-famed school town. Such, too, was emphatically the case. It may truthfully be said that this was more critically thorough in the conduct of its instruction than any hitherto mentioned. Indeed, much of it was profound to a fault. To the ripe scholar, this was an intellectual feast. I have ever since continuously wished that every college teacher and scholarly person in the State could have been present. It was very good—superlatively good—too good—ambrosial food, indeed, but above the reach of the humble hungry. The toiling pedagogue wants such practical lessons as may be wrought into the very warp and woof of ordinary school duty. It is the legitimate province of these institutes to instruct our practical teachers how they may best enable their pupils to learn. With this exception, the whole make-up of the Institute was a most triumphant success. Notwithstanding this objectionable feature, however, the houses were constantly thronged, and the deepest interest and the closest attention were maintained till the latest closing moment. The executive committee—Hon. D. M. C. Gault, Prof. A. J. Anderson and Hon. J. W. Sellwood—did choice work; the teacher force of Pacific University was a mighty host of strength; the professional teachers from the rank and file of the great common school army fell not a whit behind in practical efficiency; and I deem myself not wholly undeserving, inasmuch as I appointed the Institute in the midst of so excellent a community as is that of Forest Grove and vicinity. Yes, and allow me to say that Forest Grove is the very best place for an Institute within the bounds of my knowledge.

THE ALBANY INSTITUTE,

Meeting, according to previous appointment, on April 12th, 1876, and continuing three days, was favored with a most excellent programme, prepared by Hons. J. K. Weatherford, School Superintendent of Linn county; J. T. Gregg, City Superintendent of the Salem Public Schools; and J. H. Carse, School Superintendent of Yamhill county. After the usual temporary organization, Judge

J. Walton was chosen President; A. Frazier, Vice President; E. P. Smith, Secretary; and Mrs. E. A. Leiser, Assistant Secretary, who labored assiduously in their respective positions, giving the fullest possible satisfaction to both members and visitors. The Institute was numerously attended by teachers—some from every county in the district, and a few from each of several other counties. Many on the programme were able thinkers, and their instructions and lectures were masterly productions. Nothing at the preceding State Institute surpassed, in this respect, the work that was accomplished here. The one general voice was, that the Albany Teachers' Institute was a complete success. Those, however, who had been sobered by experience and observation, could wish it had been better in many regards. Of this Institute much was expected. Such an able and elaborate programme deserved a deeper interest and better results. The attendance during the day sessions disappointed reasonable hopes. Albany, for the first day or two, was largely otherwise engaged, and, therefore, begged to be excused. A large and enthusiastic political convention assembled, just across the way, at the same hour on which the Institute met; and this measurably stole away the heart of one of the most zealous and untiring School Superintendents with whom the State was blessed. It also seriously "demoralized," for the time being, several other choice workers. The sequel, however, gave to the cause of education some noble friends in the present Legislature. These, as soon as the convention adjourned, gave us again their presence and helpings. Permit the Institute, also, to boast that during the enthusiasm of an evening's political ratification, its members, with a well-filled house, gave audience, with rapt attention, to a highly instructive lecture on "The Prodigies of the Atmosphere," by Hon. S. F. Chadwick, Secretary of State. Thus, the interest and consequently the attendance, continued to increase until the close, the last evening's session crowding to its utmost the capacious Court House.

Yet this convention did not accomplish its entire mission. The chief objections to pronouncing it in such round terms a complete success are, that the attendance of the day sessions was not sufficiently numerous, and that a few teachers who allowed their names to be placed on the programme were not as scrupulous as they should have been in responding to duty. In the first instance, these Institutes, it should be remembered, are designed for the education of teachers not only, but for the enlightenment of the general community as well. That our teachers need a more thorough qualification for their responsible and onerous duties, is eminently true; and that the average citizen needs such a general, popular education in regard to the school work as to enable him to appreciate what are the duties and privileges of the teacher, is not less true. I believe strongly in the value of Teachers' Institutes, and I would have them do their whole work. In the second place, the teacher should be promptly present and well prepared for honest duty. He, above all other persons, should ever maintain the most stainless integrity. Besides, the absence of one assigned to duty is very damaging to the ardor and energy of an association in successful operation.

No, no! the Albany Teachers' Institute—held in one of the first educational towns in the Willamette valley, supported by so large and so pleasant a surrounding community—can never rightfully claim to be a complete success while one in any other place in the State may surpass it. Let it rather be said, therefore, that this was a noble contribution to the grand aggregate work—a mighty achievement in vitalizing our system of free public schools.

THE DALLES INSTITUTE

Convened June 7, 1876, with Rev. W. R. Butcher, President; Mrs. J. G. Wilson, Vice President; Theodore W. Pyle, Secretary, and Miss Lulu Donnell, Assistant Secretary; and to their vigilance and discreetness were largely due the promptness, energy and cheering results of this important agency for the promotion of free public education. The time selected for this association proved very inauspicious, the city being extensively inundated by an unusually high June freshet of the Columbia River, and there prevailing also an unprecedented amount of sickness in the city and vicinity. Besides, Hon. J. Darragh, one of the most active and conscientious School Superintendents Wasco county ever had, was greatly interrupted in his efforts to prepare for this convention by serious and protracted illness in his family. Yet, by the wise and timely assistance of Prof. S. P. Barrett, Principal of the Dalles City high school, Mr. Theodore W. Pyle, Mrs. E. M. Wilson and Mrs. Anna Brooks, than whom the cause of education never enjoyed truer friends or better workers, all necessary arrangements were fully matured before the meeting began. The kindly hospitality of the citizens had made ample provision for the free entertainment of all persons from abroad. This is only the second occurrance of such noble generosity. Forest Grove and Dalles City deserve the warmest gratitude of all friends of the Institute work for these substantial expressions of zeal for this important feature of popular education.

This Institute was quite largely made up of teachers and lecturers from other districts, which was a new feature in regard to Institute policy, no one previously being ever placed on the programme, or allowed more than an honorary membership, who was not resident in the district. Here all professional teachers and "ex-professional" teachers from within or without the district, or even from Washington Territory, were voted eligible to membership. Still, only the teachers from the fifth district seemed to regard themselves at liberty to participate in the transaction of business.

The attendants of the day sessions were mostly visitors from abroad and professional teachers; the people of the city being pretty closely occupied in battling against the intrusions of the flood. Those of the evening, however, were crowded with eager listeners. Several of the most accomplished educators in the country were present; and the exercises were varied and interesting, and, for the most part, of a high order. Prominent among the distinguished lecturers from abroad, may be mentioned Hon. S. C. Simpson, ex-Superintendent of Public Instruction, Hon. J. J. Browne, School Superintendent of Multnomah county, and Rev. Dr. R. Bentley. These exercises received the most marked attention throughout. Although these sessions did not begin under the most flattering auspices, yet the results, considered with reference to all their bearings, warrant the judgment that has been so often expressed, that the Institute, as an aggregate work, was a most gratifying success.

THE STATE TEACHERS' INSTITUTE,

Held in the Christian Church in Salem, August 23d, 24th, and 25th, 1876, organized by electing A. J. Anderson, Principal of the Portland High School, President; Miss Ella Watt, Vice-President; J. T. Gregg, City Superintendent Salem Schools, Secretary, and Miss Maria D'Arcy, Assistant Secretary. No teachers' association in the State, prior to this, was ever so numerously attended by School Superintendents and ex-Superintendents as is the present. This I deem one of the most encouraging features of the present meeting. It betokens still greater growth and usefulness in the future. Hitherto the interest, or rather the work, has been seemingly confined too largely to our more practical and enterprising teachers—that is, to our better class of teachers; the School Superintendents, with a few noble exceptions, remaining surprisingly indifferent, and the more indolent, money-loving, slip-shod sort of teachers entirely absenting themselves. It is pleasing to observe such improvement.

The Institute is now in operation while this report is sent to the State Printer; and its present large attendance, and the splendid success of its labors thus far, warrant the assurance that it will fully meet, in all regards, the brightest expectations of the most exacting.

Following is the programme, without any change whatever, except in so far as to make it conform to the real work as actually performed:

STATE BOARD OF EXAMINATION.

The State Board of Examination consists of the State Board of Education and the following assistants: T. M. Gatch, Ph. D., President of Willamette University; J. W. Johnson, A. M., President of the State University; L. B. Arnold, Ph. D., President of the State Agricultural College; Rev. S. H. Marsh, D. D., President of Pacific University; W. L. Worthington, Principal of the Oregon City High School; and Mrs. Jennie E. Dawne.

Following are the requirements for examination in order to obtain Life and State Diplomas and State Certificates:

Digitized by Google

1. Candidates for Life Diplomas and State Diplomas, must present to the Board satisfactory testimonials of good moral character, and of marked success in teaching for a period of three years, of which at least one year must have been in Oregon, and must pass acceptable examinations in all the studies prescribed for a county certificate, and in the following in addition: General history, algebra, geometry, composition, English literature, book-keeping, physiology, natural philosophy, theory and practice of teaching, Constitution of the United States and Constitution and School Law of the State of Oregon. To obtain a Life Diploma, a candidate must answer correctly at least ninety per cent. of all the questions; and to obtain a State Diploma, he must answer correctly at least seventy-five per cent. of the questions.

2. Candidates for State Certificates of the first and second grades, must present to the Board satisfactory testimonials of good moral character, and of success in teaching for a period of six months, and must pass creditable examinations in the branches required for a County Certificate, and in the following in addition thereto: Algebra, book-keeping, physiology, theory and practice of teaching, and Constitution and School Law of the State of Oregon. To obtain a certificate of the first grade, good for two years, a candidate must answer correctly at least ninety per cent. of all questions asked him; and, to obtain a certificate of the second grade, good for six months, he must answer correctly at least seventy-five per cent. of the questions.

3. All examinations are conducted with written or printed questions, as far as practicable; and ten questions are asked in each branch.

Hereto is appended the names of all persons who have ever obtained from this Board diplomas and State certificates:

Life Diplomas—T. M. Gatch, A. J. Anderson, J. A. Macrum, T. Nicholson, W. L. Worthington, Mrs. L. A. Dennick, L. J. Powell, S. W. King, E. B. McElroy, T. H. Crawford.

State Diplomas—J. Smith, J. W. Miller, A. Jones.

First Grade State Certificates—G. B. Brown, G. S. Pershin, J. C. Waterman, W. P. Haisley, Mrs. N. E. Morse, D. M. C. Gault.

It is to be intensely regretted that some most excellent teachers have been deterred from applying for these diplomas and certificates on account of the high standard of scholastic qualifications required, and many more because of a misunderstanding in regard to the real nature of examinations. While good attainments are unconditional requisites, yet practical experience and ability in varied and successful teaching, is received as the best evidence of professional excellence.

TEXT BOOKS.

The School Law (section 13, subdivision 4,) makes it my duty to report "the series of text books authorized by the State Board." In compliance with this requirement, a list of the uniform State Series of text books so selected, introduced and now in use, is hereto appended:

Orthography—Pacific Coast Speller.

Reading—First, Second, Third, Fourth and Fifth Readers, of the Pacific Coast Series, and Hopkins' Manual of American Ideas, in lieu of the Sixth Reader (optional.)

Arithmetic—Thompson's new Graded Series, (including

Digitized by Google

New Mental for primary classes; New Rudiments and New Practical), and Brooks' Normal Mental (for advanced classes).

Geography—Monteith's Introduction to Manual and Physical and Intermediate (both Pacific Coast Edition).

Grammar—Clark's Beginner's and Normal.

United States History—Barnes' Brief History.

General History (for beginners)—"Peter Parley's" Universal.

Penmanship—Spencerian system and copies.

FOR ADVANCED GRADES.

Higher Arithmetic—Robinson's Progressive Higher.

Geometry—Brooks'.

Algebra—Brooks'.

General History (advanced)—Anderson's.

Composition—Hart's.

Physiology—Steele's "14 Weeks."

Natural Philosophy—Steele's "14 Weeks."

Chemistry—Steele's "14 Weeks."

Book-Keeping—Bryant and Stratton's (High School Edition).

It is a gain not readily nor easily appreciated, to have a uniform series of text books. The State took a gigantic stride in advance when she approved the principle of "State uniformity." Any uniform series economizes the time of the teacher, and grants more time and attention to every pupil. It also saves cash to parents, if only all is fairly managed. Already vast improvements in our public schools, as a consequence of this uniformity, have resulted.

CONCLUSION.

Allow me to say, in conclusion, that it has been my most earnest desire and constant effort to submit an accurate report. Absolute accuracy, however, could be only approximated. But all the information required by law has been furnished as fully and reliably as practicable. The foregoing subjects have been duly considered, and the suggestions are respectfully submitted.

In the appendix may be found the rules and regulations prescribed by the State Board, and now in use, for the government of public schools and school officers. Statistical tables and summaries are also therein presented; and though they are not as perfect as could be desired, yet they have been prepared with much care and labor. Last in the appendix is submitted such information as could be obtained concerning the chartered educational institutions of the State, etc., etc.

It is hoped that this report, notwithstanding its many defects, may meet with a charitable approval.

Very respectfully,

L. L. ROWLAND,

RULES AND REGULATIONS

FOR THE GOVERNMENT OF

PUBLIC SCHOOLS AND SCHOOL OFFICERS IN OREGON.

SUPERINTENDENT OF PUBLIC INSTRUCTION.

RULE I. The Superintendent of Public Instruction shall issue to the several County Superintendents in time for the public examinations of teachers in March, June, September and December of each year, printed lists of uniform questions, prepared by the State Board of Examination, for use at those examinations in accordance with the rules hereinafter prescribed for the government of County Superintendents.

RULE II. The State Superintendent shall have the right to decide all appeals from County Superintendents, but in any case of sufficient importance he may bring the matter before the State Board of Education for determination. No appeal shall be heard unless notice thereof, in writing, shall have been first given to the County Superintendent, by the party appealing, as hereinafter provided, nor unless a copy of such notice shall have been transmitted, with the papers relating to the case, to the State Superintendent.

Digitized by Google

RULE III. The State Superintendent shall have the right to grant certificates only upon appeal from County Superintendents, and then only in case it appears that the County Superintendent has done the candidate substantial injustice.

COUNTY SUPERINTENDENT.

RULE I. At the public quarterly examinations of teachers, provided for by law, it is expected that the County Superintendent will use the uniform questions furnished by the State Superintendent; and that if for any cause he fail to do so, he will use an equal number of other questions of the same grade as those so furnished, as nearly as may be, and forthwith transmit a copy of them to the State Superintendent. The County Superintendent is required at these examinations to summon to his aid the assistants mentioned in subdivision 8 of section 25 of the School Law, and no certificate issued without complying with this provision is valid.

RULE II. In private examinations the County Superintendent may, if practicable, use the same questions as at the last preceding public examination, and, in any case, questions of the same grade and number shall be used. In conducting such examinations, the Superintendent shall be aided, if practicable, by the assistants employed at the last public examination.

RULE III. Examinations of teachers, whether public or private, shall in every case be conducted as far as possible in writing; and the questions and answers, endorsed with the candidate's name and the date of the examination, shall be filed in the office of the County Superintendent, and kept as a part of its permanent records.

RULE IV. Only two grades of certificates can be issued by County Superintendents. To obtain a certificate of the first grade the applicant must answer correctly at least eighty per cent. of all the questions asked him. To obtain a second-grade certificate the candidate must answer correctly sixty per cent. of all the questions asked. No certificate whatever shall be issued to any applicant who falls below forty per cent. in any two branches of study.

RULE V. County Superintendents must require all applicants for teachers' certificates, who are not personally known to them to be of good moral character, to present satisfactory written testimonials to that effect from two or more persons of respectable standing. Such testimonials shall be filed with the examination papers, and shall remain permanently in the office of the Superintendent.

RULE VI. The County Superintendent is hereby authorized to revoke any certificate obtained by fraud, or misrepresentation as to the character of the applicant, or where the holder has been guilty of gross immorality since the certificate was granted. But no certificate shall be revoked unless the holder shall have been duly notified of the charges against him, and shall have had an opportunity to defend against them, nor unless the charges shall have been fully proved. The action of the County Superintendent in revoking a certificate is subject to an appeal to the Superintendent of Public Instruction, as in other cases.

RULE VII. When an applicant has been refused a certificate in one county, no certificate shall be granted him in any other county in the State within three months thereafter, unless the decision of the County Superintendent, in refusing the same, shall have been duly reversed on appeal.

Digitized by Google

RULE VIII. In case an applicant for a certificate believes that the County Superintendent has done him injustice upon examination, and intends to appeal to the Superintendent of Public Instruction, he shall, within five days after said examination, notify the County Superintendent, in writing, of his intention. Within ten days after such notice the County Superintendent shall transmit to the Superintendent of Public Instruction the notice of appeal, testimonials of character of the applicant, and the questions used at the examination, together with the candidate's answers thereto. All of said papers, except the notice of appeal, must be returned to the County Superintendent as soon as the appeal is determined.

RULE IX. In no case shall a County Superintendent grant a certificate to teach, without first examining the applicant as to his qualifications in the manner provided by law and by these rules, except that the holder of a valid county certificate in any county in this State, may, within the time for which the same was issued, upon presentation thereof to the County Superintendent of the same, or any other county, and upon payment of the usual fee, have another certificate of the same grade granted to him without undergoing any examination, in the discretion of the County Superintendent. But to enable the holder of any certificate to avail himself of this privilege, his original certificate must have been issued in strict conformity with the law and with these rules, after a full and thorough examination.

TEACHERS.

RULE I. The teachers in the public schools of this State shall dismiss all pupils under eight years of age, after a four hours' session, each day, or where that is not practicable, shall allow to pupils of that age recesses of such length that the actual confinement in the school-room shall not exceed three hours and a half per day.

RULE II. Teachers shall exercise watchful care and oversight over the conduct and habits of the pupils, not only during school-hours, but also at the recesses and intermissions and while going to and returning from school.

RULE III. It is expected that a strict and wholesome discipline will be constantly maintained in all public schools; but teachers are cautioned against displays of ill temper and undue severity in the school-room.

RULE IV. In any case of gross misconduct or insubordination, when the teacher deems it necessary for the good of the school, he may suspend a pupil, and shall immediately notify the directors of the district thereof. The directors shall forthwith meet and consider the matter, and if they approve the action of the teacher, and think the case calls for further punishment, they may expel the pupil from the school.

RULE V. Teachers in the public schools shall, to the utmost of their ability, inculcate in the minds of their pupils correct principles of morality, and a proper regard for the laws of society, and for the government under which they live. But no sectarian or partisan instruction shall be given in the schools.

RULE VI. Every public school teacher shall give vigilant attention to the temperature and ventilation of the school-room, and shall see that the doors and windows are opened at each intermission, for the purpose of changing the atmosphere of the room. He shall require his pupils to take proper exercise, and shall encourage healthful play at the recesses, but he shall strictly prohibit all dangerous and immoral games and amusements.

RULE VII. Teachers shall have the right, and it shall be their duty, within reasonable limits, to direct and control the studies of their pupils; to arrange them in proper classes, and to decide, subject to these rules, what, and how many, studies each shall pursue. But no pupil shall be required to pursue more than four studies at any one time, exclusive of writing and spelling.

RULE VIII. In all ordinary ungraded district schools in this State, where there are pupils of the proper age and degree of advancement, classes shall be organized and kept up in all the following named studies, to wit: First, Second, Third, Fourth and Fifth Reader; Orthography; Science of Government (optional); Primary Mental Arithmetic, Rudiments of Written Arithmetic, Practical Arithmetic, and Advanced Mental Arithmetic; Primary and Advanced Geography; Beginners' and Advanced Grammar; United States History; Beginners' General History; and Penmanship. In such schools no branches additional to these shall be taught unless the directors so order by positive vote, and in no case shall teachers neglect the classes pursuing the above named studies in order to make room for any additional branches. In high schools and other public schools of advanced grades the following named studies, together with such others as the directors may prescribe, may be taught in addition to those above mentioned, to wit: Higher Arithmetic, Algebra, Geometry, General History (advanced), Composition, Physiology, Natural Philosophy, Chemistry, Botany, Book-keeping, and Science of Government (optional). Nothing in this rule shall be so construed as to prohibit or prevent teachers from introducing into their schools such oral instruction and "object lessons" as they may deem necessary or suitable.

RULE IX. Following is a list of the books of the "authorized series:"

Orthography—Pacific Coast Speller.

Reading—First, Second, Third, Fourth, and Fifth Readers, of the Pacific Coast Series, and Hopkins' Manual of American Ideas, in lieu of Sixth Reader (optional).

Arithmetic—Thomson's New Graded Series, (including New Mental for primary classes; New Rudiments and New Practical,) and Brooks' Normal Mental (for advanced classes).

Geography—Monteith's Introduction to Manual, and Physical and Intermediate (both Pacific Coast edition).

Grammar—Clark's Beginners, and Normal.

United States History—Barnes' Brief History.

General History (for beginners)—"Peter Parley's" Universal.

Penmanship—Spencerian system and copies.

FOR ADVANCED GRADES.

Book-Keeping—Bryant and Stratton's (High School Edition).

In schools where it is deemed necessary to begin instruction in reading in a book of easier grade than the Pacific Coast First Reader, a suitable Primer may be used for that purpose.

RULE XI. Every teacher in the public schools is hereby required to provide himself with a School Register in which he shall carefully note the attendance and standing of his pupils. The "Class Register" prepared by Prof. R. K. Warren, of Albany, is recommended as an excellent one for this purpose. At the close of the term the teacher shall furnish the clerk of the district with an accurate copy of the Register for the term.

RULE XII. At the close of every term of school the teacher shall thoroughly examine his pupils in the studies of the term, using written questions and requiring written answers whenever practicable; and the standing of each pupil in examination shall be noted accurately upon the School Register. Whenever, at the close of a term of school, it shall be ascertained that the average standing of any pupil in recitation and examination, in any of the studies of the term, equals or exceeds ninety per cent., he shall be furnished with a written certificate to that effect signed by the teacher. Such certificate shall be deemed a reward for proficiency; and if presented to the teacher upon admission to any public school in the State within three months thereafter, it shall be taken as prima facie evidence that it is not necessary for the student to go over the studies therein named, and shall be duly considered in determining the classes to which he is to be assigned.

RULE XIII. Teachers are authorized to require excuses from the parents or guardians of pupils, either in person or by written note, in all cases of absence or tardiness, or of dismissal before the close of school, and no excuse shall be deemed valid except that of sickness or necessary employment. The teacher shall be the judge of the sufficiency of excuses subject to an appeal to the directors.

RULE XIV. Whenever the unexcused absences of any pupil during any one term shall amount, in the aggregate, to seven days, he shall be expelled from the school, if the directors so order; and the teacher shall suspend him until the opinion of the directors can be taken. For this purpose unexcused absence or tardiness for a half day or less, and for more than one hour, at any one time, shall be deemed a half day's absence; and such absence or tardiness for more than half a day, at one time, shall be reckoned as absence for a whole day.

RULE XV. It is recommended that suitable "Rolls of Honor" be provided for use in the public schools, upon which shall be enrolled the names of those pupils of the schools, not exceeding ten in number in any one school, who, at the close of any term, shall be found to have attended school most regularly and promptly during the term, and to have received the best standing and maintained the most correct deportment.

RULE XVI. The teacher of every public school shall, at the close of each term, make out and transmit to the County Superintendent a written report, according to such form as may be furnished by the State Superintendent.

RULE XVII. Teachers in the public schools are required, if possible, to attend all Teachers' Institutes held under authority of law in the counties in which they reside. County Superintendents are hereby instructed and directed to ask all applicants for teachers' certificates who have previously been engaged in teaching in the public schools of this State, whether they have attended the Institutes held under authority of law in the counties where they were employed, and if not, why not. If any candidate shall reply that he has not so attended, and shall fail to give a satisfactory excuse therefor, the County Superintendent shall mark down his standing in "teaching" accordingly. It is earnestly urged upon all school directors to afford to their teachers every facility for attending Institutes, and to allow them a reasonable time for such attendance without any deduction from their wages, and without requiring them afterwards to make up the time so spent.

RULE XVIII. In all public schools in this State, the teachers shall require of their pupils regular stated exercises in composition and declamation.

RULE XIX. In all schools where there are primary pupils, it is recommended that exercises in free gymnastics, and suitable vocal and "breathing exercises" be given daily.

PUPILS.

RULE I. No pupil shall be allowed to retain connection with any public school unless provided with books, slate and other things required to be used in the classes to which he is assigned; but no pupil shall be excluded for this cause unless the teacher shall have given one week's previous notice to the parents or guardians of such pupil of the articles needed. Indigent pupils may be supplied with books, etc., at the expense of the district if the directors so order.

RULE II. Pupils affected with contagious diseases shall not be allowed to remain in any of the public schools.

RULE III. Every pupil is required to attend school punctually and regularly; to conform to the regulations of the school, and to obey promptly all the directions of the teacher; to observe good order and propriety of deportment; to be diligent in study, respectful to teachers, and kind and obliging to school mates; to refrain entirely from the use of profanity and vulgar language, and to be clean and neat in person and clothing.

RULE IV. Any pupil who shall in any way cut or otherwise injure any school house, or injure any fences, trees or out-buildings belonging to any school, or shall write any profane or obscene language, or make any obscene pictures on the school premises, shall be liable to suspension, expulsion or other punishment, according to the nature of the offense.

The following graded course of study has been prepared as a sort of model to aid teachers in organizing their schools and classifying their pupils. It is recommended to teachers for that purpose, and it is hoped that they will find it useful in enabling them to be systematic in their work. It is not expected, of course, that it will or can be strictly followed in all cases, but teachers are requested to adopt, at least in outline, this or some similar system of grading:

COLLEGES,

ACADEMIES AND PRIVATE SCHOOLS.

Information respecting the history and condition of chartered and incorporated institutions of learning and of private academies, has been collected under many and serious embarrassments. Some of the presidents, principals and other persons, to whom appeals have been made for information, responded cheerfully and faithfully; while others did not do so well. The office has no circulars to distribute; the State Board of Education deeming it imperatively necessary to economize in every manner possible. The pen has done all the work. It is regretted that more could not be accomplished. Where complete sketches have been furnished, they are used without change, note, or comment.

ACADEMY OF THE SACRED HEART.

ESTABLISHED, JULY, 1863.

After earnest and reiterated appeals from several of the leading citizens of Salem, who felt the increasing need of an institution wherein their daughters might be both instructed and educated by that process of training which informs the mind while it cultivates the heart, five members of the Sisterhood of the Most Holy Names of Jesus and Mary responded to the call by opening a school in Salem in 1863, and thus was formed the nucleus of that institution now so well and favorably known throughout the entire State of Oregon as the Academy of the Sacred Heart.

For the prosecution of their purpose, the Sisters purchased, at a cost of $1,500, a building and grounds then owned by the Masonic confraternity, situated on the corner of Chemeketa and Church streets. After adapting the edifice to school purposes, it was, in August, 1863, opened for the reception of students, and forthwith the Sisters entered upon those duties, for the fulfillment of which they had relinquished home and kindred, and to which they had not only consecrated their talents, but also their lives.

The prospects of the school from the very beginning were cheering, as from its very commencement it gave unmistakable evidence of that thorough instruction it was its destiny to impart to the young ladies of the far West. In the short space of a few months the building was too small to accommodate the fast increasing number of pupils who flocked thither; hence the necessity of extending its dimensions and adding to its corps of teachers was imperatively felt before the close of its first year of existence. In May, 1864, the teachers were reinforced, but the limited means of the institution would not permit it to make the necessary additions to the building until May, 1865.

In the interval, the Sisters rigidly eschewed all luxuries, that they might the sooner be enabled to expand the sphere of their usefulness. Their industry and self-abnegation, and the genial encouragement of their numerous friends and patrons, rendered circumstances propitious, and before the end of the second year, they extended the dimensions of the Academy by the addition of a wing to the north side of the original building, at an expense of $1,500.

Digitized by Google

The structure was completed and ready for occupancy at the re-opening of classes in September, 1865. After several years of fluctuating success, during which applicants were frequently refused for want of suitable accommodations, the Sisters were convinced that the comfort and well-being of the pupils confided to their care required a more home-like abode. Accordingly, in the autumn of 1871, excavations were begun for the foundations of a new brick building, the corner-stone of which was laid with appropriate ceremonies in May, 1872. The location of the new Academy is quite pleasant. The site is elevated and commands an extensive view of the surrounding picturesque scenery. Healthful breezes inspire activity, while the quiet seclusion that reigns, invites to reflection and study. The building was finished in 1873, and was fitly inaugurated by the commencement exercises which were held with usual success, in its spacious halls, at the closing session. Salem can boast of many public and private edifices, but for style of architecture, at once simple and grand, and general detail, none surpass the Academy of the Sacred Heart. It is expressly adapted to educational purposes. It was erected at a cost of $43,000, and is not only a grand monument of the success which has crowned the efforts of the Sisters of the Most Holy Names of Jesus and Mary in Salem, but also an ornament and a pride to the city in which it is located.

The average number of pupils in attendance each year has been between 160 and 175. The average number of art students has been between 45 and 50.

OBJECT OF THE INSTITUTION.

To impart solid learning; to develop the intellectual and physical faculties of their pupils; to instill into their minds honorable and noble principles; to form their hearts to virtue; to prepare them for a life of usefulness, and mould them for safe intercourse with the world in which they will shortly have to move; to render them future ornaments of society; in a word, to return virtuous, learned and accomplished young ladies to the homes of those parents who have confided their daughters to their care, is a sacred duty kept constantly in view by the Sisters of the Academy of the Sacred Heart.

Knowing that the charm of life may be destroyed by habits acquired in youth, the pupils are, at all hours, under the guardian care of the Sisters, and are, emphatically, taught to avoid all that is rude, vulgar, or trivial, whether in conversation or manners, and to cultivate, or endeavor to acquire, if they do not possess them, amaible dispositions, affability, polite deportment, and refinement of sentiment and language.

The rules of the institution are judiciously enforced to establish regularity and secure the happiness and improvement of the pupils, and nowise to interfere, unnecessarily, with the natural buoyancy of youthful spirits.

SCHOLASTIC ARRANGEMENT.

The academic year is divided into four terms of ten weeks each. The course of study is thorough and extensive, embracing all the branches constituting a solid and refined education. The pupils are divided with reference to scholarship into four departments: Primary, Junior, Preparatory and Senior. Each department is subdivided into several classes.

COURSE OF STUDY.

PRIMARY DEPARTMENT.

Spelling, Reading, Writing, First Lessons in Geography,

Juvenile Science, First Lessons in Natural Philosophy, Arithmetic.

JUNIOR DEPARTMENT.

Spelling and Definitions, Reading, Writing, Arithmetic, Geography, Grammar, First Lessons in Composition, Elements of Natural Philosophy and Astronomy, Outlines of History, Familiar Science.

PREPARATORY DEPARTMENT.

Dictionary, Reading, Grammar, Political and Physical Geography, Ancient History, Epistolary Correspondence, Rhetoric, Botany, Chemistry, Natural Philosophy, Astronomy, Arithmetic, Penmanship.

SENIOR DEPARTMENT.

Elocution, English Synonymes, Rhetoric, Criticism, Versification, General Literature, Logic, Astronomy, Use of the Globes, Natural and Mental Philosophy, Chemistry, Natural History, Physiology, Botany, Geology, Mythology, Modern History, Arithmetic, Book Keeping, Algebra, Geometry, Trigonometry and Penmanship.

OPTIONAL STUDIES.

French, Music, Vocal and Instrumental, Drawing and Painting, Wax Work, Leather and Hair Work, Worsted Flowers.

HONORS.

Gold medals, diplomas and the highest honors of the institution are conferred on pupils of the graduating class, who, having thoroughly and satisfactorily completed the scientific course, pass a satisfactory examination.

Since the opening of the school, in 1863, twenty-five young ladies, from various parts of the State, have been graduated from its sacred walls; all eminently fitted, by their careful training, to occupy any station in life, and adorn it by their refinement and education. And it is with a justifiable pride that the Academy of the Sacred Heart will ever recognize as its most cherished pupils, those who consider themselves honored in being permitted to claim it as their own loved Alma Mater.

ALBANY COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE.

This excellent institution, located in Albany, has been accomplishing good service in the cause of education for many years past. It is at present in a very prosperous condition, under the instruction of L. J. Powell, A. M., H. H. Hewett, and assistants.

ASHLAND ACADEMY.

This institution, located in Ashland, Jackson county, is favorably spoken of throughout the State. Its salutary influence upon the cause of education is manifest throughout Jackson county, and indeed all of Southern Oregon has been largely benefitted by its labors. Prof. J. H. Skidmore is Principal of the Academy.

BAKER CITY ACADEMY,

Located in Baker City, was incorporated and opened for the reception of students in 1868. At its organization, F. H. Grubbe, A. M., was elected Principal, in which capacity he served for several years, being supported in the instructional labors of the Academy by competent assistants. Prof. Grubbe resigning, S. P. Barrett, A. M., was called to succeed him in the school, where he continued to labor until last fall, when he resigned to accept the principalship of the Dalles City High School. This Academy has, from its first commencement, exercised a most healthful influence upon the entire school work in Eastern Oregon.

BETHEL COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE.

This Academy, established at Bethel, Polk county, in 1852, with Dr. N. Hudson as teacher, was chartered by the Territorial Legislature in 1855, and placed under the control of a self-perpetuating Board of Trustees. By judicious management and efficient labor, it grew in public favor until it became, for some years, one of the most prosperous institutions of learning in the State, being largely attended, and attracting students from distant parts of the country. During its greatest prosperity, the Faculty, according to the published catalogue, consisted of L. L. Rowland, A. B., Dr. N. Hudson, A. M., J. H. Hall, Geo. Hall, and Miss Rachel Jones. At that time, too, the buildings were substantial, neat and convenient. Among the special facilities for imparting instruction, the Academy possessed a carefully selected library, with maps and charts, and also a choice philosophical and chemical apparatus. It had, and indeed still has, a considerable endowment fund, but the exact amount cannot just now be ascertained. The sources of revenue have always been tuition fees and interest on the endowment fund. The management has always been such as never to allow it to incur any indebtedness whatever.

In view, however, of the fact, so painful to the real friend of thorough education, that such a needless multitude of academies, and of colleges, so called, were springing up all over the State, two at least claiming the patronage of the Christian brotherhood, it was deemed wise on the part of the Trustees to yield to the solicitations of the Trustees of Monmouth College, in referring the establishment and location of a denominational college to the Oregon State Christian Co-operation. This seemed necessary in order to unify and concentrate the educational forces of the Church, and thus render the work more efficient. Consequent upon this reference, Bethel Collegiate Institute and Monmouth College were merged into one institution, under the name of Christian College. This occurred in 1865, since which time this school, with admirable integrity, has continued to accept, in compliance with the stipulations of the reference, the position of a local academy. This school, however, is still capable, with its good buildings, apparatus, library, endowment, etc., of sustaining a thorough course of academic instruction.

BISHOP SCOTT GRAMMAR AND DIVINITY SCHOOL.

The Bishop Scott Grammar and Divinity School was founded in 1870, by the Right Rev. B. Wistar Morris.

It is located in Portland, Oregon, and is under the control of Bishop Morris, of the Protestant Episcopal Church.

The value of the buildings and grounds, $30,000.

It has an endowment fund of $7,000, and its sources of revenue are from tuition fees and interest on endowment.

The school year begins September 2d, and closes June 4th.

The course of study extends to the third year of a university course.

There are no examinations for admission.

The teacher is, at present—Head Master, the Rev. Geo. Burton, A. M.

CHRISTIAN COLLEGE.

This institution of learning, located at Monmouth, Polk county, Oregon, was chartered in 1865, Bethel Collegiate Institute and Monmouth University, two flourishing, but rival schools, having been merged, by the Oregon Annual Christian Co-operation, into one school, under the name of Christian College.

The first board of instruction was organized in 1866, consisting of L. L. Rowland, A. M., of Bethany College, Virginia, Dr. N. Hudson, A. M., A. W. Lucas, Wm. R. Bradshaw and Mrs. Nevins, with L. L. Rowland, A. M., as President; commencing its first, course of instruction on the first Monday in September, and continuing in successful operation since that time.

This College is under the auspices of the Christian Brotherhood of Oregon, and the charter places it in the hands of a board of trustees of twenty-six members, making it their duty to render the institution, in all respects, equal to the demands of the age. The trustees are chosen every six years, one-third retiring annually.

The College possesses buildings and grounds valued at $20,000, and has an endowment of $25,000.

There are two separate and complete courses of study—the classical and the scientific; and the degree of Bachelor of Arts may be obtained by ladies and gentlemen completing the former, and that of Bachelor of Science by those finishing the latter. The degree of Master of Arts may be conferred upon any worthy Bachelor of Arts of three years' standing. The number of its Alumni is thirty-four, and the first class was graduated in 1871.

The session begins on the first Monday of September, and is divided into two terms of twenty weeks each. The College closes its labors on Wednesday before the third Sunday in June of each year.

FACULTY.

T. F. Campbell, A. M., President and Professor of Biblical Literature and Mental Philosophy; A. F. Campbell, A. B., L. B., Professor of Languages; Nancy Springer, B. S., Tutor in Mathematics and Natural Sciences; C. J. Merill, Professor of Music.

Officers of the Board of Trustees, H. Lindsey, President; A. W. Lucas, Secretary; L. Bentley, Treasurer.

LITERARY SOCIETIES.

There are five belonging to the College, viz.: Hesperian, Philosophian and Neophian, composed of young gentlemen; the Vespertine, composed of young ladies, and the Associate Alumni, consisting of the graduates of the College in the regular courses.

REMARKS.

The Faculty will be increased soon to meet the pressing demands of the many students applying for admission. It is expected that the entrance examinations will be more rigid, and the utmost thoroughness will be required before passing to graduation.

COLUMBIA CITY ACADEMY.

This institution was established in the year 1873, by E. G. Adams, from Yale College, who occupied the position of principal until the summer of 1874, when he was succeeded by S. L. Lovell, from Boston Military Academy, and he by C. H. Hodges, from Bethany College, West Virginia.

It is beautifully located at Columbia City, a town on the left bank of the Columbia River, and mid-way between Portland and Astoria. It is the design of C. H. Hodges, the present Principal, to establish and maintain a course of study, as follows: Primary department—embracing the studies prescribed by law for district schools. Academic department—embracing Higher Arithmetic, Algebra, Geometry, Surveying, Geology, Botany, Zoology, English Composition, and Greek and Latin Grammars and Readers.

The terms of tuition, not including board, are five dollars for a term of twelve weeks.

CORVALLIS STATE AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE.

This institution, located in Corvallis, was founded by the M. E. Church, South, in 1865, and opened on the first Tuesday in November of that year. It was incorporated August 22d, 1868, and placed under the direction of a board of twenty-two trustees. The Legislature, at its biennial session of 1868, designated and adopted Corvallis College as the Agricultural College of the State.

Value of buildings, $3,000; lot, $1,000; apparatus, $2,000; farm, $4,000; endowment, ninety thousand acres Agricultural College land. Receives annually from the State, $5,000; from tuition, about $1,500, and from agency, about $900. Amount of receipts and expenditures for each of the last two school years, about $6,500.

The school year begins September 1st, and closes June 7th, and is divided into three terms. The course of study is about the same as that of other agricultural colleges, and is distributed into schools as follows:

I.—School of Physics.
II.—School of Mathematics.
III.—School of Moral Science.
IV.—School of Language.
V.—School of History and Literature.

VI.—School of Engineering.

VII.—Special studies of Agriculture.

Under a late act of Congress this institution has been designated as one of those authorized to give instruction in military science, and an officer of the United States Army has been assigned to the charge of this department.

There are four degrees conferred in this institution:

1. The degree A. M., conferred on all who complete the course in the study of Physics, Mathematics, Moral Philosophy, History and Literature and Language.

2. The degree A. B., on such as complete the course in the schools of Physics, Moral Philosophy, Mathematics and Ancient Language.

3. The degree B. S., on such as complete the course in the schools of Physics, Mathematics, Moral Philosophy, Engineering and Special Department of Agriculture.

4. The degree of Graduate of a School, on such as complete the course in any school.

Remark.—The title Proficient will be granted to any candidate for degrees who shall have passed two successful examinations, one of which must be final.

Salary of President, $1,500; Professors, $1,200; Private Teacher, $600.

GRACE CHURCH PARISH SCHOOL.

This school, located in Astoria, was established in 1870, and is under the control of the Rector. It possesses property worth $1,000; but it depends on tuition for income. It opens for the reception of students on the first Monday in September of each year, and has three terms of thirteen weeks each. The tuition is $7 per quarter. The Rev. T. A. Hyland is Principal of the school.

INDEPENDENT GERMAN SCHOOL.

The Independent German School was founded February 24, 1870, by a number of German citizens, incorporated in July, 1870, and is located on Ninth and Morrison streets, Portland.

The Independent German School Association has control of it. There are three Trustees, elected for three years, and five Directors, elected for one year, chosen by ballot.

The value of the buildings is $2,000; of the grounds, $5,000; of apparatus, etc., $750.

The sources of revenue are monthly dues by the members of the Association and tuition fees.

The school year begins the first week in August, and closes the last week in June, and is divided into two terms.

In regard to the studies, the German language is taught in its various branches, also English. No child is admitted under six years of age.

JEFFERSON INSTITUTE,

Located at Jefferson, was established in 1855, and chartered by the Territorial Legislature in 1857, as "an educational institution of the people and by the people, being the out growth of the real wants of the country." The Institute was placed under the control and management of a self-perpetuating board of fifteen trustees. The academy possesses a large and comfortable edifice, and a permanent endowment fund, sufficient to furnish free tuition about half the year. The school has continued in successful operation for more than twenty years, with many changes of teachers and diversities of results, but with no diminution of interest or abatement of zeal in the cause of education. The Institute is now in a very prosperous condition, with J. C. Campbell, A. M., Principal, assisted by a competent corps of teachers.

LA CREOLE ACADEMY,

Located in Dallas, is one of the oldest academies in the State. It possesses a tolerably good building and extensive and beautiful grounds. It has an endowment fund such as to assure the permanancy of the institution, but the precise amount cannot just now be reported. The Academy is in a flourishing condition. The last session was largely attended. Hon. S. F. Bennett, School Superintendent of Polk county, occupies the Principalship.

McMINNVILLE COLLEGE.

This Institution was chartered in 1859, having been established and in operation some years prior. It is under the patronage of the Baptist Church, and these people are earnestly laboring to render the enterprise permanently successful. It is under the control of a board of twenty-one Trustees, who regularly elect their successors. The College possesses buildings and grounds worth $5,000. It also has an endowment of $25,000. Its location is in McMinnville, a beautiful and thriving town, in the heart of one of the best agricultural districts in the State. The course of study is the same as that in the best American Colleges—Cæsar, Cicero, Virgil, Anabasis, Iliad, and Algebra to equations of the 2d degree, being requirements in order to matriculation. Rev. M. Bailey, A. M., late President, has always insisted upon an extended and thorough curriculum, and, as a consequence, this school has never, as yet, conferred any Collegiate degrees.

MEDICAL DEPARTMENT OF WILLAMETTE UNIVERSITY.

This Medical College, the only professional school of the Pacific Coast, north of San Francisco, was organized as a department of Willamette University, Salem, Oregon, in 1867, commencing its first course of lectures on March 3d, 1867, and continuing in successful operation ever since.

The Medical College organized with the following Faculty: H. Carpenter, M. D., Prof. of Civil and Military Surgery; E. R. Fiske, A. M., M. D., Prof. of Pathology and Practice of Medicine; J. Boswell, M. D., Prof. of Obstetrics and Diseases of Women and Children; J. H. Wythe, A. M., M. D., Prof. of Physiology, Hygiene and Microscopy; D. Payton, M. D., Prof. of Materia Medica and Therapeutics; J. W. McAffee, M. D., Prof. of Chemistry and Toxicology; W. C. Warrener, M. D., Demonstrator of Anatomy, and Hon. J. S. Smith, Prof. of Medical Jurisprudence.

Many important modifications, suggested by experience or demanded by necessity, have been made during the ten years of its existence. At all times, however, the course of study, faculty of instruction, requirements in order to graduation, etc., etc., have conformed, in all respects, to the advancements of Medical Science and to the rules and regulations of the American Medical Association.

The College possesses a good chemical laboratory, a supply of physiological charts, a complete set of anatomical models, etc. The medical books used are: Gray and Wilson, in Anatomy; Flint, Dalton, Draper and Carpenter, in Physiology; Stille, Beck, U. S. Dispensatory and Waring's Therapeutics, in Materia Medica; Beck, Wharton and Taylor, in Medical Jurisprudence; Bowman and Rand, in Medical Chemistry; Redford, Hodge, Cazeau, Churchill and Thomas, in Obstetrics and Diseases of Women, etc.; Flint, Aitkin, Wood, Watson, Niemeyar and Tanner, in Practice of Medicine; Gross, Erichsen and Hamilton, in Surgery; Maclise, in Surgical Anatomy; Stellwag and Troltsch, in Ophthalmology and Aural Diseases; Beale and

Carpenter, in Microscopy; and Parkes' Practical Hygiene, in Hygiene.

The degree of Doctor of Medicine (M. D.) has been conferred upon sixty-three graduates, and that of Doctor of Pharmacy (Phar. D.), on three, most of whom are now successfully engaged in the work of their professions within the State or adjoining Territories. Besides these, the Honorary degree of M. D. has been conferred upon eight medical gentlemen, and the degree ad eundem upon one.

Lectures begin regularly on the third Tuesday in December and close on the third Tuesday in June. The prerequisites to graduation are three years' study of medicine, with two full courses of lectures, a satisfactory thesis, and an approved examination, together with such other requirements as are usual in regular Medical Colleges.

The fees are: Matriculation, $5; each course of lectures, $120; demonstrator's ticket, $10; and graduation fee, $30.

The present Faculty of the College, as clipped from the last issue of the "Oregon Educational Monthly," is as follows:

T. M. Gatch, A. M., Ph. D., President; D. Payton, M. D., Dean, and Professor of Obstetrics and Diseases of Women and Children; J. W. McAfee, M. D., Professor of Descriptive and Surgical Anatomy; C. H. Hall, M. D., Professor of Principles and Practice of Medicine; L. L. Rowland, A.M.,M.D., Professor of Physiology, Hygiene and Microscopy; D. M. Jones, M. D., Professor of Therapeutics and Materia Medica; O. D. Doane, M. D., Professor of Chemistry and Toxicology; A. Sharples, A. B., M. D., Professor of the Principles and Practice of Surgery; Hon. R. Mallory, Professor of Medical Jurisprudence.

OREGON INSTITUTE FOR THE BLIND.

In response to the earnest appeals of Miss Nellie Simpson, seconded by many philanthropic citizens, the State Legislature established this institution in 1872, appropriating $4,000 for the education of the blind, and placing the school under the direction of the State Board of Education. A like appropriation was again made by the Legislature in 1874, for the education of this defective class of persons in our State.

The Institute began its first session, February 26th 1873, with Miss Nellie Simpson as Principal. "To her efforts and zeal," says the Rev. J. H. Babcock, "more than to those of any other person, are due the beginning and successful establishment of the institution." She remained connected with it as Principal until the summer of 1875, when she removed from the State, and Mr. C. H. Kaiser was appointed as her successor, who has remained ever since as Principal. The Institute is furnished with a fair supply of furniture, a piano, etc., charts, books, apparatus, and other appliances needed for instruction. Much of this property has been the result of private donation to the institution. The Institute has been in a prosperous condition for the past years, and it has accomplished good results.

OREGON INSTITUTE FOR THE DEAF AND DUMB.

This Institute, supported by State appropriations, was established in 1870. It is under the direction of the State Board of Education. Mr. Wm. Smith, a deaf mute, who was largely instrumental in awakening the interest which eventually resulted in legislative appropriations for the education of this unfortunate class of people, was for several years Principal of the school. Some two years ago, however, it was deemed best for the interests of the school to appoint Rev. P. S. Knight to this position.

This institution has accomplished much good. Its work, from its first establishment, has been generally satisfactory. The session commencing in September, 1875, was, it is to be regretted, less successful than any previous one. Owing to sickness and unpleasant feelings among teachers, this session was a failure. It is to be hoped, however, that a brighter day awaits the labors of the Institute. It is indispensable to the State, and should, by all means, be perpetuated and maintained by the Legislature.

PACIFIC UNIVERSITY.

Pacific University had its proper beginning in 1853, when the "College Society" gave assurances that it would assist and ultimately endow a college in Oregon. In 1853 we were all sanguine of the rapid development of this region, and it did not seem premature to launch the enterprise and secure, as was done in the winter of 1853-4, a charter for Pacific University.

It soon became apparent, however, that the pledges of the society amounted to little more than general approval, and that it could not be depended on, in the use of its own agencies, in the way of support. This was discovered by the writer upon his return East, in 1859, when, after thoroughly viewing the situation and resources of the Society, he attempted—although the very excellent and devoted Secretary of the Society disapproved—to attempt to raise a definite endowment of $20,000 on his own responsibility. The opposition of the Society and the inherent difficulties of the work made it wearisome and slow, so that more than two years and a half passed before it was completed. In doing this, there was no intention, as was supposed, of attacking or injuring the Society, but only to get funds for the college. Relations with the Society have since been harmonious.

In the same way additional endowments were subsequently secured, so that there now are $65,000 of permanent funds, and other large endowments in prospect. An effort is also well under way for securing a building fund. These funds give the only substantial grounds for confidence in the stability and growth of the University.

The actual work of up-building the college has had the usual difficulties, besides others peculiar to itself. Its struggles, growth and development amid these, make a history which I cannot now give. As the funds were given for a Christian College, so it has been our constant and prayerful purpose to make it such. While seeking to further the general interests of education, it has been a constant object to furnish to the worthy encouragement and helps for gaining a liberal education. It has been expected and maintained that this could only be secured by thorough instruction by teachers and hard work by scholars. Able teachers have always been employed and good work done; but, in 1867, with enlarged endowments the number of the faculty was increased, and there have since been employed five permanent teachers, besides assistants, and we have prepared to attend fairly to all the departments of a college education.

For admission to the regular College course, we now require, besides the ordinary English and Mathematical preparation, about one year of study in Greek, and somewhat over two years in Latin. There has been almost yearly graduations since 1863, when the degree of A. B.

Digitized by Google

was first conferred, in some of the University courses. Thirty-five in all have received their first degrees.

While our funds have been given in nearly equal amounts by Presbyterians and Congregationalists, it was with the explicit understanding that it should be under no sectarian control, and the Trustees have given bonds that it shall remain thus independent.

Our location is unsurpassed in the State for beauty and healthfulness; it is accessible by railroad, and as the country becomes settled, will be found more and more a central spot. The library numbers over 5,000 vols., and considerable collections have been made in different departments of Natural History.

The following are the Faculty at present: Rev. S. H. Marsh, D. D., President and Professor of Intellectual Philosophy; Rev. Horace Lyman, A. M., Professor of Rhetoric and History; Geo. H. Collier, A. M., Professor of Mathematics; Jos. W. Marsh, A. M., Professor of Latin and Greek; J. D. Robb, A. B., Principal of Academy; Miss Mary E. Mack, Preceptress; J. W. Marsh, A. M., Librarian; Miss Sarah Bowlby, Teacher of Music.

PHILOMATH COLLEGE.

It became apparent to members of the Oregon Conference that one of the growing needs of our Church was an educated membership; that in this age of progress, in order to keep pace with the times and successfully combat error in all of its diversified forms, our young men and women—the hope of the Church—should be favored with a thorough, practical education. In view of this, they began to look around and inquire for a suitable place to send them, in which they could prepare themselves for life's great work. Prefering an institution of their own, they began to inquire into the practicability of erecting such an institution. After mature deliberation and consultation, it was decided to found such an institution, to be known by the name of Philomath College. With live, wide-awake, energetic men at the front, it sprung up like magic.

Without entering further into a detailed description, suffice it to say that Philomath College is an institution of learning, under the supervision of the United Brethren in Christ. It is located at Philomath, Benton county, Oregon. It was founded and incorporated in the year 1866. Its location is healthy, picturesque and beautiful, surrounded on the north and west by peaks of the Coast mountains. It is only forty miles from the sounding sea.

The great object of the institution is not only to teach the head to think, but also the heart to feel. A purely moral and religious influence is thrown around the students. The number of the faculty is six. The course of study is three—the Classical, the Scientific and the Ladies' course, embracing studies similar to those in our first-class colleges. There is also a Commercial and Phonographic Department, in which unparalleled advantages are afforded all who desire to obtain a thorough business education. The school is controlled by a board of trustees, elected by the Oregon Annual Conference, who are to hold their offices for three years. The number of graduates last year was four.

There is a general fund of about $1,000, also an endowment of about $15,000. The interest on this, together with the tuition, goes toward defraying the expenses of teachers.

In the last three years, especially, the school has been rapidly growing in popularity and power. Last year was the most successful year for the institution, in every respect.

The college building is quite commodious, erected at a cost of about $12,000.

Executive Committee—Rev. R. E. Williams, President; Julius Brownson, Secretary.

PORTLAND ACADEMY AND FEMALE SEMINARY.

This institution, located in Portland, and coeval with the existance of the city, was founded by Rev. J. H. Wilbur, in 1849, and is under the immediate supervision of eighteen trustees, elected by the Annual Conference of the M. E. Church. Rev. C. S. Kingsley was its first principal. The buildings, grounds, and other property, are valued at $20,000, but it has no permanent endowment fund. The academic year begins in September and ends in June. The course of study extends from the primary branches to the sophomore course of colleges. Tuition ranges from $28 to $44 per annum.

STATE UNIVERSITY OF OREGON.

The Act of Congress admitting the State of Oregon into the Union, donated to the State, seventy-two sections of land, for the erection and maintenance of a State University. Up to the year 1872, there had been nothing done by the Legislature of the State, to create or organize or establish a State University, as contemplated by the Act of Congress referred to. In the early part of that year, the citizens of Eugene City began to agitate the question of establishing an institution of learning of a higher grade than the common school. Several meetings were held, and the question was thoroughly discussed by some of the public spirited men of the place. And in August, 1872, a meeting was called for the purpose of establishing an institution of learning as above suggested, at which meeting it was resolved to organize an asssociation, by incorporating under the laws of the State. Articles of incorporation were accordingly framed, subscribed and acknowledged by the following named citizens of Eugene City and Lane county: J. M. Thompson, J. J. Walton, Jr., W. J. J. Scott, B. F. Dorris, J. B. Underwood, J. J. Comstock, A. S. Patterson, S. H. Spencer, E. L. Bristow, E. L. Applegate, A. W. Patterson. The association, when organized, was named the Union University Association, with a capital stock of $50,000 cash, shares being $100. Just before, and at the time the association was being organized, the question of the erection and location of the State University, as provided for by the grant of land by Congress, came up for discussion, and it was determined by the gentlemen organizing this association, to make a proposition to the Legislature to have the State University located at this place. The association was incorporated mainly to give legal being to the association, so that a proposition could be made to the Legislature. Immediately after filing articles of incorporation, stock books were opened. One-half the stock was subscribed in a very short time, which enabled the association to elect permanent officers. The association, upon half the stock being subscribed, elected the following named gentlmen, directors: B. F. Dorris, J. J. Walton, Jr., W. J. J. Scott, J. M. Thompson and W. H. Abrams. J. M. Thompson was elected President of the Board, and T. G. Hendricks, Secretary.

The Legislature met in September, 1872, and at that session a bill was introduced by the Hon. A. W. Patterson, Senator from Lane county—which had been prepared by the association, and it became a law—organizing, establishing and locating the State University, conditionally, at Eugene City. The conditions were, that the Union University Association should procure a suitable site and erect a building thereon for university purposes, the building, furniture and grounds to be worth not less than $50,000. The grounds, building and furniture were to be deeded by the Union University Association to the Board of Directors of the State University, created by the law locating the University, free of all incumbrances. The law provided for a Board of Directors, known as the "Directors of the State University," six of whom were to be appointed by the Governor and three to be elected by the Union University Association. The following-named gentlemen were appointed by the Governor: Matthew P. Deady, L. L. McArthur, R. S. Strahan, T. G. Hendricks, George Humphrey, J. M. Thompson; and the following-named gentlemen were elected by the University Association: Ben. F. Dorris, W. J. J. Scott and J. J. Walton, Jr. The Board of Directors of the State University held a meeting in April, 1873, at which meeting Hon. Matthew P. Deady was elected President of the Board, and J. J. Walton, Jr., Secretary.

The plan of the building originated with the Board of Directors of the Union University Association, which plan was submitted to His Excellency L. F. Grover, Governor of the State, and by him changed in some few particulars; then placed in the hands of an architect—W. W. Piper—who amplified the plan, giving the building many of its present architectural beauties. The building is one hundred and twelve feet long, fifty-seven feet wide, three stories high, with a basement, eleven feet in the clear. In the basement there are two brick walls running through the building, near the centre, to support the upper floors. The basement is designed to contain a heating apparatus, so that the entire building can be supplied with hot air or steam. The first story is sixteen feet in the clear, with a hall, eight feet wide, running the entire length of the building, and connecting with the main entrance at each end. The first floor is divided into six rooms, two class rooms—thirty-eight by twenty-one feet each—on one side of the hall; and four rooms—an office, a parlor and two recitation rooms, each being twenty-one by eighteen feet eleven inches. The second floor is sixteen feet in the clear, and divided into three rooms; one being fifty-three by forty feet, and the other two thirty-nine and one-half by twenty-six feet each. The third story is eighteen feet in the clear, eighty by fifty-three feet, and is designed for an audience or commencement room, and other public meetings. The walls of the building are brick, two feet thick to the first floor, then twenty inches to the second floor, sixteen to the next and twelve to the last. The building is covered with a Mansard roof, with towers at each end, some twenty feet above the roof. The walls of the building are resting upon the solid bedrock, with foundation walls three and one-half feet thick, and of the most substantial and enduring stone. There are two flights of winding stairs at each end of the building.

The present building, when completed, will cost $75,000 or $80,000. The building throughout is of the best, strongest and most enduring material, well ventilated and constructed on the most improved plan for school purposes.

The site of the University embraces eighteen acres of land, of rich and productive soil, on an eminence near the Oregon and California railway, and about half a mile southeast of Eugene. The ground gradually descends in every direction from the University building, affording easy and thorough drainage from the building. A bayou of living water, putting in from the Willamette river, affords ample facilities for irrigation and for conveying water into every department of the building. The location is at the extreme southern point of the great Willamette valley, where the mountain range approaches near the river, leaving a small gap or gate way, through which the said road passes to connect with the outside world. The location is very healthy, and for beautiful scenery of mountain ranges and valley, it cannot be surpassed on the Coast, nor equalled by but few places on the continent.

The lands donated by Congress to the State for University purposes have all been selected and about half sold. The proceeds of the sale of the land constitutes an irre-ducible fund for the University, the interest on which can only be used to pay professors and the incidental expenses to keep up the school. The fund at present amounts to the sum of $60,000, which is being increased each year from the sale of the lands. When all the lands are sold it is estimated the endowment fund will amount to $100,000, or more. The amount of revenue each year to be applied to paying professors at this time is about $600.

The beautiful building prepared for the State University of Oregon being now ready for the accommodation of students, the first session will commence on the 16th day of October. There will be two courses of study, the preparatory and collegiate, and two terms of twenty weeks each.

The law provides for the free tuition of one student from each county, and one for each member of the legislature. Students wishing to avail themselves of the benifits of the law should make application to the County Superintendent of the county in which they reside. All other students wishing to take the collegiate course will be required to pay a tuition of $20 per term in advance. All candidates for admission into this department will be required to pass an examination in the following studies: Reading, writing, orthography, geography, practical arithmetic, English grammar, Greek grammar and reader, history of the United States, Latin grammar, reader and four books of Cæsar, but for the present the examination in the languages may be omitted.

The curriculum of study in the collegiate course will comprise: 1st. The usual college course. 2d. A complete course in science. 3d. A normal course, planned with special reference to the wants of teachers. All students in this department will be required to pay a fee of $2 50 per year in advance for incidental expenses.

All students in the preparatory department will be required to pay a tuition fee of $15 in advance. This department will give students the necessary training required for admittance into the collegiate department.

The Faculty will consist of J. W. Johnson, A. M., President, and Thomas Condon, A. M., and Mark Bailey, A. M. The teachers in the preparatory department are Mrs. E. Spiller, Principal, and Miss Mary E. Stone, Assistant.

ST. HELEN'S HALL.

This institution for the education of young ladies, was founded and opened to the reception of students in 1869, by the Rt. Rev. Benjamin Wistar Morris, assisted by Miss R. W. Morris and the Misses Rodney. It is located in the city of Portland, and is under the auspices of the Protestant Episcopal Church.

The catalogue for the first school-year gives the following names for the Faculty:

The Right Rev. B. Wistar Morris, Rector; Miss Mary Burton Rodney, Principal; Miss Lydia Rodney, First Assistant; Miss Clementina Rodney, in charge of the Musical Department; Mrs. Anna Reed, Teacher of Music; Miss Annie Atkinson, Assistant Teacher; Miss Catharine C. H. Burton, Assistant Teacher. The number of pupils was 132.

ENDOWMENTS.

The only endowment which St. Helen's Hall has, consists of two scholarships, one named the Mary Butler, and the other the Bishop Doane scholarship, and a fund arising from the sale of the old building known as Spencer Hall, which is devoted to the yearly increase of the library, called the Spencer Library. This fund will also supply the school with the latest scientific apparatus.

In the month of November, 1875, Bishop Morris bought of Mr. C. Holman, the lot at the southeast corner of Fifth and Madison streets, thus completing the purchase of the block on which the hall stands.

The motto of the school is, "That our daughters may be as the polished corners of the Temple." The Middle and Junior Departments receive thorough instruction in the fundamental English branches, including English and American History. In the Senior Departments, the studies are:

FOR THE FIRST YEAR.

Word Study, Natural Philosophy, Arithmetic, (finished), Botany, Ancient History, Ancient Geography, Sacred History, Latin and French.

FOR THE SECOND YEAR.

Elementary Algebra, Rhetoric, Chemistry, Astronomy,

Physiology, Botany, History of France, and Old Testament History, Latin and French.

FOR THE THIRD YEAR.

Higher Algebra, Universal History, Mental Philosophy, Latin, French, New Testament History, studies in Mythology and Architecture, and a second modern language, if desired, together with Analysis of Poetry.

FOR THE FOURTH YEAR.

Geometry and Trigonometry, Logic, English Literature, Church History, Physical Geography, Latin, French, and a second modern language, if desired.

Every class in school receives instruction in Spelling, Reading, Writing, English Grammar and English Composition. The composition classes are taught, as far as possible, after the method of that great teacher, of blessed memory, George Washington Doane, late Bishop of New Jersey. A constant oversight is kept of the conduct and manners of the pupils.

The Faculty at present is composed of The Right Rev. B. Wistar Morris, Rector; Miss Mary B. Rodney, Principal; Miss Lydia Rodney, Assistant Teacher; Miss Lydia H. Blackler, Assistant Teacher; Mrs. Mary B. Closston, Assistant Teacher; Miss Catharine C. H. Burton, Assistant Teacher; Miss S. Elizabeth Boyd, Assistant Teacher; Mrs. Clara L. Wright, Assistant Teacher in Primary Department; in charge of the Musical Department, Miss Clementina Rodney; Miss Kate A. Yarndley, Teacher of Music and Calisthenics; Miss Laura P. Adair, Teacher of Music; Mons. E. Grenier, Teacher of French.

ST. PAUL'S ACADEMY.

This is a select school, located in Salem, for the education of both boys and girls. Its course of study includes all the branches of an English education. Although most of the teachers have been members of the Episcopal Church, yet the school is not a denominational one; it is as yet merely secular, without any positive religious training. It is the intention of St. Paul's parish to make the school at no very distant day a denominational one, under the auspices of the Episcopal Church.

The building in which the school is kept is attached to the rear of St. Paul's Church, and was erected in 1870. A number of young children were taught in the rooms by two or three ladies at intervals during two or three years. The following persons have had charge of the school since it has been known by its present title: James H. Grant, from September, 1873, to July, 1874; Rev. E. J. and Mrs. Dawne, from September, 1874, to July, 1875; Joseph A. Sellwood, A. M., from September, 1875, to this date. The average attendance has been fifty. The Academy at present is in a prosperous condition, numbering about seventy students.

UMPQUA ACADEMY.

This Academy, located at Wilbur, Douglas county, was founded in 1854 and chartered in 1857. The school is under the supervision and management of a Board of Trustees, whose minimum number is nine. The Trustees are elected by the Oregon Conference of the M. E. Church. The grounds and buildings are valued at $7,000; but the school has no permanent endowment fund. F. H. Grubbe, A. M., is Principal, and he is assisted by a corps of competent teachers.

WILLAMETTE UNIVERSITY.

This widely and favorably known institution of learning is located in our Capital City. It was established and opened in 1844, as the "Oregon Institute," with Mrs. C. E. Willson, as Principal; and it was chartered, with all the privileges of a university, in 1853, under the name of Willamette University. Rev. Francis Hoyt was appointed, by Bishop Ames, the first President of the University. The charter provides that the Trustees shall be chosen by the Oregon Conference of the M. E. Church.

The officers of the Board of Trustees are—J. L. Parrish, President; J. H. Moores, Vice-President; J. A. Stratton, Secretary; and J. H. Albert, Treasurer.

The Executive Committee—E. N. Cooke, E. Strong, F. R. Smith, T. M. Gatch, T. Cunningham, J. H. Moores and J. H. Albert.

Auditing Committee—E. Strong, H. H. Gilfry and T. Cunningham.

Visiting Committee—Robert Bentley, P. M. Starr, L. M. Nickerson and L. L. Rowland.

The University owns beautiful and extensive grounds, a large, commodious and substantial college edifice, a good philosophical and chemical apparatus, an extensive library and a valuable cabinet of natural history. These will compare favorably with those of older institutions east of the Rocky mountains.

There are two regular courses of study in the Literary Department—the Classical and the Scientific; the former including higher Mathematics, Natural Science, Latin, Greek, and at least one modern language; the latter requiring the same as the former, excepting a part of the Latin and all the Greek. The degree of Bachelor of Arts is attained by ladies and gentlemen completing the Classical course, and that of Bachelor of Science by those finishing the Scientific. The degree of Master of Arts may be conferred in course upon every Bachelor of Arts of three years' standing, who may be deemed worthy.

The scholastic year commences on the first Monday in September.

The President's salary is $2,000 per annum; that of the Professors of Mathematics and of Natural Science, each, $1,400; that of Preceptress, $750; and that of Teachers in the Academic Department, each, $700, Tuition per term is, for common English, $9; Higher Branches, $12, and Collegiate, $15, with extra charges for instruction in Instrumental Music, German, French, Telegraphy, etc.

The Literary Societies—Concordia, Hesperian, Alka and Athenæum—possess commodious halls, comfortably and tastefully finished and furnished. These societies furnish a most excellent method of supplementing the instructions of the professors. They are strictly under the control of the Faculty, and are designed to be contributive to the general plan and work of the University.

FACULTY.

T. M. Gatch, A. M., Ph. D., President and Professor of Mental and Moral Philosopy; Geo. H. Collier, A. M., Professor of Mathematics and Natural Science; ———, Professor of Ancient Languages; Emily Shattuck, Preceptress and Teacher of Modern Languages; Ellen J. Chamberlin, Teacher in Academical Department; Aurora W. Bowman, Teacher in Academical Department; Blanche G. Patterson, Teacher of Instrumental Music.

REPORT.

To to the Honorable
State Board of Education of Oregon:

The undersigned respectfully presents the following report of the past work and present condition of the institution:

The financial affairs of the school have been in charge of H. H. Gilfry, whose statement in regard to the same accompanies this report.

Officers as follows:

Principal.....Rev. P. S. Knight.
Teacher.....Mr. Wm. S. Smith.
Assistant.....Mr. J. H. Larue.
Matron.....Mrs. A. D. Gray.
Matron since December 1, 1875.....Mrs. Mary Cooper.
Steward.....Mr. John Gray.

Since the organization of the school in 1870, thirty-six pupils in all have been admitted—twenty-one males and fifteen females. Of this number, fifteen have been deaf from birth. Deafness has been caused in twenty-one cases out of thirty-six by sickness. No death has occurred in our institution since its beginning. Three of our former pupils have married since leaving us.

As nearly as can be ascertained, about thirty of this unfortunate class in the State (quite a number of them of school age) have not been brought to the institution. The want of means to look them up (as is the custom in other States), the indigence or indifference of parents or guardians, the difficulty and expense of bringing them from remote parts of the State, and various other causes, have kept them away.

The following is a list of pupils enrolled the past two years, with the age and postoffice address of each:

The session of the school commencing in September, 1874, and closing June 30, 1875, was in every way a satisfactory and successful one. Several well qualified gentlemen were invited to attend the closing examination of that session, and to give their unbiased opinion of the work done. Among these were Dr. Arnold, of the State Agricultural College, Corvallis, and Rev. T. L. Eliot, Superintendent of Schools for Multnomah County. Those gentlemen expressed themselves in print as pleased and satisfied with what had been accomplished.

The session of 1875-6 opened with as fair prospects as any former one. But all its promises were blighted by the entrance into the school early in the session of that dreadod disease, typhoid fever. The result was that the school was twice adjourned,—once at the breaking out of the disease among the pupils, and finally on the Matron being dangerously ill with the same malady. Practically the session was a failure. The fund of the school was exhausted in caring for the sick, and the studies of the pupils were so broken into by the unavoidable confusion that progress in regular school work was impossible. It was, however, a subject for congratulation among the officers and friends of the school that no deaths occurred. About thirteen clearly defined cases, several of them of the most severe and lingering type, were by skillful treatment and careful nursing brought safely through, although many cases of the same disease, occurring in the immediate neighborhood, outside, proved fatal.

The prevalence of this disease was so general at the time, even in the most healthful locations of the country, that those qualified to judge are of opinion that there was no local cause for this visitation. Certainly those in charge will leave no means unused to prevent the recurrence in future of so dangerous a hindrance to the welfare and progress of the school.

As to the future, if I may be permitted to offer a few suggestions, our great want is a foundation. We need permanent grounds, permanent buildings, permanent legal regulations, and some kind of assurances of a permanent support. For six years our school has been merely an experiment. Provided for in the first place by a simple Joint Resolution, depending for its existence ever since on temporary legislative action, and thrown for its management as an extra burden on the hands of State officers, it has been from the beginning on the verge of doubts and uncertainties. It is time, we think, for our experiment to ripen into something definite. It is time for us to be deciding as a State what kind of permanent provision shall be made for that needy and deserving class of persons whose peculiar condition renders it impossible for them to enjoy the means of education provided for those possessed of all their faculties.

We have among us at present, as a people, and doubtless shall continue to have in future, our average proportion of that class of persons called mutes—about one to every thousand or twelve hundred of population. If we educate them they will be self-supporting and helpful members of society. If we suffer them to remain in ignorance, many of them will become indigent and burdensome. It requires no argument to show which is the better policy, even from a financial point of view, to say nothing of the moral and sociological bearings of the subject. The only questions that can arise in the minds of thoughtful citizens of our young commonwealth touching the matter, are questions as to how the necessary provisions shall be made.

It is to be sincerely hoped that the appointed custodians of the public welfare will promptly face these questions, and that such enlightened and harmonious Executive and Legislative action may be brought about as shall place the Oregon Institution for the Deaf and Dumb on sure foundations.

With a kind remembrance of the helpful and patient co-operation of the members of the Board in the past, and with hopeful confidence that each one will be a steady friend to the school in the future, I leave this report in your hands.

P. S. KNIGHT, Principal.

REPORT.

To the Honorable the State Board of Education :

The third school-year of the Institute began on the twenty-first day of September, 1874. The number of pupils in attendance during the year was nine. The teachers were the same as during the preceding year, until April, 1875, when Miss Fannie Barker was appointed Music Teacher in place of Miss Hernandez, who had resigned.

On the sixteenth of April, Mrs. Nesbit, the Matron, was fatally injured by being thrown from a wagon. She had performed the duties of her responsible charge with great diligence and fidelity, winning the love of the pupils and the esteem of the officers of the Institute. It being impossible to find any one to fill the important place which her sad death had made vacant, the Board thought best to close the term, which was done on the twenty-first of the month. In July, Miss Simpson, who had been Principal from the first opening of the Institute in 1873, removed from the State.

A contract having been made with Dr. E. Y. Chase for the care and maintenance of the school, the fourth term was opened on the fourth day of October, 1875. Mr. Charles H. Kaiser, a graduate of and a teacher in the New York Institute, was appointed Principal, and took charge of both the Literary and Musical Departments. During the term there were six pupils ; the school-year closing on the seventeenth of March, 1875.

The pupils during the two years were:

Brewer, David H.....Wasco County.
Lewis, Louisa E.....Benton County.
McFadden, Harriet.....Linn County.
Morgan, Zuritha.....Yamhill County.
Morris, Ernestine E.....Marion County.
Savage, Blanche.....Marion County.
Tomlinson, Frank.....Coos County.
Watkins, Josephine.....Linn County.
Whitaker, Benjamin.....Lane County.

Total, nine; of whom three were males and six females.

Instruction has been given in the following studies:

Reading, in three different systems of raised print, viz: The line system generally used in this country; the Moon system, invented by a blind man in England; and the New York point system. Arithmetic, mental and practical; Geography; History of the United States; Spelling, and Vocal and Instrumental Music.

The students have been diligent in their use of the apparatus and attentive to the faithful teaching of their instructors, and have accordingly made commendable progress in their studies. They deserve credit for excellent deportment as well as for good improvement of the advantages offered them. There is also great cause for thankfulness that they have enjoyed almost uninterrupted good health. And much praise is due to Mrs. Chase, the Matron during the past year, for her affectionate and watchful care of the pupils.

In November, 1875, the Institute received from Sir Charles Lowther, Leeds, England, a generous donation of over one hundred and twenty volumes of miscellaneous reading, religious, biographical and historical. These books are printed in the Moon type.

It is very important for the best interests of our State that the nature and design of this institution should be rightly understood. All our people ought to know that this Institute for the Blind, maintained at the public expense and placed under the direction of the State Board of Education, is not an asylum, nor a hospital, nor a poor-house, but a school. It is a part of our common school system. Its object is to fulfill the duty which the State owes in the matter of education to one peculiar class of its citizens; to furnish the blind with the means of obtaining at least as much knowledge of the ordinary branches of learning as seeing children can acquire in the public schools; to give them also the mental training which they specially need; to make good their unfortunate physical defect, and to put them, as far as possible, on an equal footing with others as regards that education which it is claimed the State ought to give to all its children. And it is further the design of the school to cultivate a right and honorable feeling of independence in the pupils and to teach them that it is their duty to use diligently all the capabilities with which they have been endowed, and to labor truly, as others do, to get their own living.

The welfare of the State requires that this object should be accomplished. It is only in this way that the blind can be prevented from being always a helpless, unproductive, expensive and wretched class in the community. Only by some such plan as this, wisely and faithfully carried out, is it possible to attain the result which all good citizens must wish may be speedily attained, viz: the removal of this grievous defect of blindness. The final result that ought to be our aim is the curing of every defective class of persons.

Digitized by Google

And that desirable end can be secured so far as regards the blind, only by teaching them to consider that they are not to be any more dependent upon charity than others are ; and by furnishing them the means, not of living idly at the expense of the State, but of supplying their defect and making themselves useful members of society.

There are, probably, at least twenty-five persons in our State who might profitably use the advantages of the Institute. In order to extend its benefits to them, the appropriation ought to be much larger than has heretofore been granted. Ample and liberal means given now, enough to remedy the evil soon, will save the commonwealth great expense in the future performance of its duty.

Respectfully submitted,

JOHN H. BABCOCK.

To His Excellency,

L. F. Grover,

Governor of the State of Oregon:

SIR:—I have the honor to herewith enclose the Biennial Report of the Oregon State Penitentiary for the two fiscal years ending September 1, 1876, as also the Report of the Surgeon for the same period.

The health of the prisoners you will find, upon examination of the Physician's Report, to be better than the general average of free men, only three deaths having occurred in the past two years. Finding that my bills for physicians and for drugs and medicines were increasing at too rapid a rate for the years 1873-4, I employed Dr. Richardson, at the rate of $2 50 for each visit, and 50 cents for each prescription, and it will be seen by the Superintendent's Report for 1873-4 that the expense for those years was $3,985 16, and that the State has saved in the past two years the sum of $910 44 on these items.

Dr. C. G. Glass, an inmate of the prison, has served as Hospital Steward for the past two years, and by his prompt attention to the sick has aided much in preventing sickness and death among the prisoners, being on hand day and night in the hospital, caring for the sick and suffering.

On the — day of June, 1875, at about 2 o'clock P. M., fire was discovered in the flax mill, and before it could be extinguished every work-shop within the prison enclosure was burned to the ground. This was a great loss, not only to the State, but to the contractors of convict labor. The buildings destroyed consisted of the boot and shoe manufactory, the tannery, flax factory, saw mill, and the flume and penstock to the level of the ground. The destruction of the buildings was not only a loss to the State of the value pertaining to each, but threw out of paying employment for the whole year a great many convicts let to the contractors, as also those employed indoors upon the different work of the prison itself.

Your Excellency will remember the Superintendent, in his Reports of 1872 and 1874 called the attention of the Legislature to the advisability, if not necessity, of making a small appropriation for a water engine or large force pump. Had this been done, it is the opinion of those acquainted with the circumstances of the fire that the buildings could all have been saved; as it was we were powerless to stay the progress of the flames.

In the new buildings for work shops, just completed, we have a limited protection against fire, but by no means sufficient to remove them from the danger of total destruction, and as they are, as now constructed, of much greater value than the former ones, the Superintendent will repeat his recommendation for some further safeguard, and hope your Excellency will call the attention of the Legislature to the importance and real need of this matter. Had it been done by a former action of that body, from fifteen to twenty thousand dollars would have been saved to the State.

The State owns buildings and property within and about, costing $200,000, liable to destruction any moment. Of late, serious fires have occurred in nearly all the prisons in the country, and it is but a short time since the extensive work shops connected with the California State Prison were consumed, at a loss of some $300,000 to that State, and we may have just such a loss, in a minor degree, entailed upon this State at any time. Hence, I feel inclined to urge the appropriation of a sufficient sum to purchase a fire engine, or such a force pump as is now used by the Salem Flouring Mills and Pioneer Oil Company. Such a pump can be purchased for $300, with shafting and pulleys to attach the same to the water power at an additional expense of $60, and will require four hundred feet of hose, costing one dollar per foot—in all, about $800.

A fire engine, piano style, will cost about $650, requiring the same quantity of hose as the pump. The most suitable pump, in the estimation of the Superintendent, would be a No. 4 fire pump—Holley's Patent Rotary. This, I think, would be preferable to an engine, as the few prisoners we could trust to work an engine at night would hardly be sufficiently available.

I would especially call your Excellency's attention to the fact that the stockade or plank fence around the prison is almost rotted down, and will, before the assembling of another Legislature, absolutely require a new one. For this enclosure an appropriation of $5,000, for lumber, nails and iron rods, will be required.

FINANCES.

The finacial condition of the Prison will be found as follows:

The amount appropriated by the Legislature for the two years past was $50,000. This was the smallest appropriation made for the last ten years.

My predecessor, Maj. M. P. Berry, expended in 1866 and 1868, $57,157.29; in 1868 and 1870, $59,332.51; and for the greater part of the time he had less than one-half the number of convicts confined in the prison, and no improvements in the shape of buildings on the prison grounds, while I have expended during the past two years for rebuilding shops and placing machinery in the same, and paying indebtedness of 1874, $7,275.14; leaving the amount actually expended for the maintenance of the prison for the two years, $42,033.81.

The total amount of vouchers drawn on the Secretary of State for 1875 and 1876, which includes all the liabilities of the past two years, is $49,308.95. Leaving a balance of the $50,000 in the State Treasuary of $691.05.

RECEIPTS.

The total receipts from September 1, 1874, to September 1, 1876, have been:

|---|---|
| Cash paid over to State Treasurer | $10,322 85 |
| Bills and accounts receivable for convict labor, sales of brick, etc., and keeping U. S. prisoners | 7,735 08 |
| Convict labor and brick turned over to State Capital Commissioners | 11,994 87 |
| Convict labor on tannery, boot and shoe shops, blacksmith shops, mill race, penstock, etc., 7,414 days, @ 50 cents. | 3,707 00 |
| Convict labor improving farm and grounds, new stockade, etc., 7,425 days, @ 50 cents... | 3,762 00 |
| Total | $37,521 80 |

EXPENDITURES.

Which leaves as an actual expenditure for the prison over and above what the State has or will receive of $11,787.15.

|---|---|
| Officers' Salaries | $18,101 90 |
| Physicians' Salaries and drugs and medicines... | 3,074 72 |
| Stationery | 259 24 |
| Printing and advertising | 273 25 |
| Hardware, iron, &c | 1,668 88 |

| Wood | 1,159 34 |
| Flour | 1,527 92 |
| Meats | 4,088 67 |
| Clothing | 1,784 06 |
| Boots and shoes | 902 30 |
| Harness, leather, etc | 126 01 |
| Paints and oils | 289 40 |
| Lumber | 2,360 21 |
| Hay, feed and seed | 759 19 |
| Discharged and escaped convicts | 2,066 35 |
| Groceries | 5,847 89 |
| Dry goods and furnishing goods | 219 07 |
| Fixtures, including gas machine | 1,727 41 |
| Teaming | 401 75 |
| Live stock | 210 00 |
| Carpenter work | 192 00 |
| Bedding | 389 38 |
| Miscellaneous | 1,871 50 |
| Total | $49,308 95 |

By reference to the actual amount expended for the maintenance of the prison, less expenditures for improvements, in all amounting to $42,033 81, we find that it costs for each convict for clothing, food, medicines, physicians, as also guarding and officers' salaries, food and bedding, for one year, at the rate of $175 14

Which, when compared with the cost of other prisons,

Digitized by Google

I consider very low, and is evidence that nothing has been wasted about the prison.

Below your Excellency will find tabular statements of what it costs many leading States to keep their prisoners. Taking the actual cost to the State over and above the various amounts to be received, or already received, viz.: the sum of $11,787 15, we find the expenses to be for one year..... $49 12
One month..... 4 09
One day..... 13½cts.

Pennsylvania for 1874.

Average cost per day.....30½

Kansas.

Average cost.....24½

California, for 1874 and 1875, cost the State $348,523 27.

Average cost per day.....44c

By the Warden's report, there was paid to the officers for two years' salaries amounting to.....$102,722 11
For food of officers for same..... 36,000 00

From this it will be seen that it cost nearly three times the amount to pay the officers of that prison that it costs for the entire management of ours. And it cost nearly as much for food for the officers alone of that institution that it has to maintain ours. And it cost to maintain the California State Prison for two years, $348,523 27. This is more than the entire expenses of your State government.

Average cost per man.....51c

Digitized by Google

Nevada Penitentiary for 1874 and 1875.

Average cost per day.....41c

After a careful calculation, I think the expenses for the coming two years, under our present management, can be met with an appropriation of $40,000, and would respectfully recommend that amount for the consideration of the Assembly.

Owing to the comparatively limited amount of the last appropriation, and the loss entailed upon the State by the fire, I was compelled to reduce the salary paid the guards from $50 to $35 per month. In the estimates made above, upon the total of $40,000, I have figured upon increasing their salaries to $50 per month, deeming it but just to the men employed.

Too much credit cannot be given to our State Treasurer, Hon. A. H. Brown, in furnishing the money to meet the obligations incurred, as in purchasing supplies, by inducing capitalists of the State to take our warrants at par at a time when there was no money in the State Treasury. By his able management in this matter he has saved to the Penitentiary appropriation, and of course to the State also, over $2,000, as, had our warrants gone into the money markets, they would not have brought over ninety cents on the dollar, and parties furnishing supplies would have been compelled to advance their prices accordingly.

CONVICT LABOR.

The Legislature at its last session passed an act authorizing the Superintendent to lease all the available labor of the convicts confined in the prison to the highest bidder—no bid at less than 50 cents per day to be considered—and for a term not longer than four years.

Digitized by Google

According to this act, I have leased to Mr. George Collins 12 prisoners, to work upon the brick-yard at 50 cents per day, for four years.

To Mr. Erwin, 5 men, for the same period and price, to work in blacksmith shop.

To R. A. Ray & Son, 10, with the privilege of 30, to work in the tannery, for the same price and term.

To Mr. John Hackleman, 15, to work in the boot and shoe manufactory—price and term the same.

In all, 57 convicts, leased at 50 cents per day.

No trouble would be experienced in leasing all the surplus labor of the prison, could a longer lease than four years be granted. Parties with capital do not wish to enter largely into a manufacturing interest unless with the assurance that they can continue for a longer time than a period of four years, claiming that at the end of each State Administration they are likely to be compelled to give way to party friends of those in power, such change necessarily entailing a loss to the party contracting. In the matter of tanning, for instance, from twelve to eighteen months' time is required to work out a stock of leather already in the yard. During the time this stock is being taken out, the men who were required to work it in, would consequently remain unemployed for that period, entailing a loss upon the State and contractor also. The same may be said of nearly all manufacturing interests likely to be made available by prison labor.

No good reason exists why the lease should be limited to so short a period. All other prisons lease the labor for a period to suit the contractors. In the California prison some parties have had the labor for fifteen years.

Messrs. Stone & Hayden employ 200 men, making saddle trees, harness and leather. Messrs. Porter, Blume &

Digitized by Google

Co. work 300 to 400 convicts, manufacturing boots and shoes. A large share of these articles after being made up are shipped to this State, and no good reason exists why the same articles cannot be made in our own prison by convict labor, saving so many dollars to the citizens and reducing the expenditures of the State itself for maintenance of the prisoners. It can be and would be done could such leases be made as would justify parties wishing to engage in it.

In building work shops and factories in which to employ the labor, I have aimed to make such employment of that character likely to prove successful, as in other State prisons, and of a kind to not materially intefere with free labor in this State.

The buildings for work-shops are all constructed of the best material, substantially built, and will last for twenty years, unless destroyed by fire, and have been built entirely by convict labor, done at a time when it could not have been employed at any other work. Convicts sawed the lumber and did all the framing and work in its construction.

Had I been compelled to purchase the 290,000 feet of lumber used in all the buildings, the expense to the State for that item alone would have been more than the whole structures have cost. The shoe factory and tannery are heated by steam pipes, which obviates the necessity of any fires in or around the building, as the heat comes from the same boilers that warm the prison. All the waste bark, ross and offal from the tannery are turned over to the State, and are sufficient to heat both prison and work-shops, saving to the State four or five hundred dollars per year for wood.

The work-shops now completed will employ three hundred men, and we will be able to teach men trades, while in confinement, to earn an honest living when their term of service expires.

In concluding, it would afford the Superintendent great pleasure if, not only the usual committee, but all the members of the General Assembly that can consistently, with their other duties, would visit and fully examine the workings of the institution and the plan and character of the work done. By doing so, they would be better prepared to decide whether the money expended in improvements had been economically and honestly spent. And I would ask to have an honest and fair committee appointed from both Houses, to examine my books and papers and management of the Penitentiary for the past two years; as also the conduct of the other officers and employes of the prison during the same time. At the last session a portion of the committee was selected for the reason they were known to be personal enemies of the Superintendent; and the committee, against my written protest to the committee and both Houses of the Legislature, selected as its clerk T. McF. Patton, a man without character for honesty or truth, and, at the time, was a defaulter to the Government, and lying under an indictment for larceny from Jackson county; who has since paid a debt to the State in greenbacks, at par, which he contracted to pay in coin, thereby defrauding the State of the difference between coin and currency.

I court an honest and fair investigation, from honest and fair men, but want nothing to do with such men as J. N. Dolph and T. McF. Patton.

I will here repeat what I have frequently published in the newspapers when false charges have been made against the management of the Penitentiary, and hope the parties who pretend to know anything that would substantiate these charges will avail themselves of the opportunity during the Legislature to do so.

Digitized by Google

Further, I take this occasion to say that I defy any person to show where I have defrauded the State out of one dollar, or misappropriated one, or made a single mistake in my management of the prison affairs, or where I have sold property belonging to the State to irresponsible parties. Not a dollar of indebtedness appearing on the books or notes but what can be collected at any time. Nor can it be shown where any property about the prison has been destroyed or wasted.

As it has been charged that I have leased prison labor to parties for pay, when it was appropriated to my own benefit and profit, if any of these parties will show where I ever received one cent from the labor of any convict, or where I have used the labor of one for my own benefit, I will pay the amount of my official bond ($10,000) to the State of Oregon. Whatever action has been had in these matters by the Superintendent, has been solely for the benefit of the State, and a fair and thorough investigation will substantiate what I say.

I have held the position of Superintendent of the State Penitentiary for six years, at a salary of $1,800 per year, and to-day am not worth one thousand dollars more than when I took charge of the prison, and during that time have been engaged in no business which proved a losing one. My family have boarded at the prison during the greater part of the last two years, which board I have charged to myself and deducted from my salary, something never before done by any person in charge of a

If any change in the management of the prison is needed, or a change of the law governing the same, or its Superintendent needs censuring, it is for the reason that he has not grown rich out of the money entrusted to his care, wrung from the pockets of an over-taxed people; or that he has not allowed any parties dealing with the State to present fraudulent claims and receive pay for them, or allowed incompetent, dishonest, or worthless employes around the prison. For refusing to employ such and to deal with such as above referred to, comes all the fault-finding and abuse heaped upon the Superintendent. As my management as Superintendent of the Penitentiary has always met with your Excellency's approval, in fact I may say that I have carried out your Excellency's instructions in such matters as above referred to. If such management is not satisfactory to the General Assembly, they can make such changes as they deem best to secure economy and reform, and it will meet with my approbation and support, if it is really intended to reduce the expenses of the State Government. I mention this because there were three bills before the last Legislature, praying that honorable body to change the law governing the State Penitentiary, not that they could show any dishonesty or extravagance in its management, but simply to gratify a certain coterie of dishonest and corrupt politicians, who, at different times while the measures were pending, offered to have the bills defeated if I would pay them $10,000.

That honorable body defeated both measures, as it was plain to be seen that the proposition would cost the State more than the present mode of governing the same, and surrounded with many dangers. For instance, if three commissioners are elected to govern the prison for two or four years, and each or all should turn out to be dishonest or incapable, no power could remove them, and at each session of the Legislature they would be changed to suit the different political majorities of that body, being now in unison with the Executive and then in opposition, and under such circumstances politics alone would control the State Penitentiary—a power that should never govern prisons. By reference to the reports of the prisons from nearly every State in the Union, on file in this office, it will be seen that the plan in operation here is the most economical, except it be where the prison is leased for a term of years at a certain fixed amount. Such a law governs the State Penitentiary in the States of Kentucky, Texas, Missouri and other large States, and gives satisfaction.

At the suggestion of your Excellency, I purchased of the Union Gas Company, of California, one of their machines, which works satisfactorily in every respect, the price of gas not exceeding thirty cents per day the year round, which is less than one-half it would cost for coal oil, furnishing a great deal more light, and with less danger to the prison and inmates from explosion.

Invoices of all the property on hand will be found in the office of the Secretary of State. No valuation has been placed upon such return of property.

Concerning the three escaped prisoners, before referred to, I deem it necessary to make the following statement:

Valentine Howe was allowed to burn brick at night without a guard, which duty he performed for some time without leaving the brick-yard enclosure, in company with other prisoners. On the 23d day of Oct., 1874, he escaped.

John Curn was sent to work in the garden outside the walls, without a guard, by the Warden, without my knowledge or consent, and escaped in a short time after he was let out.

Simpson escaped by hiding himself in the flax straw at a time when I was in San Francisco. The Warden refused to allow the prison enclosure to be guarded the second night, and he escaped over the wall at his pleasure.

A suitable reward was offered for each, but up to this time they are still at large.

The ministers and Christian ladies who have visited us for the past two years, have distributed a large number of religious papers and tracts among the prisoners, and too much praise cannot be given to Mrs. J. Q. Thornton and other ladies, who have visited the unfortunates confined during sickness, and have visited the prison every Sunday through rain or sunshine. They all have the good wishes of the officers of the prison, and we hope they will some day be rewarded for their labors, if not in this world that they may in the world to come.

In conclusion of this subject, I will say the present Warden and Deputy, together with the other officers employed around the prison, have each greatly aided in advancing the best interests of the institution.

To your Excellency I beg leave to tender my grateful acknowledgements for many valuable instructions and most cheerful co-operation in the workings of the Penitentiary.

PHYSICIAN'S REPORT.

To the Superintendent of the Oregon State Penitentiary:

W. H. WATKINDS—Sir:—In pursuance of the provisions of the law, I have the honor to submit the following as my report of the sanitary condition of the inmates of this institution for the two years ending September 1, 1876:

In making my biennial report, it affords me great pleasure to be able to state that there has been no death in the prison for the last two years, arising from any cause within the prison, or from any exposures connected therewith. Only three deaths have occurred from any cause whatever, and of these I will speak more fully hereafter.

It is a gratifying source of pleasure to state that while our city in the last two years has been scourged by two alarmingly fatal epidemics, neither of them have invaded our prison,—a fact which speaks in the highest terms possible for the thoroughly effecient sanitary regulations of the institution, and demonstrates the fact that convicts must be well fed, clothed and cared for.

Of the diseases which I have been called to treat, a large portion are of the malarious type, which so commonly prevails in this district. But with the prisoners it is quite frequently complicated with rheumatism, the result in most cases of venereal disease, contracted and badly treated before coming to the prison.

Catarrhal disease prevails here about as in other communities of like size.

Digitized by Google

Kidney and spinal troubles have been quite common—induced in many cases, I think, by wearing the Gardner shackle. The continued application of this great weight of from 6 to 28 pounds to the lower extremities must of necessity destroy the muscular power of the lower limbs. But what I deem the most serious evil is this: With from 6 to 28 pounds of cold iron around the ankles the prisoners must of necessity, with the ordinary supply of bedding furnished to prisoners, suffer with cold feet and limbs during the nights, which in this climate are always cool. And the effect of continually cold extremities cannot result otherwise than disastrously to the health of the convict. I would, therefore, in the strongest terms, recommend that means be adopted at the earliest possible moment to dispense altogether with the Gardner shackle.

CONVICTS TRANSFERRED TO THE INSANE ASYLUM.

Only one prisoner—Smith—has been removed to the Asylum. His health was much shattered by dissolute and intemperate habits before his imprisonment, and, no doubt, his insanity was due to those causes. He was the subject of hallucinations for some time before he was finally removed to the Asylum, and, so far, the good attention and humane treatment of that institution has failed to benefit him.

DEATHS IN THE PENITENTIARY.

John Wheland, aged 25 years, Irish. For years before being sent to the prison was the subject of epileptic fits; also, of heart disease; and while in as good health as usual, on the 20th of March, 1875, was seized with convulsions, fell to the floor, and died in a few moments.

James Jackson, aged 42, negro, died June 7, 1876, of fatty degeneration of the liver, a disease which he brought to the prison with him.

William Franklin, aged 36, Irish, died July 15, 1876, of cerebro-spinal menengitis, which was the result of a gunshot wound received at the time of his arrest, prior to his conviction. Although the wound had healed, there had been irrepairable damage done the spinal cord, which fact was apparent by the paralysis of the bowels, bladder and lower extremities. The irritation of the cord gradually extended to the brain, setting up inflammation of the membranes of that organ, which resulted in his death.

From this statement, you will see that no death has occurred from any cause which arose in the prison, or over which the prison had any control.

Your sanitary regulations are so complete that it leaves me nothing farther to recommend, and it is no less a pleasure than a duty for me to bear testimony to the admirable manner in which the convicts are cared for.

Every attention is paid to their comfort that circumstances will allow. Their food is of good quality and always carefully prepared. In fact, in this respect the institution is more like a hospital than a prison. Strict attention is paid to the cleansing of the cells and to making the inmates as comfortable as possible. The sick are treated with the utmost care and attention by the officers and those having them in charge.

To all the officers of the prison I am under many obligations for the uniform courtesy and kindness shown me, and I am under special obligations to Mr. Thompson, the Warden, for the very prompt and efficient manner in which he has carried out my every wish in the hospital department.

I take pleasure in acknowledging my obligation to Dr. Glass for the very careful manner in which he has performed the duties of hospital steward.

Very respectfully,

JAS. A. RICHARDSON,
Physician.

REPORT.

To His Excellency,
Governor L. F. Grover,
Salem, Oregon:

SIR:—I have the honor to submit the second biennial report of the agricultural department of Corvallis College.

ORGANIZATION.

There seems to be a desire on the part of many that all the laws relating to the organization of the Agricultural College be made public in some report. I insert them in this:

In the year 1862 the Congress of the U. S. passed an act providing for the establishment of Industrial Colleges in the several States of the Union. By this law, it is required of each State that should accept the provision of this act, that it "shall maintain, at least, one college where the leading object shall be, without excluding other scientific and classical studies, and including military tactics, to teach such branches of learning as are related to agriculture and the mechanic arts, in such manner as the Legislatures of the several States may respectively prescribe, in order to promote the liberal and practical education of the industrial classes in the several pursuits and professions of life." It will be seen upon inspection that liberal and practical education in the "several pursuits and professions of life," is the thing to be promoted, and not in two only,

Digitized by Google

(agriculture and the mechanic arts), as some do ignorantly talk; for it can not be meant that men in all professions and pursuits are to be turned away from their several respective pursuits to devote themselves to agriculture and the mechanic arts. The great ideal of the law seems to be this: To bring education in agricultural science and in the mechanic arts upon a level with education in all other pursuits. (I may remark, by parenthesis, that our Legislature, in adopting a course of study for the Agricultural College, well understood the spirit of the law of Congress.) In accordance with the Act of Congress, the Legislature of Oregon proceeded to such legislation as was necessary to organize an agricultural college. On page 40 of the "General Laws" for the year 1868, is found the following Act: "An Act to secure the location of the lands donated by Congress to the State for an Agricultural College, and to establish such college."

The first section of this Act provides that a Board of Commissioners be apppointed to locate lands. The second section provides, "That, until other provisions be made, the Corvallis College is hereby designated and adopted as the Agricultural College, in which all students, sent under the provisions of this Act, shall be instructed in all the arts, sciences and other studies in accordance with the requirements of the Act of Congress making such donation."

"An Act permanently to locate the Agricultural College of Oregon."

Section first of this Act provides "That Corvallis College, in Benton county, is hereby designated and permanently adopted as the Agricultural College of the State of Oregon, in which all students, sent under the provisions of law, shall be instructed in accordance with the requirements of the Act of Congress, approved on the 2d of July, 1862, granting public lands to the several States and Territories which might provide colleges for the benefit of agriculture and the mechanic arts, and the acts amendatory thereof."

Section second provides "That the following persons, to-wit: J. C. Avery, L. F. Grover and N. H. Cranor, are hereby constituted a Board of Commissioners to propose a plan for the instruction and education of the students in said Agricultural College, and to prepare rules, regulations and by-laws for the government of the same, all of which shall be submitted to the Legislative Assembly at its next regular session for its adoption or rejection, and in the meantime the said College shall be governed by and under the provisions of the Act of the Legislative Assembly, approved the 27th day of October, 1868, in relation to said College." (See the report of this Committee below.)

Section third requires "That the Board of Trustees of Corvallis College shall, by resolutions, accept the provisions of this Act, and agree to be bound by the within thirty days after its passage, and cause a copy of said resolutions to be filed with the Secretary of State, and upon their failure to do so, they shall be deemed to have rejected its provisions."

The following are the resolutions of the Board of Trustees accepting the provisions of this Act. They are found on page 19 of the "General Laws" of 1870. I insert only the resolutions, not the preambles:

"Resolved, (1) By the Board of Trustees of Corvallis College, That said Board does accept the provisions of said Act of the Legislative Assembly aforesaid and they do agree to be bound by the same.

Resolved, (2) That the Secretary of the Board is hereby directed forthwith to forward to the Secretary of the State of Oregon, a copy of the foregoing preamble and resolutions.

R. S. STRAHAN, President.

B. R. BIDDLE, Test, Secretary.

"Filed in the office of Secretary of the State, November 2, 1870."

On page 21 of "General Laws of 1872," we find the following Act:

"An Act for the further organization of the Agricultural College, and to provide for the support of the same."

Section second provides, "That the rules, regulations and by-laws for the government of said institution, reported to the Legislative Assembly, at its present session, by the Commission appointed under Act of the Legislature, aproved October 21, 1870, entitled 'An Act to permanently locate the Agricultural College of Oregon,' shall constitute under the several Acts of Congress and of the State relative to said institution, and in conjunction with the Articles of Incorporarion of Corvallis College and the government of said institation established under the same, shall constitute the full organization of said Agricultural College of the State of Oregon."

Of the Board of Commissioners on Regulations and Course of Study for the Agricultural College of Oregon.

To the Honorable the Legislative Assembly of the State of Oregon:

We, the undersigned Commissioners, appointed by the Act of the Legislative Assembly of the State of Oregon, approved October 21, 1870, entitled an Act to permanently locate the Agricultural College of Oregon, pursuant to the requirements of said Act, beg leave to make the following report, prescribing rules, regulations and by-laws for the government of said institution.

J. C. AVERY,
L. F. GROVER,
N. H. CRANOR.

The rules and regulations, as a matter pertaining wholly to the Board of Trustees and the Faculty, need not here be given.

The following is the course of study adopted by the Act above mentioned, as a part of the report of this committee:

Military—Tactics, Drill.

Your Commission find it impossible to draft laws and regulations sufficiently comprehensive to meet all the interests of the State Agricultural College. We therefore recommend that the Regents be empowered to make such additional regulations and such changes in the course of study as may be necessary to meet the growing wants of the Institution.

And in relation to the foregoing, we beg leave to suggest that courses of study be so arranged as to give students the option between different courses, or the selection of different studies taught in said College, and that diplomas may be awarded upon courses of study actually mastered by the pupils; this course always being under the direction of parents, guardian and faculty. These are all the laws pertaining to the organization of the College; all, at least, of essential importance.

The Faculty, finding it impossible for the present to teach this entire course, as not having a full corps of teachers, proceeded to select such a course as would best meet the intentions of the law. The course of study was accordingly classified in eight departments, as follows:

I. A School of Mathematics.
II. A School of Language (ancient).
III. A School of Language (modern).
IV. A School of Chemistry.
V. A School of Natural Philosophy.
VI. A School of Moral Science.
VII. A School of Agriculture.
VIII. A School of History and Literature.

Second Session—Integral Calculus.

SENIOR CLASS.

First Session—Mechanics, Sound and Light, Electricity.

MATHEMATICS.

Special attention is given to the mental discipline of the student and the development of his intellectual powers, for which the study of mathematics is pre-eminently adapted.

Digitized by Google

The great practical utility of this branch of science is constantly impressed upon the student, and as far as possible taught and illustrated by some useful application in the field of practical life.

Lectures are given on the Logic of Mathematics, pointing out and comparing the two methods of reasoning—analytical and synthetical.

The adjustment of the compass and theodolite is fully explained and illustrated by practice in the field.

TEXT BOOKS.

Davies, Loomis, Courtney, Olney and Todhunter for reference.

NATURAL PHILOSOPHY.

The doctrines of Light, Heat and Electricity are taught in this department; Mechanics in its lower forms; Astronomy, Mineralogy and Geology.

The more difficult principles are taught by lectures, accompanied by practical illustrations and experiments in the laboratory.

During the present year we have added (through the kindness of State Treasurer Brown) to our cabinet of minerals, a fine collection of valuable specimens for the classroom.

TEXT BOOKS.

Olmsted, Peck, Dana and Lyell.

SCHOOL OF CHEMISTRY.

In this School are taught the doctrines of Heat, Light and Electricity in their relation to Chemical Science, Molecular Forces and Conservation of Force. Then the history classification and properties of the elements are considered; then the oxides and their reduction, acids and salts. All the principles are illustrated with suitable apparatus and experiments. Last comes the principles of Chemical Philosophy. Here the theories of the Atomic weights, old and new, and in connection therewith the doctrines of the nomenclature, are discussed.

QUALITATIVE ANALYSIS.

The student begins this course by the separation and classification of the twenty-four more common metals, after the method of Elliott and Storer. Then he passes to a consideration of the salts, the methods for the treatment of the more refractory oxides. Lastly, an application of the principles thus learned to the analysis of soils, ores and natural waters.

QUANTITATIVE ANALYSIS.

This course relates chiefly to the analysis of soils, fertilizers and farm products.

AGRICULTURE.

Under this head are taught those subjects that relate to practical farming; in other words, what is termed Practical Agriculture is here taught. This includes Botany and its relations to Agriculture (see below the report of Professor Hawthorne), also Meteorology in its relations to Agriculture. The next thing to be considered is the soil in its physical qualities, its origin, classification and physical preparation, the various methods of drainage and plowing.

The next subject is the Chemistry of Plants, which leads to a discussion of the origin of the food of plants, and thus we are led to the consideration of the Chemistry of the soil and atmosphere. Improvement of soil is discussed in immediate connection with this subject, when the matter of fertilizers is made prominent—the kinds of fertilizers, their preparation, cost, value, modes of application. Here comes the great question: How can we render available the mineral constituents of the soil, so as to preserve them fertile? I may remark that much progress has been made in solving this, and is still making. After this the student studies the subject of Animal Nutrition, how to use farm products most economically for the various domestic animals; and after this many kindred subjects claim attention, such as the history, habits and cultivation of special crops. The subject of fruit culture is taught (see Report of Prof. Hawthorne below).

The next thing that comes is stock-raising. This we find it impossible for the present to teach, being too much crowded. All the rest, above noticed, is taught in detail.

SCHOOL OF MORAL PHILOSOPHY.

I have charge of this School, also. The class begins this course of study with the subject of Logic, Deductive and Inductive; then the principles of Methodology and Modified Logic claim attention. This includes Analogy. Sometimes a double course of Logic is given. Mental Philosophy comes next, and after that the applications of the principles of Mental Philosophy and Logic, in Rhetoric, and Ethics and Political Economy are considered. This course closes with a study of the History of Philosophy, when all the principal opinions held by men such as have governed mankind come in review.

EXPERIMENTS IN AGRICULTURE.

Experiments here are intended to illustrate the principles taught, and also to develop new principles. Our attention has been directed chiefly to the so-called white soil. I have had several analyses of this soil made, and have made several myself, and in every case we find all the substances necessary to the growth of the plant present. I still believe that if the white soil be thoroughly drained, well plowed and cultivated in green crops for several years, it will produce grain as well as any other soil. I have experimented during the period since my last report with wheat in connection with soda, potash, lime in three forms, ashes, sulphuric acid, marl, chlorine, superphosphate of lime, urine, ammoniated phosphate. Of all these, the last is far the best, hastening the crop and producing a much larger yield. It takes a long time to develop and establish, on sure grounds, principles in agricultural science. When, therefore, we shall have arrived at any principles which are proved beyond doubt, we shall set them down for the guidance of the farming community. It is useless and hurtful to send out half-established opinions for the farmers to experiment with.

GENERAL CONDITION OF THE SCHOOL.

The school is in a healthy condition and well attended. During the two years just closing, there have been in attendance ninety-five agricultural students. They have, in general, been men of sterling worth. The State cannot, in my opinion, do better than to foster such men in their education. Surely, it would be a great blessing to Oregon, if we might say of her citizens what the great Grecian statesman said of the Athenian citizens, that the

"same individual among us proves himself qualified for the most varied kinds of action, and with the most graceful versatility." A steady pursuit of liberal education must bring to our young and growing State wealth and power, and sending out this influence, she must make herself felt both for the present and future generations. I must applaud, therefore, the wisdom of those men, both in the General and State Governments, who are fostering the education of our people.

BUILDING AND APPARATUS.

The Board of Trustees have had an addition made to the College building; this, together with such changes as are to be made in the old building, will give us ample room for several years; until, at least, two other teachers shall be added to the faculty.

Additions to our apparatus have been made every year, so that we are now in a condition to illustrate all the fundamental principles in Chemistry and Physics.

A glass house is to be built this Fall, when we shall be quite well equipped for the business of the College.

I hope, sir, that any apparent imperfections will be excused, when it is recollected that we are all confined to the class-room six hours a day, and occupied from four to five with preparations therefor.

Respectfully submitted,

B. L. ARNOLD.

SCHOOL OF LANGUAGES.

PROF. HAWTHORNE.

President B. L. Arnold:

SIR:—I have the honor to present the following biennial report of this Department:

It is the aim here to teach language as a science, to explain its laws and its construction.

ENGLISH.

The English language is elevated to an equal rank and dignity with the classical languages. It is studied with the same analysis of its philology and structure, and a thorough knowledge of it is acquired by daily recitations in the writings of the best authors. The language itself is studied and the grammar is learned from it, and not the language from the grammar.

Weekly compositions are required.

TEXT BOOKS.

Sprague's English Literature, Brown's Grammar, Whitney's Study of Language, and Select Plays of Shakspeare.

GERMAN.

Whitney's Grammar, Reader, Deutsche Grammatik (Heyse), selections from Goethe, Schiller and other standard authors, Adler's Dictionary.

As soon as the students become familiar with the various inflections, they begin to translate German into English and English into German, continuing meanwhile the study of the Grammar. Following the great American linguist,

Digitized by Google

Prof. W. D. Whitney, of Yale College, I hold that the "study of this language must be, as a rule, chiefly directed to the acquisition of a good reading knowledge of it."

FRENCH.

Otto's Grammar, De Fivas' Classic French Reader, Joynes' French Plays, and Telemaque, Spiers and Surenne's Dictionary.

Frequent exercises are required throughout the course. The classes are thoroughly drilled by daily recitations.

LATIN.

Gildersleeve's Grammar, Reader and Exercise Book.

Cæsar, Virgil's Æneid and Cicero's Orations.

Sallust, Horace's Odes and Epodes, Livy, Horace's Satires and Epistles, and Latin composition.

Juvenal, Cicero de Officiis, and Tacitus.

The Chase & Stuart edition of Latin authors is used in the entire course.

Leverett's Latin Lexicon, Long's Classical Atlas.

Our students manifest great interest in the study of Latin. The classes are generally large, and nearly all the agricultural students seize the opportunity of acquiring a knowledge of the language of science.

A clear philosophical insight into the principles of the language being considered more profitable than a collection of mere facts, students are required to explain the structure of sentences by giving reasons, and to change from oratio recta to oratio obliqua, and vice versa.

GREEK.

Hadley's Grammar, Xenophon's Anabasis (Kendrick), Homer's Iliad (Owen), Greek Testament, Homer's

Digitized by Google

Odyssey, Greek Composition, Alcestis (Euripides), Thucydides, Demosthenes, Liddell and Scott's Lexicon, Smith's Classical Dictionary.

Every member of the classes recites daily; translating and analyzing one day and reciting on grammar the next, with written translations of English into Greek.

GENERAL REMARK.

I would respectfully state that I have actually taught classes in all the subjects above mentioned for the last two years. This has compelled me to labor at least ten hours a day. And in addition to all this work, I teach a class in Botany and also one in Fruit Culture.

BOTANY.

Gray's "How Plants Grow," and the "New Manual of Botany," Lectures.

The structure of plants, their nature and their habits, and the principles in accordance with which they are classified, are studied. Plants are analyzed in the class-room, and vegetable physiology is thoroughly learned. Plants are arranged according to the NATURAL SYSTEM.

Particular attention is given to the grass family, including, besides the true grasses, wheat, barley, rye, oats, rice and Indian corn.

FRUIT CULTURE.

Downing's Selected Fruits.

The course is taught principally by lectures. The leading subjects discussed are as follows:

1. Production of new varieties of fruit.
2. Duration of varieties.

Digitized by Google

3. Propagation of varieties, grafting, budding, cuttings, layers and suckers.

4. Pruning.

5. Transplanting.

6. General remarks on insects.

7. The best varieties of apples, cherries, pears, currants, gooseberries, grapes, peaches, melons, raspberries, blackberries, strawberries and plums.

In conclusion, I wish to add that much praise is due the students in my department for their zeal, close attention and gentlemanly deportment.

Very respectfully,

B. J. HAWTHORNE.

Of the whole number of State and private patients discharged improved, ten remained in the Hospital less than three months; four, less than six months; two, less than nine months; and six over twelve months; and three were removed unimproved within a short time of their admission.

CAUSE OF DEATH.

Twenty-five males and eight females, State patients, have died since my last report. Of these deaths, seven resulted from pulmonary consumption; two from organic disease of the brain; four from exhaustion of chronic mania; four from paralysis and general debility; four from softening of the brain; three from epileptic convulsions; one from general paresis; one from old age and debility; three from exhaustion of acute mania; one from disease of the heart; one from congestion of the brain, and two from suicide.

NATIVITY.

Of the nativity of the two hundred and eighteen patients remaining in the Hospital September 1st, 1876, there are of the several States, as follows:

Of those remaining in the Hospital at this date the form of disease is: Acute mania, 38; chronic mania, 101; epilepsy, 18; dementia, 34; idiocy, 17; melancholy, 6.

Of the whole number of patients in the Hospital, seventy-six are considered curable, one hundred incurable, and forty-two doubtful.

Eleven private patients have been received since my last report. Six have been discharged, two have been transferred to the State, and three still remain in the institution.

The rates of recovery to admissions since my last report is 37½.

The deaths amount to 9¾ per cent. of the whole number treated.

The admissions for the past two years have been fourteen more than the preceeding term.

The highest number of patients under treatment at the Hospital at one time was 218. The lowest number was 192.

The average number of patients under treatment during the whole period was 205½.

The whole number of patients under treatment was, males, 237; females, 99.

The highest humber of males under treatment at any one time was 158. The highest number of females, 60.

The lowest number of males under treatment at any one time was 141. The lowest number of females, 51.

The number of patients in the Hospital September 1st, 1876, is as follows, viz:

The following are the ages of patients: From ten to twenty, 12; from twenty to thirty, 16; from thirty to forty, 84; from forty to fifty, 64; from fifty to sixty, 29; from sixty to seventy, 11; from seventy to eighty, 1; over one hundred, 1.

ESCAPES.

Since my last report, four patients have escaped, of whom one has been returned, leaving three at large.

The per centage of recoveries has not equalled that of previous years, but it is a full average of the various Asylums of other States. The condition of the patients brought here for treatment, was such that we could not reasonably calculate upon the percentage of former years. Indeed, under all the circumstances, I feel that better results could not have been expected, however desirable, when we take into consideration the hopeless condition of many of our patients.

A large number of those placed under treatment were old, and many others broken down in physical health, as well as in mind, several living but a few days or weeks after they were received in the Hospital.

Unfortunately, two cases of suicide have occurred since my last report. Such results will take place in institutions of this character, however carefully guarded and vigilantly watched over.

Two homicides and two suicides in fourteen years, I apprehend, is fully as low a percentage as any other institution of this kind can show, and while it is to be deeply regretted, we have to be satisfied with doing our very best to prevent such results.

The number of deaths is the same as stated in my last report, which makes a less percentage, owing to the greater number under treatment. It is worthy of note that a larger number of deaths have occurred from acute mania and from softening of the brain than heretofore, and also that a less number of deaths have occurred from pulmonary consumption.

With the exception of those of acute mania, death has been the result of, or natural termination, depending directly or indirectly on, the original diseases with which the patients were afflicted at the time of their admission, and of which the mental disturbances were only the symptom.

AMUSEMENTS.

The amusements heretofore in use have been continued, and the patients are encouraged to engage in them, which has afforded healthy exercise, and to some degree, directed their minds from their own real or supposed troubles.

SANITARY CONDITION.

General health has prevailed amongst the household, and epidemic or general sickness has not intruded upon us. To the feeble, tonics and stimulants, together with the most digestible and nutritious diet, have restored their energies and fortified them against disease. Out-door exercise has greatly assisted in promoting the present desirable sanitary condition.

Of the appropriation made by the Legislature of 1872, for the purpose of assisting those who, having recovered, wish to return to their friends or home, there remains the sum of one hundred and one and 10-100, dollars.

I have used great economy in the expenditure of this fund, and am satisfied that it has done much good, and would advise that a small appropriation be added to that already on hand.

The railroads, as I learn, will not give hereafter half-fare tickets, and the cost of sending patients over these routes will, in the future, be greater than in the past.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS.

In behalf of the inmates of the Asylum, I take pleasure in acknowledging the receipt from J. S. Pearson, New York City, of 120 vols. bound books, one hundred Stereoscopic views, periodicals, etc.; from Rev. T. L. Eliot, two copies weekly New York "Tribune," periodicals, papers, etc.; from Mr. St. John, a large package of the "Scientific American;" to the McGibeny troupe, for a pleasing entertainment given in the Assembly Hall; to the Revs. Doane, Dillon, Wrixon and Eliot, for religious services in the afternoon, and to Rev. Father Glorieaux for services in the morning of one Sunday in each month.

To Dr. C. C. Strong, State Visiting Physician, my acknowledgements are due for professional aid. To all who have shared with me the responsibilities and labor incident to such an institution, and to whose efforts much of whatever success has been achieved, is due, and for their kindness, forbearance and tenderness towards those under their immediate charge, I return my cordial thanks.

To Your Excellency, I acknowledge my obligations for the courtesy you have extended to me, and for the interest you have displayed in the welfare of those under my charge.

In conclusion, I must be permitted to express the hope that in the future, as in the past, the Representatives of the people of our State will continue to provide for the wants and necessities of our fellow-citizens who have had, or may chance the have, the misfortune to be deprived of their reason.

Taking the number of counties represented above, we have one insane person for every 416.6 persons; but if we take the entire population of the State (several counties are not represented in the above enumeration) we have one insane person for every 424.9 persons in the State.

In May, 1875, Edward Chamberlain, a farmer, owning a small piece of land among the hills of Washington county, was committed.

The history of the case is about as follows: He was first examined by two physicians and pronounced sane and discharged. The same parties who had the first complaint issued, a short time afterwards swore out another, and had him re-examined. One of the physicians who had pronounced him sane upon the first examination, now declared him insane, and this, with the testimony of another physician, secured his commitment to the Asylum.

He had hardly been received before word was sent me, that many persons in the country did not consider him insane. For my more thorough information, I sent and obtained copies of all the commitment papers, when the facts above enumerated, together with what seemed to me to be fatal irregularities, were discovered.

Digitized by Google

I had, in the meantime, most thoroughly examined Mr. Chamberlain, and Dr. J. C. Hawthorne and myself agreed that he was not insane, but of a highly nervous temperament. These facts I communicated to Mr. Chamberlain, who expressed a wish that if there were any doubts upon the subject, he might be furnished work and kept for a time. Thinking that perhaps in this way we could best satisfy his neighbors and friends, we consented, and he was set to work in the garden. He was treated in all respects as an ordinary patient, being kept under close observation for a week or two, when nothing having occurred to change our opinions as to his sanity, he was discharged, and we have not heard from him since.

While it is a rare thing for a sane person to be sent to an insane asylum, and where the result does more to prejudice the public mind against so valuable and necessary an institution, the greatest care should be exercised. One case of that kind will do more to influence the public mind against an asylum, than the result of many cures, where they owe their restoration to health to the good and scientific care of such institutions, the best place for the treatment of all cases of that diseased condition of the physical man, called insanity.

Admitting the possibility of such mistakes, it becomes our imperative duty to use the utmost care, calling to our aid all the means accessible.

Where two physicians—and I am now speaking of well read and regularly graduated physicians—differ, the County Judge should not commit a man without calling to his aid the best medical talent obtainable, and one who is above the influences of prejudice—a man who has the courage to say what he means, and means what he says. And great care should be had in examining the patient and other witnesses.

It is a well established fact—perhaps not as fully recognized as it should be—that insanity is a DISEASE of the nervous centers, sometimes approaching slowly, at others rapidly, and all cases, as a general rule, tending sooner or later either to become chronic or lead to rapid death. The sooner this fact is recognized by the professional man, as well as by the public, so much the sooner will that injurious prejudice to insane asylums be removed.

Philanthropic humanity, as well as public economy, demands that all insane persons should be treated upon the first manifestation of that disease; for medical experience teaches that just in proportion to the time when proper treatment is commenced will be the proportion of cures. Dr. Thurman, a distinguished writer on the subject, states that if cases were treated within three months of the first attack, four-fifths would recover. But if twelve months elapsed, four-fifths were incurable, and so in proportion, as the time is longer or shorter.

He adds: "The importance of placing the patient under proper care at an early period of the disorder is not only apparent from a comparison of the results of treatment, but is equally inculcated by that aggravation of the disorder and increased difficulty of management, which are the nearly uniform results when persons attacked with insanity are detained at home, where they are surrounded by near relatives, or by servants, whose attempts to control them, which they naturally resist, generally prove either futile or injurious.

The friends of the patient are not always aware of these facts, but when they are, are too often reluctant to stamp the case with the character, or, as some think, with the stigma of confirmed insanity.

It is believed, however, that more correct views, with respect to mental disorders, and such as cannot but prove advantageous to the patient, are gradually diffusing themselves in the public mind.

I have quoted the above to show that all cases of insanity should be brought to the notice of skilled medical men as soon and as promptly as any of the other severe disorders.

Owing to the general want of information as to the nature and curability of insanity, delay is the common rule, till often the period at which the most good could have been done is passed.

The prejudice against asylums should be removed, and in furtherance of that object it should be the effort of those having the disposal of that class of unfortunates, to see and know, that in all cases, those having the care of the insane possess the high characteristics of honor and humanity, with a thorough knowledge of that disease and adaptability to that specialty.

Nor should they be committed to the hands of unexperienced men, who often take them for the purpose of making money.

It is a well established fact in our profession that we cannot all become equally proficient in all its branches, making it necessary for each man, who hopes and expects to reach eminence in the medical profession, to select some one of its numerous branches and to that devote the best energies of his life.

Just so with the study of insanity; those who have devoted the best part of their lives to the work, are better prepared to treat such cases than those of us who are engaged in general practice.

All cases should be sent to the asylum as soon as the first symptoms of insanity become well marked. The prevalent opinion, that attendance at the asylum only tends to make permanent that which may last but for a short time, is wrong. By transferring from their homes, where the delusions originated, and where the surroundings and circumstances are favorable to their continuance, breaks in and changes, as it were, the current of the mind. This is often a great step toward a cure.

Whenever you can convince a man that he is insane, when he mistrusts his sanity and comes to realize his true condition, you have then accomplished the first as well as the most important step, not only toward his cure, but in his management and conduct.

I venture the assertion that more cures are effected in a well regulated asylum than are accomplished in the domestic treatment of insanity by the generality of medical men, and am satisfied that many cases, if sent to an asylum soon enough, could be returned in a much shorter time to their friends, and so cease to become a burden to the State.

It is the poorest economy to place the insane upon the smallest possible allowance. Humanity demands, and that justly, that as they are not capable of aiding themselves, that we provide well for such unfortunates.

But humanity, as well as public economy, demands that some provision be made for furnishing good homes for those who are discharged, cured or improved, and who have no place to go to; if not, they will be placed under influences favorable to again develop the disease, and thus are liable to be returned to become chronic incurable cases, becoming an annual expense to the tax-payer as long as they may live.

The better to carry out the above principles, I would most respectfully recommend that provision be made whereby the Superintendent might be enabled to attend the meetings of the Superintendents of the Insane, which takes place once a year in some portion of the United States, which meetings the Superintendents of most of the leading asylums attend; also, persons from Europe. In the East, the distance is so short that Superintendents can avail themselves of so important a means of improvement to themselves, to those committed to to their care and to the State. But the expense of going from here annually is greater than most Superintendents can afford. But the State, in providing for the expenses of the trip there and back, would be at a small outlay annually, while the benefit to accrue would be of general good, and be the means of saving more than the original cost to the State.

Some arrangement should be made by which he should embody in a report to the State the information obtained each year, in such a form as to be accessible to all the medical men of the State.

Also, the State should provide means for the suitable study of this important branch of the medical profession. This could be accomplished in a very simple, inexpensive way, by making provision for furnishing the Asylum with a suitable library upon this subject, which should be free to all persons who are willing to visit the Asylum for the purpose of consulting the works therein. The cost would be but a trifle, and as each year added to a well-selected nucleus, the benefit to accrue to the State would many times repay the cost. The library would also be of great service to the State in the trial of State cases, where the plea of insanity is set up. Tax-payers are not inclined to object to money properly expended to save expense, but have a right to object to the cost of maintaining for life persons who might have been restored to health and able not only to earn their own support, but contribute to the support of the State.

With reference to the management of the Asylum for the last two years I can find no fault.

The building is situated in a healthy locality, near enough the city to secure all its practicable benefits, without its attending disadvantages, as bad water, poor milk, impure air, inefficient drainage, sewerage, etc.

Dr. Hawthorne has added two large wards, besides enlarging two of the old ones, by extending the south wing and building on a T, and otherwise improving the place, adding many comforts, for the benefit of those committed.

I have visited the Asylum at all conceivable times without in a single case letting them know of my coming, each time going through the entire building, inspecting carefully the bedding, bath-rooms, water-closets, store-rooms, bakery, kitchen, and in fact everything connected with the care and management of the insane, and at all times have found the wards clean, bedding clean, in good order and sufficient. The bread is sweet and well made, and the kitchen is a model of cleanliness and order.

The patients are provided with good meats of all kinds. The milk is pure and rich, being furnished from cows kept on the place. Chickens and turkeys are also provided—the inmates always having a turkey dinner on the Fourth of July, Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year, as well as other times.

There being a well conducted garden attached to the place, the supply of potatoes, cabbages and other vegetables is abundant, and of the best quality. Fruit of all kinds is also grown on the place, and is provided in sufficient quantity.

All the water used about the building is obtained from a pure, never failing, abundant spring, and is distributed to all parts of the building through pipes; the provision against fire is good.

The medicines are all purchased from good and reliable houses, and I have always found them of the best quality as well as of sufficient variety to meet all the wants of the inmates.

I have at all times carefully and attentively listened to all complaints and examined into them, but am happy to state that they have always come from those insane, and proved to have resulted from the disordered mind, without the least thing to substantiate them.

I am under obligations to Dr. Hawthorne, the Superintendent, and Mr. Kenworthy, as well as to others, for the kindness and patience which they have always extended to me.

With feelings of gratitude to you for your confidence and support, I have the honor to subscribe myself,

Yours, very respectfully,

CURTIS C. STRONG,

Visiting Physician to the Asylum for the Insane.

REPORT.

OFFICE OF THE BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS FOR THE ERECTION OF STATE CAPITOL BUILDING,
SALEM, Oregon, September 1, 1876.

To the Honorable Legislative Assembly of the State of Oregon:

We have the honor to submit the following report:

After having duly qualified as required by law, the Board organized on the 18th of December, 1874, by the election of H. Stapleton, President of the Board, and P. L. Willis, Clerk.

As soon after our organization as detailed specifications of the work to be done could be prepared, advertisements were published as required by law for the proposals to furnish iron work on the building. As the work progressed, proposals to do other work on the building were advertised for, and our proceedings in this respect may be summarized as follows:

PROPOSALS TO FURNISH IRON WORK.

The expenditures reported for quarter ending October

Digitized by Google

31, 1876, include only expenses incurred up to, and including, August 31, 1876.

The report of our predecessors in office shows the total expenditures up to the close of their official term to have been.....$110,801 60
Add expenditures of this Board..... 90,927 03

Making total cost of building to this date...$201,728 63

The amendments to the law creating a Board of Commissioners for the erection of a State Capitol Building, passed at the last session of the Legislatve Assembly, imposed upon this Board the duty of oompleting so much of the Capitol as is comprised in the following rooms, to-wit: Two Executive rooms; two Secretary of State's rooms and vault; one Treasurer's room and vault; the Senate Chamber; the Supreme Court rooms and Consulattion room; the State Library room; three Committee rooms, two wash rooms, and two water closets. The estimates of this work, submitted by our predecessors, placed the cost at $110,843 31. We have performed the work assigned to us, at a total cost of $90,927 03, or $19,916 28 less than the estimated cost.

CAPITOL BUILDING LANDS.

No sales have been made during the last two years, for the reason that no part of the selections have been approved until within the last sixty days. The final approvals being made, these lands will be in the market, as other public lands.

THE SWAMP LANDS.

There have been selected during the last two years nearly 150,000 acres, which make the number of acres, in all, selected, 324,219.97. Of this tract, there have only been 1,336.39 acres approved to the State, and many persons who have made deposits of the 20 per centum of the purchase money, have made application for the return of the same, for the reason that large tracts of these lands have been settled upon by pre-emptors, and for the reason that the lands are not approved to the State, the State not being able to give title to the same. The amount of $1,546 46, deposited by Jesse Applegate, has been withdrawn; also, the sum of $1,300, deposited by A. N. King, has been withdrawn, for reason above stated. Several other smaller amounts have also been withdrawn, for same reason.

A detailed statement of all the transactions of this class of land will be placed in the hands of the Committee on Lands.

BIENNIAL REPORT

OF THE

PILOT COMMISSIONERS.

To the Honorable the Senate and House of Representatives of the State of Oregon:

General Laws of Oregon, edition of 1874, chapter xlv., title i., paragragh 2, page 706, is as follows:

"The Legislative Assembly shall biennially elect three Pilot Commissioners, who are experienced in nautical affairs, and who shall constitute said Board; and said Board may appoint a Secretary, and fix his compensation, whose duty it shall be to keep correct minutes of all the proceedings of the Commissioners, in books to be provided by them for that purpose, and register the names of all Pilots, with the dates of their license or branch and place of residence. Also, to keep a register of all vessels arriving and departing, their class, tonnage, draft of water, and amount received for pilotage and towage."

In compliance with said Act, D. K. Warren, A. Van Dusen and Wm. Wadhams were duly elected by the Legislative Assembly, and commissioned by Gov. Grover, as Pilot Commissioners on the Columbia and Willamette rivers. Wm. Wadhams was duly elected Chairman of the Board, and D. C. Ireland was appointed Clerk of said Board.

Entering upon the discharge of our duties, we found no book at all suitable for the purposes of the Board, in which to keep a record of arrivals and departures of vessels, nor could we find that any such record has heretofore been kept. We procured such a book as is required, and we herewith submit our biennial report, showing the arrivals and departure of vessels from September 1, 1874, to Sept. 1, 1876—two complete years.

We find no provision in the law for payment of Clerk's compensation, nor any allowance for stationery, office rent or office furniture. Faithfully to perform the duties of Clerk, requires much time and attention, and we respectfully report that D. C. Ireland has performed said duties in the most creditable and satisfactory manner, as the accompanying statistical report shows, and we recommend that he be paid for such service the sum of fifty dollars per month from August 31, 1874, to Sept. 1, 1876.

The contract between Capt. Geo. Flavel and the State, in regard to pilotage and towage on the Columbia river bar, expired in 1875. So far as known to this Board, said contract was faithfully performed by the contracting party.

Your Commissioners, having carefully considered the growing importance of the commerce of Oregon, and believing the law now governing pilotage on the Columbia and Willamette rivers defective, have had prepared a law, which, if enacted, we confidently believe will protect the commercial interests of the State. Copy of said law is herewith submitted, and its passage earnestly recommended.

Respectfully, Yours,

WM. WADHAMS,

Chairman Board Pilot Commissioners.

OF THE

CLERK OF BOARD OF PILOT COMMISSIONERS,

FOR THE

PILOTS.

All branches issued to Pilots by former Boards of Commissioners, for the Columbia and Willamette rivers, were revoked by resolution, adopted December 22, 1874, taking effect January 26, 1875, at which time the Board met at nine o'clock A. M., in Astoria, pursuant to notice, for the purpose of considering applications and attending to the renewal of branches. The following applications were presented:

From Eric Johnson—For a branch to pilot on Columbia river bar, in the employ of the steam "tug Astoria."

From P. E. Ferchen, H. A. Snow, Granville Reed, M. M. Gilman, Richard Hoyt, P. Johnson, Hiram Brown, Irving Stevens, J. H. D. Gray and Geo. A. Pease, for branches to pilot on the waters of the Columbia and Willamette rivers.

In consequence of the fact that the rivers were closed by ice above Astoria, and communication shut off, preventing the attendance of Mr. Wadhams, Chairman of the Board, the meeting adjourned, without action, until February 11, 1875, at which time a full attendance of the Board was had, and on the applications of January 26, branches were issued as follows :

PILOTS ON THE RIVERS.

Hiram Brown, P. E. Ferchen, Granville Reed, Richard Hoyt, Irving Stevens, H. A. Snow, M. M. Gilman, P. Johnson. Branches were also issued to Eric Johnson and Eli Hilton, to pilot on Columbia river bar, in the employ of the steam tug "Astoria." All branches to be in full force until November 1, 1876, unless sooner revoked for cause.

Applications for branches to pilot on Columbia and Willamette rivers, were also filed at the meeting in behalf of J. W. Babbage and I. N. Fisher.

April 12, 1875, branch to pilot on Columbia river bar, in the employ of the steam tug "Astoria," was issued to Thomas Doig; branch to expire November 1, 1876, unless sooner revoked for cause.

August 7, 1876, branch to pilot on Columbia river bar, in the employ of the steam tug "Astoria," was issued to M. D. Staples, branch to expire November 1, 1876, unless sooner revoked for cause.

PILOTS ON BAR SEPTEMBER 1, 1876.

Eric Johnson, Eli Hilton, Thomas Doig, M. D. Staples.

STATISTICS OF SHIPPING.

During the period of two years, from the date of this report, September 1, 1874, to September 1, 1876, (at which time 23 vessels, with an aggregate tonnage of 13,382 tons, were in port), 457 vessels have arrived from sea,

REPORT.

To the Honorable the Senate and House of Representatives of the State of Oregon:

Your Board, created by an Act of the Legislature, approved October 28, 1874, to attend to the immigration interests of this State, was duly commissioned by the Governor in November, 1874, but was not organized till January, 1875.

The Legislature having failed to make an appropriation to carry into effect the objects of this Board, contributions had to be solicited from the citizens of Portland, by whose aid alone, together with valuable assistance from the Land Department of the Oregon and California Railroad Company, has the Board been sustained, and done the State and immigrants, who have since arrived, valuable service.

A Secretary, without salary, and an Assistant Secretary, with salary, were appointed in February, 1875, who have since continued in office and given the Board their services, being in daily attendance on immigrants. A special agent was appointed for distribution of circulars and pamphlets on the Union Pacific Railroad, and a salaried agent was sent from Oregon to San Francisco, with an office provided for him there, in order to give immigrants arriving in that city from the East and from California all information as to Oregon, whose duty it is also to see that such immigrants are sent to this State. These agents have done good service; and the Board is much indebted to the Oregon Steamship Company and the Oregon Steam Navigation Company for the contributions which they have made for paying the San Francisco agent's salary and office rent.

On the recommendation and request of your Board, the Governor has issued (under the Immigration Act, approved October 24, 1874) twenty-four special commissions to gentlemen carefully selected by us, as Oregon Immigration Commissioners in sister States and foreign countries, of which ten are residing in Europe, ten in the United States, two in New Zealand and two in Canada. These gentlemen are in regular communication with the Board, and have forwarded numbers of immigrants into Oregon.

The Board has also at Astoria a paid distributor of cards or circulars from this Board, whose duty consists in delivering, on the arrival of each San Francisco steamer at Astoria, cards to immigrants on board, stating the objects of your Commission, and earnestly pressing such immigrants, on their arrival at Portland, to call at the immigration rooms there, and receive all necessary information and guidance to enable them to settle in the various portions of the State. The Board of Trade of Portland for upward of a year tendered their rooms for the use of immigrants, rent free, and thereafter the Secretary (Mr. Reid) has, during the last six months, also tendered to the Immigration Board, rent free, a reception room for the use of immigrants and Assistant Secretary.

A record has been kept of the number of letters received by the Board in relation to immigration, which was 5,616 for the eighteen months preceding September 9, 1876, principally from persons in the Eastern States and from Oregon's Commissioners of Immigration abroad, the majority of which letters had to be separately answered in writing, as they contained various pointed questions asked in relation to this State. This Board has printed nine different circulars relating to Oregon's resources, climate, and lands for sale, in all, 147,500 copies printed, of which there have been distributed in the East and in California, abroad, in Canada, New Zealand and elsewhere, and to intending immigrants 83,000 copies, in addition to which the Board received from Henry Villard, Esq., President of the O. & C. R. R. Co., a donation of 15,000 pamphlets, with maps of Western Oregon. The Eastern branch of the State Board of Immigration at Boston inform us that they have, at their own expense, distributed in the Eastern States 50,000 copies of pamphlets and 25,000 circulars; have received over 8,000 letters from persons, as to Oregon, the most of which they have answered in writing; that they advertised the resources of Oregon continually for two years in forty-five different newspapers in New England and Western States and European countries. For the Centennial Exhibition at Philadelphia, the Eastern branch also printed, at their own cost, a special edition of pamphlets, 20,000 copies of which were sent to the Oregon Department of the Centennial for distribution. In short, they inform this Board that their united expenditure for immigration purposes during the last two years has been over $24,000.

Keeping these facts in view, your honorable body will see that the assistance derived by this Board and the State from the labors of the Boston branch of the Oregon Immigration Board and the Land Department of the

The circulars delivered on board the steamers at Astoria, requesting immigrants to call at the immigration rooms, have had the desired effect; consequently immigrants come daily to the rooms, where they are received by the Assistant Secretary and Secretary, and frequently by the Commissioners. All information is afforded them, and their various wants, so far as in the Board's power to supply, are attended to. Those who arrive in search of labor, receive whatever employment is open in the Board's labor record book. Direct orders for help are received, and those not so provided are directed to such localities as offer best inducements, and furnished with letters to enable them to secure employment. This Labor Record is of much importance to the Board, as it gives the immigrant courage, relieves distress, and prevents useless waste of his means while in search of employment. If taken more advantage of by the citizens of the State, much more good would follow to the immigrant and those employers of labor, farmers and such like. Immigrants in search of lands are handed lists of private lands for sale (which lists contain answers to the Board's advertisements in most of the Oregon newspapers for descriptions of lands for sale, for use of immigrants.) The Board does not undertake the sale of such lands, however, leaving the owner and purchaser to complete whatever bargains they may mutually agree upon, and the immigrant to choose which of the farms he prefers. All information is given of State and Government lands, and where located, all over the State.

If, as frequently happens, complaints are made by immigrants of being imposed on by sharpers, these complaints are investigated, and the proper authorities communicated with. Occasionally the Board has had in court to watch the interests of immigrants of whom an advantage was being taken by unprincipled persons.

The Board sometime ago concluded contracts with one of the Atlantic steamship companies to carry emigrants to Oregon from Europe to New York at half the usual rates. This contract has been largely taken advantage of, and will not expire till the 5th of May, 1879. Arrangements were made, and still in force, by which the Oregon Steamship Company carry all persons, certified by the Oregon Commissioners or one of the Foreign Commissioners of Emigration as bona fide emigrants to Portland, at modified rates of fare in the steerage, while the California Railroad Company agreed to carry all immigrants when they first arrive in Portland to their destination "up country" at half fares, at which rates, in 1875, they carried 3,900 persons, and in 1876, to the 7th of September, 2,100 persons. These benefits are largely taken advantage of, and persons lately from the East and Europe frequently, in consequence, receive from the Board such certificates to bring their friends here.

Circulars were forwarded by one of the Multnomah county Granges to every Grange in Oregon, asking answers as to the advantages, resources, products and prices in every locality, from which answers your Board selected one in every county and printed for each county the information so given by such county Grange. 50,000 circulars of this nature were printed for circulation.

It is the Board's experience that a careful distribution of samples of Oregon's products is of vast service in inducing immigration to our shores. Consequently a large assortment of samples is kept in the Board's rooms at Portland and forwarded by us to each of the States' foreign commissioners and to certain parties seeking such information as to our products. To various museums in Europe, to a few States and to New Zealand, have been forwarded assorted samples of Oregon grains, which, we are informed, are permanently kept on exhibition, the fruits of which are seen from the letters of persons who have observed these samples writing to us for further information.

It is difficult to procure an accurate statement of the arrivals in and departures from our State, so as to ascertain definitely our increase of population. But judging from the most reliable data we have obtained, we believe that during the last twenty months 11,213 immigrants have arrived in this State. The large majority of immigrants come from the Western and Northwestern States, a good number from Europe and New England States, and from New Zealand; from which latter colony your Board procured the names of 5,000 persons, principally sheep and agricultural farmers, to whom were mailed 5,000 copies of a printed circular, describing Eastern Oregon as a sheep country, and Western Oregon as a grain growing section. Already many immigrants have arrived from New Zealand, and judging from the letters we receive and the opinions expressed by our Immigration Commissioners in that colony, a larger number will follow next year.

Without the generous assistance in money, contributed by the people of Portland, the Board feels satisfied that its labors could not have been successfully conducted, and while the Board cheerfully offers to continue its services to the State, as heretofore, without compensation, yet it respectfully begs to represent to your honorable body that its funds are now exhausted, and the people of Portland feel that they ought not, in future, to alone bear the necessary expense which is annually entailed in sustaining your State Board of Immigration. If the State's resources are to be developed and its immigrants guided and protected after their arrival here—which we submit is the State's duty so to do—Portland will, in taxation, naturally bear her share, it being about one-fourth of whatever sum the State should appropriate for immigration purposes; and as the benefits derived from an increase of our agricultural population, which we so much need, are not limited to Portland, but scattered among all classes of the State, especially in the enhanced value of farm lands, your Board respectfully ask your honorable body to appropriate at least $4,000 per year for two years for immigration purposes. As every section of Oregon is directly benefitted and shares in the fruits of immigration, so much needed for our State, it is but right that all should share in whatever expense is incurred.

Your honorable body is aware, we presume, that State Immigration Boards exist in Minnesota, Kansas and Missouri, and most other Western States, and in all the British colonies. That the State of Minnesota and Kansas have, through their Immigration Board, increased their populations from 107,110 persons in 1860, to 364,399 in 1870, and Minnesota from 172,022 in 1860 to 439,706 in 1870; also, that the Department of State report at Washington, D. C., showed on 30th of March, 1870, that 345,653 immigrants had arrived, two-thirds of whom had gone to the Western States. The Commissioner of Immigration at Castle Garden, New York, estimates the worth to a State in labor, and the money which each immigrant brings with him at $1,275 in value. Taking it for granted even that the 11,213 persons who arrived within this State during the last two years only contributed $500 each, instead of $1,275, toward the development of the State resources, the State will, in taxation alone, derive from the settlement of these persons at least $10,000. Consequently, your Board respectfully submits that whatever State appropriation is voted for immigration purposes will be returned to the State twofold in taxes alone; so that, practically, the immigrants themselves, after their arrival in Oregon, will repay to the State considerably more in taxes than the appropriation voted for bringing them hither. It is unnecessary for us to remark that beyond the pecuniary benefits so derived in taxes by the State, our various industries, and especially agriculture, will, by a continued flow of immigration, instead of lying dormant, be sustained, and thus increase our trade and commerce, and benefits be felt by all classes.

Your Board would humbly represent that, in their opinion, next to railroad connection with the East, this matter of immigration is of vital importance to the State, and ought to receive what your Board respectfully asks—the careful consideration of your honorable body.

ASTORIA, Oregon, September 1, 1876.

Hon. L. F. Grover, Governor—SIR: Since my last report there have been no diseases of a contagious character coming under my notice, at this port, requiring the exercise of quarantine regulations. I might say, however, that during this time most of the seaports in communication with this harbor, excepting the recent outbreak of small-pox in San Francisco, have, so far as my knowledge extends, been comparatively free from infection.

From a careful examination as to the sanitary condition and health of the passengers and crews of vessels from Asiatic and other foreign ports, I have to report that I find no contagious diseases from this source. All such, or nearly so, that have come under my observation have been by ocean steamer, or other coasting vessels, from San Francisco, during the recent epidemic that has and still prevails there. I have made careful examination, by personal inspection and inquiry, of all vessels arriving from that port, as I did in the recent case of the John L. Stephens, and I pronounce the charges made against me by the press as base and malicious falsehoods, made without any knowledge of the facts in the case. I have at all times endeavored to discharge the duties of office with fidelity and to the best of my ability.

Digitized by Google

The law is defective in some respects. The penalties for disobedience by masters and others in charge of vessels should be made higher, and should extend to all persons mentioned in the Act, in a sum sufficient to insure respect to the law; and a sufficient number of the laws, so amended, be printed, in pamphlet form, for distribution to pilots and masters of vessels on entering the port.

I would further recommend the purchase of grounds by the State for quarantine purposes, and the erection of suitable buildings thereon for the accommodation of persons infected with disease.

I am, respectfully,

Your obedient servant,

S. W. DODD, M. D.,

Health Officer.

REPORT.

STATE LIBRARY ROOMS,
SALEM, OREGON,
September 1, 1876.

To the Honorable the Senate and Assembly of the State of Oregon:

I have the honor to submit the following report of the Oregon State Library for the biennial term about to close.

Annexed hereto is a catalogue of the books now in the Library.

The first containing a list of Digests of Reports and Reports;

The second, a list of Statutes, Congressional and Legislative journals and documents, etc.;

And the third, a list of Miscellaneous books containing the Text Books of the Library.

There are now belonging to the Library 7,384 volumes.

There have been added to the Library during this term 1,026 volumes, received in exchange for the different publications of this State, excepting 178, purchased by Chief Justice B. F. Bonham of the Supreme Court of the State of Oregon.

For the incidental expenses of the Library, I refer you to the report of Hon. S. F. Chadwick, Secretary of State, as Superintendent of the Library, who has paid all the expenses of this office.

I append to this report a list of newspapers received at this time at the Library.

In conclusion, I would respectfully beg leave to recommend to your honorable body that the Act of 1872, creating a fund of $750 per year for the purpose of making such additions to the Library from time to time as may be deemed necessary by the Chief Justice of Oregon, be reduced to the sum of $500 per year, as I think that amount will be sufficient to keep up the Library with our system of exchanging with other States.

Most respectfully submitted,

A. F. WAGNER,
State Librarian.
